Area students tour modern manufacturing facilities to explore career opportunities

Information compiled by Tony Carton
Editor

STATELINE — Many people have an idea of manufacturing facilities as dirty and unpleasant places to work, but to disprove that antiquated idea, the second annual National Manufacturing Day tour as hosted by Tri-County Economic Development Alliance (TCEDA) provided an opportunity for nearly 230 area high school students to experience modern, technology-driven manufacturing facilities first-hand.

“Part of our message is there are career opportunities with many of these manufacturers that have finance people and attorneys and engineers, so there are professional opportunities that require a degree, but there are also opportunities that you don’t need a degree for, so there are options for careers here,” said TCEDA Executive Director Lisa McCarthy.

TCEDA toured manufacturing facilities with students from Tri-State Christian, Galena, Scales Mound, River Ridge, Stockton, Eastland, West Carroll high schools, and the Career and Technical Education Academy. The students learned about regional manufacturers and had an opportunity to ask questions about careers in manufacturing.

Tours were conducted at Rentech Nitrogen LLC, Signcraft Screenprint, Honeywell, MacLean-Fogg – Metform, Elkay Manufacturing Co., Mills Machine and Cotton Expressions.

“We had a group of about 170 students last year then word spread and I think the guidance counselors understand that the exposure is beneficial to their students and some of them hoped that their entire sophomore class could come, so we’re trying to accommodate as many students as possible and still have the students have a good experience and see the presentations and walk the floor and understand what’s going on,” McCarthy said.

According to Brian Harger, M.S., EDFP, research assistant from the Center for Governmental Studies, Northern Illinois University, manufacturing jobs have higher employee compensation than other sectors. Despite a decline in employment in Northwest Illinois, earnings per job in manufacturing are still more than 1.5 times the regional average for all sectors, according to a 2013 study. Although the service sector employs more people, earnings per job are 29 percent below the regional average and the rate of earnings growth has been relatively weak.

Manufacturing Day participants had an opportunity to receive the book Strength

Quest via a lottery. The book includes an online assessment of top five strengths and an action plan for using those strengths in their life. Sponsors of the books include TCEDA, Midwest Technical Institute, Rentech Nitrogen LLC and United Way of Northwest Illinois.

Sheriffs encourage law enforcement to issue ‘warnings’ for expired license stickers STATELINE — LaSalle County Sheriff Tom Templeton, 2015 Illinois Sheriffs’ Association President, is asking local and state law enforcement to use their discretion and issue warnings rather than citations for expired license plate stickers.

“The lack of state budget changes the dynamics. Secretary White has done an outstanding job of notifying the public of upcoming expirations but all that has changed with the budget impasse,” Templeton stated. “Law enforcement officers have vast discretion in issuing traffic and equipment citations. Here is an opportunity to assist our citizens rather than penalize them for something beyond their control.”

Templeton suggested that if the sticker has not been expired for more than 60 days we should be advising our citizens that they need to address the problem. For further information or to receive an e-mail notification please visit www.cyberdriveillinois.com.

The Illinois Sheriffs’ Association, a non-profit organization supported entirely by contributions, was founded in 1928. Originally, its purpose was to create better communication and cooperation between Sheriffs and encourage more professional training and growth. Over the years, the ISA has expanded its goals and objectives to include training and development for Sheriffs and their support teams. Visit our website www.ilsheriff.org

United Way of Northwest Illinois Executive Director Tiffany Nieman explained her organization's desire to be involved in Manufacturing Day.

"United Way works to improve quality of life related to education, income (financial stability), and health," she said. "We believe that education, awareness, and training are major components to ensure financial stability for individuals and families. Therefore it is our desire to partner with entities such as TCEDA to bring awareness, education and training to shed light on career paths that are available right here in Northwest Illinois. The volunteer committee associated with Manufacturing Day has planned a "hands-on" event to showcase many different career paths available in Northwest Illinois. Keeping local talent improves our local workforce, which will in turn help current businesses grow and attract new business opportunities to our region. Manufacturing Day is just one example of an opportunity to improve our local workforce, which we believe benefits us all."

Highland Community College is also a sponsor and has been involved in the planning for the event, along with the TCEDA Education and Workforce Development Committee.

Scott Anderson, dean of business and technology at Highland, would like Manufacturing Day to provide greater opportunities for awareness, and help young students become aware of the opportunities for manufacturing careers through this event. Highland College course catalogues were available for students to indicate their potential interest in various careers and career training.

Jo Daviess Stephenson Counties ten and under youth fall baseball league ends 2015 season

STATELINE — More than thirty area youngsters, all under the age of ten participated in a new fall baseball league designed to give players a chance to continue to improve upon their skills.

Players from River Ridge, Galena, Stockton, Warren, Lena, Dakota, Pearl City, Freeport, Scales Mound and even as far away as Dixon met every Sunday for the last seven weeks at different local venues to play. Players were divided into three teams for the first three weeks, with several players not knowing many of their new teammates. Stats were kept on the season, with players earning points for taking walks, base-hits, scoring runs, and RBI's. Each player was also awarded win points based on how their team performed that day. After three weeks, teams were split up again based on their stats. This made for three more weeks of new teammates and some very competitive baseball games. No team won a game by more than two runs. The last week of the season was a skills competition day, with players participating in a hitting contest, home run contest, golden arm challenge, and road runner challenge.

The main purpose of the league was to give local kids a chance to keep playing baseball. An even better result was many players walked away from the

Berry School to be held in Elizabeth

ELIZABETH — Blackberries, strawberries, raspberries, and blueberries are on the agenda for University of Illinois Extension's Produce for Profit: Berry School in Elizabeth this fall.

Adventures await in 4-H

STATELINE — Six million youth across the country will celebrate National 4-H Week Oct. 4-10. 4-H youth development programs provide hands-on learning activities for youth that focus on leadership, citizenship and, most importantly, life skills. The 4-H program is operated through University of Illinois Extension and is open to youth aged 5 to 18.

There are several ways to participate in 4-H. Youth may join a traditional 4-H community club, participate in Special Interest (SPIN) Clubs, or participate through short term projects held during school or at after school youth organizations. "It doesn't matter which type of club youth join" said Lori Tessoroff, Stephenson County 4-H Program Coordinator, "they learn about caring for the environment, preparing for a career, making healthy choices and many other topics of interest which build a person's life skills. Members may select from over 100 different project areas to study while they build

VIEWPOINT

National Helping Families in Mental Health Crisis Day is October 7

From the offices of US Congressman Tim Murphy
WASHINGTON D.C. — Congressman Tim Murphy expressed his frustration regarding Congress foot-dragging on his bipartisan Helping Families in Mental Health Crisis Act, H.R. 2646, on CNN's New Day this morning following yesterday's tragedy in Roseburg, Oregon when a gunman opened fire at Umpqua Community College killing at least nine people and wounding several others.

Last week more than 20 organizations in the mental health and substance abuse community sent a letter to House Energy and Commerce Chairman Fred Upton and Ranking Member Frank Pallone urging the committee to undertake and markup meaningful mental health reform legislation. H.R. 2646 currently boasts 128 cosponsors and endorsements from newspaper editors, physicians, and parents of children with mental illness.

"We have a federal system more interested in protecting people's rights to be sick than their rights to be well," said Murphy. "We have a criminal justice system more interested in putting people in prison than giving them hospital beds. We don't have enough providers or places for care. We spend and waste billions on absurd programs like making collages and the buying paints and the having websites with the sing along songs and refuse to even acknowledge that schizophrenia and bipolar illness exists."

Murphy continued, "Congress will probably have another moment of silence when we get back next week. And I, like many Americans, will be sitting there extremely frustrated saying we don't need silence. We need action. And if Americans want to do anything, they ought to pick up a pen or go to a computer or pick up their phone and call congress and say move this comprehensive mental health legislation, H.R. 2646, the Helping Families in Mental Health Crisis Act. Because once again Congress will say, 'you know, we've got other priorities to work on.' And again I put blame on both sides of the aisle, leadership from top to bottom who push this aside. These family, these victims, they are hurting. They are in pain for the rest of their lives. They don't want people talking about the compromise and putting this off. They need action now."

SENATE WEEK IN REVIEW

Sept. 28 – Oct. 02

SPRINGFIELD — With no state budget in place, Illinoisans are being called upon to take more responsibility for renewal of their license plates. The Secretary of State's Office has announced suspension of its mailed license plate renewal program, savings nearly $450,000 a month in postage money. But motorists can still receive a reminder notice via email through <https://www.ilsos.gov/greenmail/>. The registration ID and PIN from the vehicle registration form are necessary to sign up, but motorists who don't have those materials handy can find them by calling the Public Inquiry Division at 800-252-8980.

With the state entering the fourth consecutive month of the fiscal year without a budget, state spending is largely controlled by court orders, consent decrees, and some continuing appropriations. Recent estimates show that without a balanced budget agreement, the state will likely run out of money early in 2016.

The impact is being felt on some areas of state government, including closing the Illinois State Museum in Springfield (along with satellite facilities in four other locations) and the World Shooting and Recreational Complex in Sparta to the public. However, scientific research at the museum facilities will continue, collections will be maintained by curators and educators will focus on future programmatic planning. Other museum employees will assume temporary roles in other capacities, while at the Sparta complex workers will begin readying the facility for the winter months. Public employee unions are suing to avoid layoffs at the facilities.

I remain dedicated to finding a resolution to the impasse that includes structural reforms intended to make Illinois competitive, create jobs and boost economic growth, while funding priority services and programs.

ConAgra to move to Chicago

Chicago got an economic boost when it was confirmed this week that food giant ConAgra will be moving its corporate headquarters to the city—along with nearly 1,000 jobs. The company already employs around 400 people in a Naperville office, but plans to move its headquarters to the Windy City from current Omaha, Nebraska. It is part of a restructuring plan that is estimated to save the company about $300 million over the next three years and will result in a gain of jobs in Illinois. The new ConAgra headquarters will be based out of the Merchandise Mart facility in downtown Chicago.

ConAgra owns brands including Slim Jim meat sticks, Hebrew national hot dogs, Chef Boyardee, Swiss Miss and Reddi-Whip.

Durbin to Boehner: America cannot wait for action on transportation bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Three months after the Senate passed a long-term, bipartisan transportation bill, U.S. Senator Dick Durbin (D-IL) called on Speaker of the House John Boehner to consider legislation that would provide the certainty that businesses and state governments, like Illinois, need to plan critical infrastructure projects and create good-paying jobs. Since the previous long-term transportation bill expired in 2009, Congress has passed 34 stop-gap measures to keep the country's major transportation and infrastructure programs from shutting down.

"While the House of Representatives sits on a long-term transportation bill passed by the Senate this summer, states and businesses lack the certainty and resources to move forward on critical infrastructure projects will make us more competitive in the global economy and create thousands of jobs in the process. American workers cannot wait. American businesses cannot wait. It is time for the House to follow the Senate's lead and act."

Following meetings this week with CSX Transportation and BNSF Railway, Durbin also called for a conditional extension of the federal mandated deadline for implementing Positive Train Control (PTC) — a communications-based system designed to prevent certain types of train accidents caused by human factors. "Positive Train Control is a potentially lifesaving technology. But with the cost of implementation expected to exceed $2 billion to commuter rail systems nationwide, meeting the federal deadline of implementing PTC by the end of this year will be challenging," Durbin said. "I support a conditional extension of the deadline for those rail lines that are making a demonstrable good faith effort to implement this technology. It is also critical that Congress do its part by increasing funding for this technology, and by making sure that federal grant and financing opportunities can be used for PTC implementation."

Following a 2008 fatal train crash in California, Congress mandated commuter rail carriers and Class I railroads install PTC systems on tracks that carry passengers or toxic-by-inhalation materials. Durbin has long advocated for the implementation of this critical safety tool which would help commuter rail carriers like Metra upgrade their safety systems and increase the efficiency of their rail lines.

Recently, commuter lines and rail companies have said they will suspend service if the December 31, 2015 deadline is not extended. In Illinois, Metra board members have already voted to suspend the city's rail service on January 1, since they will not meet the current deadline. This will impact the 300,000 riders who use Metra's commuter lines. Nationally, halting freight shipments would impact nearly every sector of our economy. Major industries like health care, farming, manufacturing, energy, water treatment, and telecommunications rely on the steady flow of products delivered by freight rail.

In May, Durbin joined 22 other Senators in calling for an increase in funding for PTC. Currently the nation's rails need approximately $2 billion to fully implement PTC but Congress has only allocated $50 million to help commuter lines in affording this technology.

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

LENA — Another perfect fall weekend even though it was a little chilly. The afternoon sun warmed everything up. The weather people are saying we are back to above normal temperatures. Hopefully all the craft fairs and homecoming activities will not be rained out. This week's recipes feature several fall dishes and some recipes to use up the garden vegetables that are going to come to an end soon.

The first recipe is using the popular kale vegetable. Kale is something that can be used a long time into the fall. This recipe features cooked kale with a hint of garlic. Remember that it takes a lot of kale to make several servings because it will wilt down in the pan.

Garlic Kale

2 T. olive oil

4 cloves garlic, minced
10 C. of packed kale, stemmed and leaves torn
½ t. salt

Heat oil in a large pot over medium heat. Cook the garlic, stirring, just until fragrant, about 1 minute. Add kale and salt and cook, stirring frequently, until kale is wilted, about 4 minutes. Place in serving bowl for a healthy green treat.

I have said before that acorn squash is one of my favorite vegetables. I really like it with brown sugar and butter; however, this next recipe is really good with lots fewer calories.

Parmesan-Roasted Acorn Squash

1 acorn squash, halved lengthwise, seeded and cut into ¾ inch thick slices
¼ C. grated parmesan cheese
8 sprigs fresh thyme or 1 teaspoon dried thyme
2 T. olive oil
½ t. salt
¼ t. pepper

Preheat oven to 400. Toss the squash slices, parmesan, thyme, oil, salt and pepper together in a bowl until squash is evenly coated. Arrange in a single layer on a large rimmed baking sheet.

Roast until golden brown and tender, 25-30 minutes. For more even browning, turn the squash after 20 minutes and roast 10 minutes more.

If you have a large tomato crop this year, you are always looking for ways to use them up. These tomatoes are easy to make and are a great side to a meat, chicken or fish main dish. If you want, you can top the tomatoes with slices of zucchini or eggplant. Just place the topping on the added vegetables for an even better side dish.

Provençal Tomatoes

2 large tomatoes, cut crosswise into ¼-inch thick slices
¼ t. salt
½ t. black pepper
3 T. olive oil
½ C. grated parmesan cheese
¼ C. grated Asiago cheese
¼ C. dried seasoned bread crumbs
2 T. dried parsley or 2 T. fresh parsley and 2 T. fresh parsley over tomatoes

Preheat the oven to 450. Arrange tomatoes in a single layer on a baking sheet; sprinkle with salt and pepper and drizzle with 1 tablespoon oil.

Stir together the cheeses, bread crumbs parsley, and remaining 2 T. oil in a small bowl. (If using zucchini or eggplant, top tomatoes at this time.) Top tomatoes with cheese mixture and bake until tomatoes are tender 5-7 minutes. Heat broiler with rack 6 inches from heat source. Broil tomatoes until tops are crisp about 1 minute. Place on serving plate to serve.

Need an easy soup for a fall night? This sausage and garden vegetable soup will help use zucchini, peppers and onions. Fresh basil really helps the flavor of this soup.

Italian Sausage and Zucchini Soup

½ lb. bulk Italian sausage
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
3 C. beef broth
1 can (14 ½ oz.) diced tomatoes, undrained
1 T. minced fresh basil or 1 t. dried basil
1 T. minced fresh parsley or 1 t. dried parsley flakes
1 medium zucchini, cut into ½ inch pieces
½ C. bow tie pasta

In a large saucepan, cook Italian sausage, onion, and green pepper over medium heat 4-6 minutes or until sausage is no longer pink and vegetables are tender, breaking up sausage into crumbles; drain. Add broth, tomatoes, basil and parsley; bring to a boil. Stir in zucchini and pasta; return to a boil. Cook, covered, 10-12 minutes or until the zucchini and pasta are tender. You can also place the soup in a slow cooker without the pasta. Cook the pasta separately and drain and add to the slow cooker for the last 10 minutes.

If you are looking for a tasty main dish recipe, this next one is easy to make and time saving also. Everything comes together in one skillet, so clean up is easy too. Serve this with salad and corn chips and you will have a meal in less than an hour.

Mexican Mac Skillet

1 lb. lean ground beef
1 large onion, chopped
1 can (14 ½ oz.) diced tomatoes, undrained
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 C. fresh or frozen corn
½ C. water
1 ¼ t. chili powder
1 t. dried oregano
½ t. salt
2/3 C. uncooked elbow macaroni
2/3 C. shredded cheddar cheese

In a nonstick skillet, cook beef and onion over medium-high heat 5-7 minutes or until beef is no longer pink, breaking into crumbles. Drain.

Stir in the rest of the ingredients except macaroni and cheese and bring to a boil. Stir in macaroni. Reduce heat; simmer, covered, 15-20 minutes or until macaroni is tender. Sprinkle with cheese.

I have several apple cake recipes, but I have never had one you can make in a bundt pan. This is a cake that is beautiful when sliced; it has only powdered sugar on the top, so the full flavor of the cake comes through. Enjoy this cake with a cup of coffee or hot tea or a cold glass of milk.

Fresh Apple Cake

2 C. sugar
1 C. canola oil
3 large eggs
2 t. vanilla
3 C. flour
1 t. salt
1 t. baking powder
3 C. chopped peeled apples
Powdered sugar for garnish Preheat the oven to 350. Generously grease with solid shortening or butter and flour a 9 inch bundt cake pan. In a large mixing bowl, beat the sugar, oil, eggs, and vanilla until well blended. In another bowl, whisk the flour, salt and baking powder; gradually beat into the oil mixture. Stir in apples and transfer the batter to the prepared pan.

Bake 50-60 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Run a knife around the sides and center tube of pan. Remove cake to a wire rack to cool. Put the cake on a pedestal cake plate. Place powdered sugar in a small

This week is Homecoming week at Le-Win. There is a parade—it is earlier in the day than normal—check the website or LWTV for times. There is a volleyball game on Tuesday evening and the football game on Friday night. Girls are buying dresses; boys are buying shirts and ties; and both are ordering flowers. It will be warmer and hopefully will not rain (although we have played a lot in the rain this year!) The big craft fair is at Elizabeth and Galena this weekend. My advice is to stay off of Highway 20 Friday through Sunday because the traffic will be horrendous. We are all hoping to enjoy the fall weather for another week! Remember that we are on the hunt for some good squash, apple, pumpkin, and pork recipes for fall. If you have some recipes to share, you can contact us in person, by mail, or email us at From Lena's Kitchens, Shopper's Guide at 213 S. Center St. or email scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.

Lena UMC

LENA-Lena UMC recently collected school supplies and back packs to send to Carole Robertson Center in Chicago. They were warmly received and have been distributed to over 200 students. Every child will start the school year off with the supplies needed to succeed. They thank all who helped collect and deliver the school supplies.

Disciple class has started. We have 16 people that have committed 24 weeks to study the Bible from Genesis to Revelations. There is assigned reading every day and a workbook with questions about what was read. The hope is as we study the Bible and the message of Jesus we will become better disciples for Christ. I am excited and pleasantly surprised for all that have signed up.

Our alternative service has been scheduled to start Saturday November 7 at 4:30 p.m. If you are looking for a non-traditional service this should be for you. Come and grow with us. It will be held in our fellowship hall as we casually gather around round tables. We hope to find the excitement people felt when Paul traveled on his missionary trips and established new churches.

Speaking of Paul our adult Sunday School class has been studying Paul's 1st missionary trip. As Barnabas and Paul leave Antioch they travel by boat and stop in Cyprus. Paul did not have a clear picture of where he was going. It reminds me a little of Lewis and Clark setting out on their journey. Neither was sure of what they would find. This first missionary journey covered 1580 miles and took about 6 months to complete. From Cyprus they traveled to Perga in Asia Minor. Paul headed north from Perga to Pisidian Antioch. As Paul entered the town he would have located the synagogue where the Jewish communities gathered. Some Gentiles usually joined them. Paul shared his message that everyone who believes in Jesus is set free from all their sins. Many who heard this message were moved by it. Jesus was initiating a new covenant and would have profound implications for Judaism. This new covenant was not accepted by all Jews. Some were jealous and some did not believe in Christ's resurrection. The Jews eventually drove Paul and Barnabas out of Antioch and they continued on to Iconium. At Iconium Paul and Barnabas continued to share Christ's message at the synagogue and many became believers. But, again some were going to harm Paul and Barnabas for what they were preaching and they left Iconium and traveled to Lystra. At Lystra Paul healed a crippled man and caused quite a commotion. Many thought Paul was a God and they brought animals to be sacrificed to him. Some Jews opposed Paul's teaching had followed them and convinced the people to stone Paul and leave him to die. Paul did not give up and scripture tells us "He got up and went into the city". Paul and Barnabas eventually left Lystra, stopping in Derbe. After preaching there they decide to return home and stopped at the churches they had recently started. It is estimated they traveled for a total 6-9 months before finally getting back to Syria Antioch where they had started.

Lena UMC is currently sponsoring two children through Compassion International. Keylin is a 6 year old girl from El Salvador sponsored by the Sunday School Department. Carlos is a 4 year old boy from Mexico sponsored by the Lena UMC Men's Group. Compassion International is a worldwide group that establishes Christian and Educational opportunities for kids that would not normally have that opportunity. We sometimes think there is no way we could help needy kids in the world. That it is too big a problem for just one person. But you can help one child at a time. If God has blessed you isn't it time you shared some of that blessing with a child in need? Freeport Church of the Brethren hosts annual Country Store Bazaar and Chicken Noodle Soup Lunch

FREEPORT — The thirty-fifth annual Country Store Bazaar and Chicken Noodle Soup Lunch will be held Thursday, October 8, from 10:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m., at the Freeport Church of the Brethren.

The lunch includes homemade chicken noodle soup, roll, gelatin salad, cake, and beverage for $7. Carry outs are available at no additional charge. Tickets for children ages 4-10 are $3

Bazaar items include a complete line of baked goods such as pies, breads, cakes, cookies, and candy; jam; plants; crafts; homemade noodles; and fall produce including pumpkins, squash, dried flowers, potatoes, and gourds.

"This event has come a long way in 35 years," comments church member Alice Dahms. "I can remember when my mother, Arlene Richtemeyer, made all the noodles by hand when we first started."

Dahms also recalls how her normally quiet mother commented to a reporter that "We don't just run a chicken through the soup and toss in a few noodles. It's thick enough to eat with a fork!"

And so the tradition began. Now, 15-20 volunteers make noodles with 34 dozen eggs to net over 300 half-pound bags for sale, using an electric mixer, and three different hand crank pasta machines to make the dough flat, then thinner, then cut into strips.

The church is located at 777 W. Pleasant St. (corner of S. West Ave. or Hwy. 26).

Handicap parking and a chair-lift are provided at the Pleasant Street entrance. All others may use the parking lot and rear door.

Funds from the bazaar and lunch will be used to support the general fund and mission of the church.

PASTOR'S CORNER

Waiting

By Fawn Nolan,
Parish Assistant St. John's Lutheran Church, Lena

LENA — Have you noticed how different it is when you are waiting in line for something now that social media is so popular?

I remember the day when it was pretty common to see customers in a checkout line at the grocery store pick up a magazine and browse through it. Others would start a conversation with the person next to them and share the information on discounts and bargain prices. Some would just inquire about the weather or ask "What's the time?" Now when you see people waiting in line, they are on their devices. I would love to think that we have developed a society that is more patient while waiting in line because they can resort to social media. That certainly would be better than becoming agitated. Yet I often feel that social media is taking us away from our surroundings, and we are missing opportunities that are within arm's reach.

Waiting can't be helped; we are waiting for all kinds of reasons. We wait for someone to try on clothing when we are shopping together. We wait for our meal to arrive in a restaurant. We wait in doctor's offices, auto repair shops, and car rides. The list is endless. And in all these waiting situation, we see more and more devices being used. I even see adults on their devices while their children play at the park. I see sports fan pay good money to watch a game and yet spend significant amount of time on their devices.

I wonder if you pay that much money to be there to watch your team, why you are not watching them.

The most difficult waiting period comes from those who are waiting for the other shoe to drop. They just live expecting one more unfortunate event to happen because that is the pattern that seems to have developed. Their expectation of what the future holds is not very promising.

There was some wise advice given to me once when I was involved in a Bible Study on prayer: When you find yourself in situations where you are waiting, don't waste that time, pray. There are so many precious moments that could be directed in conversation with God if we took advantage of them. The waiting period will become a time of waiting for God's answers. "Wait for the Lord; be strong and take heart and wait for the Lord." Psalm 27:14 Though we request many things from God in prayer, God acts in His own time. We should wait for God to answer and have confidence in the hope that "None who wait for You shall be put to shame" Psalm 25:3

The focus of our prayers is God. God always desires the best for us because He loves us. No prayer is beyond His ability to answer. Because He knows what is best for us we can be assured that nothing takes Him by surprise and nothing will happen without the knowledge of God, even though we may not always understand. God will respond to our prayers based on His loving personal nature. Because prayer is entering into a relationship with God we know that He hears us, loves us and will respond though not always in a manner we may expect or desire. So pray often and regularly from a humble heart. Our dependence on God is in every aspect of our lives including the waiting periods.

Congresswoman Giffords and ARS PAC find success with Delaware gun bill

By Americans for Responsible Solutions

DOVER, DE — Former Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords, the Co-Founder of the gun violence prevention organization Americans for Responsible Solutions (ARS), applauded Delaware Governor Jack Markell's signature today of a bipartisan bill that addresses gaps in Delaware law to help protect domestic violence victims from abusers with access to firearms. "Today is a victory for common sense and a victory for safer communities. In the face of calls from Delaware's domestic violence survivors and public safety officials, Republicans and Democrats came together to pass a law that helps keep guns out of the hands of domestic abusers and protect vulnerable people and their families. And with Governor Markell's signature now affixed to this bipartisan proposal, Delaware will be a safer place to live," said Congresswoman Giffords. "I am grateful to the bill's sponsors, Sen. Margaret Rose Henry (D-Wilmington) and Rep. Valerie Longhurst (D-Bear), for standing up for common sense and for leading the fight to pass this legislation. I am grateful to Governor Markell for signing this bill, and for his and Attorney General Matt Denn's steadfast support for this commonsense, life-saving bill. And I cannot say thank you enough to our partners at the Delaware Coalition against Domestic Violence and the Delaware Coalition against Gun Violence for their invaluable work in helping make this bipartisan proposal law."

"I've been working on protecting Delaware's domestic violence survivors for 23 years, and I was on the Delaware Domestic Violence Coordinating Council during my career as a legislator. We are still fighting these battles today and this commonsense law will make a difference, and it will save lives. Today is yet another sign that Republicans and Democrats can come together around responsible solutions that help limit domestic abusers' access to guns and protect vulnerable people and families," said Liane Sorenson, Delaware Coalition against Gun Violence and former Republican State Senator.

Governor Markell's signing of the bill into law adds Delaware to a long list of states that have enacted bipartisan legislation addressing the lethal links between gun violence and domestic abuse. As of July 2015, bills addressing the nexus of domestic abuse and gun violence have passed or been introduced in 23 state legislatures. In 2014 alone, large bipartisan majorities in six states — Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, New Hampshire, and Washington — passed new laws to better protect victims of domestic violence.

The bill, which goes into effect on January 1, 2017 and was co-sponsored by Democratic and Republican legislators, will protect victims of domestic violence and dating violence by helping prevent domestic abusers' access to guns, without affecting the Second Amendment rights of law abiding people. The law will:

Prevent individuals convicted of dating partner violence within the past five years from buying or owning guns. Under current Delaware law, when a dating abuser or a former cohabitant is convicted in a court of law beyond reasonable doubt of "misdemeanor crimes of domestic violence" he or she is permitted to purchase or possess a gun. This poses a serious danger to the victim and his or her family. This legislation will prohibit abusers who have been convicted for a misdemeanor crime of a domestic violence when the victim was a substantive dating partner or when the criminal offense happened within 3 years from when the relationship ended from owning or possessing guns for 5 years.

Protect victims who have fled their homes from their abuser. Current Delaware law only prohibits gun possession by a person convicted of victimizing a cohabitant if they were living together at the time of the crime. This means that an abuser does not lose his or her gun eligibility if he or she is convicted for a misdemeanor crime of domestic violence after the victim fled the home. This legislation would ensure convicted abusers are prohibited from possessing firearms for five years when the criminal offense happened within 3 years from when the victim fled the home.

Help enforce existing law by requiring that people subject to a Protection From Abuse order, who have been instructed to surrender their firearms, identify to the court how they have done so. The bill would also help ensure that guns are surrendered pursuant to a PFA order by clarifying that the abuser must turn over these weapons immediately upon the request of a law enforcement officer or, if no request is made, within 24 hours at a staffed police station.

Congresswoman Giffords visited the Delaware State Capitol in May and called on lawmakers to pass SB 83 and help keep guns out of the hands of domestic abusers. A survey of registered Delaware voters conducted on behalf of Americans for Responsible Solutions found that a broad majority of Delawareans — including gun owners — support the bill's key elements.

Fifty percent of fatal and near-fatal domestic violence incidents in Delaware involve a gun.

Between 1996 and 2013, guns in Delaware were used in 40 homicides of intimate partners, and in 13 homicides of other people in domestic violence incidents (family members, children, and bystanders killed in these shootings). Guns were also used in 17 domestic violence-related suicides.

Nationally, women in the U.S. are 11 times likely to be murdered with a gun than women in other developed countries, and more than half of all murders of America's women are committed with a gun. Abused women are also five times more likely to be killed by their abuser if that individual has access to a firearm.

ing to the United States Department of Agriculture, 30% of the Illinois corn crop is now harvested, a large jump from just 13% the week before, and just behind the 5-year average of 34%. Progress continues to vary by region, with the Southwestern area leading the state at 55% harvested, while Northeastern Illinois corn remains just 6% harvested.

Farmers are also making progress cutting soybeans, with 24% of Illinois acres now harvested, up from just 3% the previous week, and well ahead of the 5-year average of only 12%. Many farmers who had already begun harvesting corn, switched to beans in recent days. While both crops are drying in the fields, farmers have a narrower window to safely and easily harvest soybeans, because beans that are too dry may be lost before entering the combine.

College of DuPage passes major cuts, reduces local property taxes

The College of DuPage board passed a $184 million budget, including more than $7.5 million in cuts from the fiscal year 2015 budget. According to the college, the cuts will likely mean a $10 decrease in the average bill for a home valued at $255,000 in the district. The college had previously stirred controversy when it was discovered that $126 million in excess revenues had been collected since fiscal year 2011.

October is Thrombosis Awareness Month in Illinois

The month of October is now recognized in Illinois as Thrombosis Awareness Month, thanks to legislation sponsored by Senator Pamela Althoff (R-McHenry) and adopted by the Senate earlier this year. Approximately 600,000 people in the United States are estimated to develop venous thromboembolism, and 400,000 expected to develop deep vein thrombosis of the legs. Pulmonary embolisms, a serious and potentially fatal complication of vein thrombosis affects at least 200,000 people in the nation per year.

Durbin, Markey announce support for Chemical Safety Reform Bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — As the full Senate prepares to begin debate on a historic bill to overhaul the broken Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA) of 1976, U.S. Senator Dick Durbin (D-IL) and Ed Markey (D-MA) announced their support for the Frank R. Lautenberg Chemical Safety for the 21st Century Act after several key improvements were made. Their co-sponsorship of the bipartisan bill – written by U.S. Senators Tom Udall (D-NM) and David Vitter (R-LA) – brings the total number of cosponsors to 60 senators representing 38 states. Debate is expected to begin as soon as next week.

“Following a Chicago Tribune series in 2012 that revealed that flame retardant chemicals added to furniture and other household goods are useless and toxic for American families, I began calling for reform of the antiquated law regulating toxic chemicals,” said Durbin. “Today’s agreement reflects a bipartisan effort to give the EPA additional resources and authority to more effectively regulate chemicals and ensure timely compliance with new laws. Further delay in reforming this broken system risks exposing more families to toxic substances and leaves the EPA with little recourse against the aggressive chemical companies that have been exploiting the lack of oversight.”

“I am pleased by the positive and meaningful progress on improvements to TSCA reauthorization legislation, and I am proud we have secured changes to the bill that will ensure chemical companies comply with mandatory deadlines for safety regulations, expedite regulatory action on the most dangerous chemicals, allow states more flexibility to implement new chemical regulations and give EPA the funds it needs to do the job,” said Senator Markey, Ranking Member of the Superfund, Waste Management and Regulatory Oversight subcommittee. “Our federal chemical law is outdated and ineffective, and this legislation is a much-needed update that will help protect families and communities from dangerous chemicals. I thank Senator Durbin for his partnership, and Senators Udall, Vitter and Inhofe for their leadership and collegial efforts to work with us to strengthen the legislation.”

Named for the late U.S. Senator Frank Lautenberg (D-NJ), a champion for public health and the environment, the bill would be the first significant reform of TSCA since it was passed 39 years ago. It would — for the first time — give the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) the authority to test and regulate chemicals according to their impact on the most vulnerable among us: children, pregnant women, the elderly and chemical workers. Markey and Durbin worked with Udall and Vitter on changes to the bill that will be added in a substitute amendment when the bill is brought up on the floor. The changes include provisions to increase funding for EPA resources through industry fees, ensure fast industry compliance with EPA regulations, and simplify the waiver process from preemption for states. The agreement also expedites action on work that EPA pursues on chemicals that are known dangers, such as asbestos.

“I’m extremely pleased to announce that Senators Markey and Durbin will support our efforts to reform the nation’s broken chemical safety laws,” Udall said. “This bill is the product of years of work, collaboration and positive input from lawmakers across the country who understand that we need a national solution to our broken chemical safety law — one that will ensure Americans in New Mexico or Illinois or Massachusetts have the same protections as those in all 50 states. The law has been broken for far too long, and as we prepare to begin debate on the Senate floor, I encourage all lawmakers to act to protect families, young children, and pregnant women from dangerous chemicals and support this bill.”

Lautenberg dedicated years to crafting a bill that would finally fix TSCA. In 2012, shortly before he passed away, Lautenberg and Vitter announced a bipartisan agreement. After Lautenberg’s death, Udall took up Lautenberg’s efforts and strengthened the bill. Their legislation would require EPA to consider only the health and safety impacts of a chemical - never the cost or burden to manufacturers - when assessing chemicals for safety. It ensures consideration of those most vulnerable from chemicals - defined in the bill as pregnant women, infants, the elderly and chemical workers. It sets a new fee so chemical companies will bear a larger share of the cost of evaluating and regulating chemicals. And it provides certainty in the law about when states may step in if EPA does not act to regulate or ban dangerous chemicals.

The changes agreed to include:

Increase in the $18 million per year funding cap for industry TSCA Fees to $25 million per year, and creates a process to ensure sufficient resources to defray 25 percent of EPA’s chemical safety program costs

Setting a mandatory compliance deadline of four years for industry compliance with EPA regulations (and allows an extension of up to 18 months if EPA determines that the deadline is technologically or economically infeasible)

Clarifying and simplifying the process for state waivers from preemption and state co-enforcement of federal chemical safety regulations

Expediting regulatory action on EPA’s TSCA Work Plan chemicals (the 90 chemicals EPA has identified as having the highest potential for exposure and hazard) from the seven years the bill currently allows to generally five years for these chemicals.

Adding assurances for mandatory protections for vulnerable populations, such as pregnant women, children and workers

Improving other provision in the bill to ensure:

Exposure to PBTs is reduced as much as practicable;

Parity for judicial review of EPA actions;

EPA has to disclose the information it used to make prioritization decisions; and Improvements to provisions allowing access to CBI for medical professionals and first responders.

SWCD and NRCS to host cover crop demonstration

LENA — On Tuesday, October 20 from 1-3 p.m. the Stephenson County Soil & Water Conservation District (SWCD) and Natural Resource Conservation Service (NRCS) will be hosting a cover crop plot demonstration tour at the farm of Dan Diaz and family.

Dan Diaz has many different cover crop plots; ranging from single species to multi species mixes.

Dan’s operation is a corn and bean rotation and he has been completely no-till since 2005. Dan says that cover crops have been an excellent addition to his soil health improvements. Previous practices have controlled/stopped erosion on his highly erodible acreage and cover crops have greatly improved the soil structure. He has even begun to see an increase in his yields.

Dan has recently taken on the role of Soil Health Champion by National Association of Conservation Districts (NACD). As a member of NACD’s Soil Health Champion

Network, Dan will raise awareness about the many benefits of soil health practices.

Dan is also a recipient of the Illinois Department of Agriculture’s (IDOA) Cover Crop Initiative Grant.

Doug Hanson, Seed Specialist with ProHarvest seeds, will be on hand to answer questions. Mark Jackson, NRCS Area Resource Conservationist, will talk about soil health. Russ Higgins, U of IL Extension Educator, Commercial Agriculture from the Northern Illinois Agronomy Research Center will be talking about cover crop planning dates. Jay Solomon, U of IL Extension Educator, Environmental and Energy Stewardship will be available to answer questions.

The company that provided the aerial seeding will be available to answer questions.

Soil pits will be dug to demonstrate soil health and soil characteristics.

The tour will be at 2488 N Schlegel Rd, Lena.

Lena-Winslow locks down playoff spot

By Chris Johnson
Reporter

SOUTH BELOIT — The Lena-Winslow Panthers took down the South Beloit Sobos in NUIC play Friday night, 57-8, assuring their position as a participant in the 2015 High School Football Playoffs.

With a 6-0 mark, the Panthers know they will be playing on Oct. 30, however, the schedule indicates there are three games left in the regular season.

Wins in all three games will, without a doubt, allow Lena-Winslow to enter the State Tournament as one of the favored to win it all.

That's a long way off, as many area coaches would concur. Coaches can't look past who's up next, not when you play weekly games in the NUIC.

"There is one game on our minds and that is the one in front of us," said Forreton Head Coach Denny Diduch during an earlier interview.

Lena-Winslow faces Forreton on Friday night and won't be looking at the playoffs or East Dubuque, a week later, anytime soon.

Statistics indicate the Cardinals will play fast, a no-huddle offense and a quick exchange of players will attempt to move through a line which recently stuffed the previous conference leader, Dakota, 14-13, in a week five contest.

It helps that the Panthers play at home as the defending Class 1A State Champs appear on the agenda.

A win over Forreton, paired with an earlier season win over Dakota, would almost guarantee the conference's only shot at a single conference champion would lie in the hands of the Lena-Winslow Panthers.

However, if the Panthers wish to capture that honor, they have to cage the Cardinals first.

Plunging in for the big score

The Warren Warriors took to field Friday night with one goal in mind and they achieved that goal late in the game winning their Homecoming football game against perennial rival Stockton by two points

Stockton's post-season pursuits stalled

STOCKTON — The Stockton Blackhawks came up two points short of clinching their spot and joining the ranks in the Class 1A State Playoffs, as the Warren/Sacred Heart consolidated football program celebrated Homecoming Friday night, Oct. 2, with a 24-22 win.

The loss drops the Blackhawks into a four-way tie for second place in the NUIC with a 4-2 mark.

They join Milledgeville, Freeport Aquin and Warren/Sacred Heart High School, two full games behind conference front-runner, Polo.

Polo trounced Milledgeville on Friday night, 57-0 and became the first representative from the Upstate side of the conference to advance to the Oct. 30 extra-curricular opener.

Stockton's two-point loss was their closest game of the season, having scored, on average, just shy of 50 points a game in their wins.

Their previous loss came to Polo in their week three game, as the Marcos ran their offense to a 48-8 win.

For Stockton the path is set with a meeting with Milledgeville this Friday night.

A win over the Missiles and the Blackhawks will pick up their fifth win of the season.

Based on the level of competition faced by Stockton in the NUIC this season, the fifth win could allow access into the 2015 post-season.

If the Blackhawks fall to Milledgeville this Friday

STOCKTON — The Stockton Blackhawks came up two points short of clinching their spot and joining the ranks in the Class 1A State Playoffs, as the Warren/Sacred Heart consolidated football program celebrated Homecoming Friday night, Oct. 2, with a 24-22 win.

The loss drops the Blackhawks into a four-way tie for second place in the NUIC with a 4-2 mark.

They join Milledgeville, Freeport Aquin and Warren/Sacred Heart High School, two full games behind conference front-runner, Polo.

Polo trounced Milledgeville on Friday night, 57-0 and became the first representative from the Upstate side of the conference to advance to the Oct. 30 extra-curricular opener.

Stockton's two-point loss was their closest game of the season, having scored, on average, just shy of 50 points a game in their wins.

Their previous loss came to Polo in their week three game, as the Marcos ran their offense to a 48-8 win.

A win over the Missiles and the Blackhawks will pick up their fifth win of the season.

Based on the level of competition faced by Stockton in the NUIC this season, the fifth win could allow access into the 2015 post-season.

If the Blackhawks fall to Milledgeville this Friday night, the Missiles will pick up their fifth win and qualify for the State Playoffs.

Following this Friday night's game against Milledgeville, the Blackhawks will have to face Aquin, in Freeport, in pursuit of their fifth win.

Aquin, which faces Polo this Friday night, will be penciling in their showdown with Stockton, as a "must win", on Oct. 16, if a home game is to be, a much greater probability in round one.

The Bulldogs close the season in South Beloit, against the winless Sobos.

On Friday night, Oct. 23, week nine faces the Blackhawks as they play host to Ashton-Franklin Center, a team that may be fighting for its own life and a shot at the post-season, as they potentially pursue their fifth win of the season, given they can defeat, 0-6, River Ridge this Friday night.

The potential fourth win opens the door to the possibility of inclusion in the post-season for Ashton-Franklin Center, however, the Raiders take on Polo in week eight, before traveling to Stockton on Oct. 23, to close the season. The path appears to be littered with possibly insurmountable challenges for AFC, as the 2015 regular season takes the turn into the home stretch.

Wildcats battle back Bulldogs, fall short in end

By Chris Johnson

LANARK — The Eastland-Pearl City Wildcats is a team that, statistically, is getting a whole lot better.

Following a loss to the Dakota Indians on Friday night, Oct. 2, 58-24, the Wildcats fell to 0-6 on the season.

Dakota moved to 5-1, almost guaranteeing their position in the Illinois State Football Playoffs, which begin on Oct. 30.

EPC lost to another playoff-ready team in their week five game, Galena, 49-16, scoring their first points of the season in the loss.

The Sobos face EPC this Friday night, Oct. 9, as both teams will be searching for its first win.

The Wildcats have gotten stronger, noticed a newcomer to the NUIC this season, Jason Ware with South Beloit.

"I know EPC fell to Dakota on Friday night and I know they are a team that's getting better. Our guys will have to be ready. I know that we have a stronger team now than we did in week one. The team has been coming together and is getting better."

There is energy that flows around and through successful programs, Ware identified, during an earlier interview.

Even with a winless record, positives can be found, Ware felt.

It's a perfect opportunity for more players to get a chance to play more, as the younger players get a chance to get more experience, Ware said.

"Our kids haven't given up on the season, even though we are 0-6. They are still carrying that "jumping at the bit" and "foaming at the mouth" attitude, when it comes to wanting to get into the game. We are giving a lot of our younger players, freshmen, sophomores and our juniors, chances to play. The kids are enjoying the game and we are looking forward to our next game. We just know we have to be more consistent."

The Wildcats, after traveling into the fifth week of the season, had yet to strike gold, offensively.

Against Galena on Sept. 25, they scored 16 points, ending the drought.

The following week, Friday, Oct. 2, the Wildcats put 24 on the board.

The South Beloit Head Coach said his team has to be ready for a team that is a lot like his own, one that has gotten a whole lot better in a lot of ways.

"EPC lost a lot of players, but they are a feisty team. Their guys have an, "I'm going to beat you" mentality. They got better. Now we have to be sure we can stop their running attack."

That won't be easy, Ware explained, the Sobos haven't done very well keeping the opposition from gaining ground-waged first downs.

"That's been our issue this whole season. If we don't stop them up front it will be a long night. I know the guys are excited and ready to play. I know our guys have been early to work and they've been staying late after practice. The team, morale-wise, is positive and as high as it can be with a record of 0-6. The kids keep showing up to play and the coaches keep showing up to work."

The Sobos face Pecatonica in their week eight game and close the season, on the road, at Freeport Aquin.

The Wildcats travel to Forreston next week and close the season at home against East Dubuque on Oct. 23.

A loss to Forreston means the week eight contest against East Dubuque, on the shores of the Mississippi River, could carry a heavy amount of weight in guaranteeing a home game for Lena-Winslow in the opening round, just three weeks away.

Across the Route 20 Corridor, there are, statistically, some of the best small school programs in the State of Illinois.

Within the last ten years, nine times, have teams representing the Route 20 corridor and the NUIC, captured the State Title.

First year Head Coach, Jason Ware with the South Beloit Sobos, said the weekly challenges and the experience from playing against the level of competition found in the NUIC, makes every night a chance to play against a potential State Champion.

"Since coming here from the NIC-10 and Jefferson High School, I knew how some of the teams in the NUIC were highly ranked. It's been an interesting process and it makes us realize that we, as a team, have to keep working."

The Sobos are 0-6 this season, however, in those six losses, and if the playoffs were to start today, every team that has beaten South Beloit this season, would be in the playoffs.

The Panthers will attempt to be the best of the conference on Friday night, as Diduch and the Cardinals pay a visit.

FROM THE OFFICES OF JOHN D. HAY, STATE'S ATTORNEY AND DAN T. GILBERT, DEPUTY STATE'S ATTORNEY

STOCKTON — Jo Daviess County State's Attorney John Hay would like to inform the public of the following information pertaining to an incident which is alleged to have taken place in Stockton, Illinois during the afternoon of Saturday, August 22, 2015.

On August 22, at approximately 1:30 p.m., officers with the Stockton Police Department and the Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Office responded to a 911 call. Officers responded to the area of 410 S. Simmons Street in Stockton, Jo Daviess County, Illinois. Officer Don Powers from the Stockton Police Department was one of the officers who responded to the call. Officer Powers fired multiple shots towards Mr. Cunningham after he observed Mr. Cunningham holding a firearm that appeared to be a rifle. Mr. Cunningham was not injured and was taken into custody by police officers. It was later determined the firearm was in fact an air rifle/BB gun.

A detailed investigation was conducted by the Illinois State Police. It has been determined after reviewing all of the evidence and information obtained during the investigation, that Officer Powers reasonably believed he, another police officer, and citizens were in imminent danger of death or great bodily harm and his subsequent firing of his weapon towards Mr. Cunningham was justified. This information has been conveyed to the Stockton Police Department and Officer Powers has returned to active duty.

The Jo Daviess County State's Attorney's Office filed an information on August 24 charging Mr. Cunningham with the following criminal offenses: Threaten a Public Official (Class 3 Felony) and Aggravated Assault (Class A Misdemeanor). Bond for Mr. Cunningham was set in the amount of $50,000 (10%), which means Mr. Cunningham will have to post $5,000 to be released from custody. Mr. Cunningham's next court date is October 8 at 1 p.m.

The Jo Daviess County State's Attorney's Office will not release any further information on this matter or make any other public comments while Mr. Cunningham's case is pending to ensure no statements are made that may pose a serious and imminent threat to Mr. Cunningham's right to receive a fair trial.

State's Attorney Hay would like to remind the public the criminal charges filed against Mr. Cunningham are merely accusations and allegations, and are not evidence of guilt. The defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty in a court of law. The defendant is entitled to a fair trial at which the government has the burden of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

MOVIES at MAME'S

looks at High Tension- Alexandre Aja, 2003

SOUTHERN FRANCE — Marie & Alexia are college students preparing for their final exams. Knowing that if they stayed at University to study, they would inevitably be distracted by partying, they travel together to Alexia's parents home, a quiet, quaint farmhouse in the middle of nowhere. They arrive late in the evening and, after exchanging their hellos with Alexia's parents, everyone retires for the night.

Immediately, terror strikes in the form of a grizzled man knocking on the door. Marie hears his pounding and Alexia's father answer the door and sees the unthinkable; this stranger, with no warning, hacks Alexia's father to pieces then systematically plods from room to room, slaughtering the rest of the family, except Alexia. In her, the man sees something he likes and takes Alexia with him in the back of his rusted out truck. Marie, harboring a bit of a crush on Alexia, flies into action and tracks the truck away from the farmhouse, all the while desperately trying to contact authorities to let them know what's happened at the farmhouse and to her friend.

Marie finds in herself the courage to fight for her friend's life, and in a gruesome, brutal showdown, Marie gets the best of the man who took her Alexia and murdered her friend's family.

This movie is slick, stylized and bloody good fun. Directed by Alexandre Aja and written with his longtime collaborator Gregory Levasseur, it plays out as a gritty thriller with a twist that even I didn't see coming. Cecile de France as the heroine Marie is a wide-eyed, yet capable foe to the madman that invades her idyllic getaway with her friend. By the end of the movie, I felt like I'd been racing through the French countryside right along with her. It's one of those films that is a non-stop ride from start to finish, with no time to catch your breath. The climactic revelation of what really happens to Marie and Alexia was so stunning that I had to watch this several times before I was sure that there was no break in the story, that it was just an excellently crafted tale.

Donate blood to support organ transplant patients and others needing blood

STATELINE — During Liver Awareness Month this October, the American Red Cross encourages the community to give blood and platelets to support liver transplant patients and others needing blood products.

Liver transplants are the second most common type of transplant with more than 6,000 performed in the U.S. each year, according to the American Liver Foundation. Liver transplant patients may require in excess of 30 pints of blood during surgery.

For blood donor Amy Slattery, the need for blood hits close to home. Her mother received a liver transplant and needed more than 70 blood products during the surgery.

"I donate to help others that needed blood like her," said Slattery. "I donate in thanks to those who donate their blood products to help save lives."

Volunteer donors like Slattery are the only source of blood for those in need of transfusions during transplants and other surgeries. Donors with all blood types are needed, and especially those with types O negative, A negative, B negative and AB blood.

To make an appointment to donate blood, eligible donors are encouraged to download the new Red Cross Blood Donor App from app stores or text BLOODAPP to 90999 to receive a download link, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

How to donate blood

Simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767) to make an appointment or for more information. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

About the American Red Cross

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. What is so great about Winter Squash?

STOCKTON — One of the last items often harvested from gardens in this part of the country is winter squash. This is because winter squash are generally one of the last items planted in the garden. Why is it that winter squash are one of the last items generally planted? Winter squash seeds are sensitive to cool temperatures and thus planting should occur after the soil has warmed and any threat of frost has passed.

Winter squash are a culinary favorite because they are so versatile. Not only are they versatile, they can also be stored and used all winter long! Join us in this fun fall program, as Diane Reinhold, Extension Nutrition & Wellness Educator, discusses how to select and store winter squash, as well as discussing various methods of using these four common winter squash; Acorn, Butternut, Pumpkin and Spaghetti. If you are looking for great ideas and recipes to make your everyday squash go from ordinary to extra-ordinary, then check out this fall programming favorite.

This class will cover both growing squash, as well as utilizing them in the kitchen. Extension Horticulture Educator, Candice Miller, will discuss what has been happening with squash in the garden this year and what to avoid for next year's growing season.

Want to learn more? Sign-up today, this program will be held at Stockton Park House, 600 N. Pearl Street, on Tuesday, October 13 from 5:30-7:30 p.m. The cost for this program is $5 and pre-registration is required at <http://web.extension.illinois.edu/jsw/> or by calling the Extension office at 815-858-2273.

Madigan urges FDA to better regulate e-cigarettes

STATELINE — Attorney General Lisa Madigan and the attorneys general of Indiana and New York co-sponsored comments, signed by a total of 33 state attorneys general, urging the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) to strengthen its proposed regulations of electronic cigarettes (e-cigarettes) and other tobacco products to better protect children and young adults from nicotine addiction.

In the comments to the FDA, Madigan and the attorneys general specifically asked the agency to require appropriate warning labels and child-resistant packaging to help protect youth from nicotine exposure. The attorneys general urged the FDA to require liquid nicotine, nicotine-containing e-liquids and novel tobacco products, such as dissolvables, lotions, gels and drinks, to carry warning labels regarding nicotine exposure that are similar to the labels on other tobacco products.

Liquid nicotine is particularly toxic to children and can be ingested or absorbed through the skin, which is why Madigan and the other attorneys general are asking the FDA to require child-resistant packaging. While 17 states, including Illinois, have already enacted laws requiring such packaging, no federal standards currently exist. The attorneys general are also recommending flow restrictors for liquid nicotine and nicotine containing e-liquids to further protect children from exposure in the event that closures are not fully secured. According to the American Association of Poison Control Centers, there were 3,783 reported exposures to liquid nicotine nationwide in 2014, more than half of which involved children under the age of six.

“With a variety of sweet, candy and fruity flavors, and marketing campaigns that feature themes from popular children’s movies, it is no surprise that the numbers of young people using e-cigarettes is rising,” said Madigan. “Nicotine is harmful no matter how it is consumed, and e-cigarettes should come with warnings about its dangers.” The use of e-cigarettes, which are available in candy and fruit flavors, by teens and youth has increased exponentially in recent years. In 2015, the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) reported that in one year, from 2013 to 2014, the percentage of high school students using e-cigarettes had more than tripled – from 4.5 percent in 2013 to 13.4 percent in 2014, or approximately 2 million students

The e-cigarette advertising industry has responded dramatically to the trend with increased ads on the radio and television and in print. In 2010, the industry spent $5.6 million on e-cigarette advertising. In 2013, companies increased that spending to $82.1 million. A survey of five leading e-cigarette companies indicated that their marketing expenditures increased by 164 percent from 2012 to 2013. One company received heavy criticism after its ads featured the phrase, “Let It Glow,” a play off the hit song “Let It Go” featured in Disney’s animated feature “Frozen.” In light of this aggressive advertising targeting youth, the attorneys general are demanding tobacco products come with clear warning labels to inform consumers of the risks related to nicotine.

More than a year ago, Madigan and 28 other attorneys general urged the FDA to take the first step to regulate e-cigarettes. Those proposed rules have not been finalized. Madigan now is seeking to have the FDA finalize both proposed rules to protect young people and the general public from nicotine exposure.

Joining Madigan in submitting the comments to the FDA were the attorneys general of Alabama, California, Connecticut, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Indiana, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming and the Virgin Islands.

Assistant Attorney General Marilyn A. Kueper, chief of Madigan’s Tobacco Enforcement Bureau, is overseeing the efforts relating to e-cigarettes for Madigan’s office.

Blackhawk Trail...a final look

By Larry Nelson
Correspondent

KELLOGG'S GROVE — I was somewhat surprised with the comments I received about our series on the Stephenson-Blackhawk Trail. As we stated, Dr. Eugene Vickery wrote the narrative, so the series was rather easy to put together. But there is one place that does not appear on Dr. Vickery's travelogue, but it's been on my radar since 1955.

You probably know about the Blackhawk Monument at Kellogg's Grove, southeast of Kent. It's on a high hill and overlooks a battlefield where, in 1832, eight militia and at least nine Native Americans died during two skirmishes there. Chief Blackhawk led the fight, and the second one on June 25 occurred very close to the log cabin of Oliver Kellogg, who is best known for helping develop the wagon trail from Galena to Peoria.

It is believed Abraham Lincoln helped bury the dead at Kellogg's Grove. Fifty years later area farmers in the area night, the Missiles will pick up their fifth win and qualify for the State Playoffs.

Following this Friday night's game against Milledgeville, the Blackhawks will have to face Aquin, in Freeport, in pursuit of their fifth win.

Aquin, which faces Polo this Friday night, will be penciling in their showdown with Stockton, as a "must win", on Oct. 16, if a home game is to be, a much greater probability in round one.

The Bulldogs close the season in South Beloit, against the winless Sobos.

On Friday night, Oct. 23, week nine faces the Blackhawks as they play host to Ashton-Franklin Center, a team that may be fighting for its own life and a shot at the post-season, as they potentially pursue their fifth win of the season, given they can defeat, 0-6, River Ridge this Friday night.

The potential fourth win opens the door to the possibility of inclusion in the post-season for Ashton-Franklin Center, however, the Raiders take on Polo in week eight, before traveling to Stockton on Oct. 23, to close the season. The path appears to be littered with possibly insurmountable challenges for AFC, as the 2015 regular season takes the turn into the home stretch.

collected the remains of other fallen soldiers and buried them at the site of the monument. There are 22 marked graves there, and the battles at the grove were the last of the Black Hawk War to be fought in Illinois. The monument was erected in 1887; one year after Stephenson County acquired the 1.5 acre plot. The monument stands 34 feet tall and is made of native limestone. It is on the U.S. National Register of Historic Places.

Now, back to 1955, our family made yearly visits to the monument each fall, stopping for lunch in the shelter house and then traveling on up to Terrapin Ridge near Elizabeth to enjoy the fall colors. The monument site is still one of my favorite ones in Stephenson

County. When I taught at Le-Win, I made it a point to ask my students how many had heard of the beautiful hill south of Kent. Very few students raised their hands, and only one or two had visited the site.

A visit to the Blackhawk Monument would be a great experience for families wishing to share some local history. And I hope area history teachers can find space in their curricula for a lesson on the

Blackhawk Monument and perhaps treat their students to a visit there.

Aquin, in Freeport, in pursuit of their fifth win.

Aquin, which faces Polo this Friday night, will be penciling in their showdown with Stockton, as a "must win", on Oct.

16, if a home game is to be, a much greater probability in round one.

The Bulldogs close the season in South Beloit, against the winless Sobos.

On Friday night, Oct. 23, week nine faces the Blackhawks as they play host to Ashton-Franklin Center, a team that may be fighting for its own life and a shot at the post-season, as they potentially pursue their fifth win of the season, given they can defeat, 0-6, River Ridge this Friday night.

The potential fourth win opens the door to the possibility of inclusion in the post-season for Ashton-Franklin Center, however, the Raiders take on Polo in week eight, before traveling to Stockton on Oct. 23, to close the season. The path appears to be littered with possibly insurmountable challenges for AFC, as the 2015 regular season takes the turn into the home stretch.
