SMELL GAS? ACT FAST!

Natural gas is a colorless, odorless fuel, but for safety reasons, a chemical odorant sometimes described as a "rotten egg" smell is added, making the presence of gas detectable.

IF YOU SMELL THIS ODOR:

- Alert others and leave the area immediately.
- Leave the door open as you exit.
- Avoid touching anything that may cause a spark. This includes starting a car engine or using cell phones, lighters, matches, cigarettes, flashlights, light switches or landlines.
- Go to a phone away from the area and call Nicor Gas.

Natural gas odors should be reported right away. Do not try to locate the source of the smell.

If you smell natural gas, call Nicor Gas at 888.Nicor4U (642.6748).

The ghosts of Halloween past haunt many

I write this the day after Halloween weekend. We attended two parties this month and were tickled at the effort people put into their costumes.

Halloween has become a multi-billion dollar industry, and I say it's because we feel an innate need to return to a childlike spirit and playing dress up is fun!

Halloween lets people explore their creativity and literally try on a new mask or a new identity for a day. At one party, my Prince and I were charming pirates.

At the other we were from the roaring 20s. I had always wanted to be a flapper girl. Having a dress with the swingy fringe, a headdress with a feather, long black gloves and lots of bling is so my thing.

Eating lots of candy can be fun too.

I enjoy passing out treats to

Kelly Simmons
COLUMNIST

the neighborhood kids. We don't have many at the current joy house and they loved (seriously) the bags of popcorn I handed out. I delighted in their cuteness and politeness.

My Prince and I recalled our youth and how our neighborhoods swarmed with kids running from block to block street to street with pillow cases to hold all the sugary loot.

Coming home at the end of the night and dumping out all the treats on the floor and surveying the bounteous booty was just as much fun as going from house to house.

Some years, we emptied our bags at home and went back out. We had unending rows of houses to hit up in all directions. Finally at the end of the night, after a quick "safety" check from Mom and Dad (and giving Dad all the stuff I didn't like), we would feast. My sister would count how many items she got.

I probably did too. I know I ate all my Tootsie Rolls first. Oh, nostalgia. Now if I eat a Tootsie Roll, I wonder how I used to be so in love with the hard plastic chews, but I was.

Halloween fell out of vogue during my high school years and then returned again in college with parties and costumes. And beer.

Then when I became a mommy, getting my boys decked in their store-bought Power Ranger costumes made them happy. Carving pumpkins was fun. (There's that word again.)

Halloween's "meaning" or history has long faded to black in the US and the focus is simply on simple fun. Candy, decorations, costumes. Americans just want an excuse to play. (We don't need one, friends.)

Of the $7 billion spent on Halloween, $350 MILLION is on costumes for pets. It doesn't matter if kids are in the house or not, Halloween is now for adults and whoever we can dress up.

We Americans like to dress up our houses too. I don't go for the inflatables, but some décor is creative and lovely.

I'm thinking ahead to next year and planning a party. If it comes to be, you are all invited. In the meantime, hit the candy clearance sales.

The stores are already brimming with Christmas so it's up to you if you switch gears immediately or spend a month on turkeys, pilgrims, and gratitude before turning the décor to St. Nick and the baby Jesus.

The ghosts of my Halloween past are full of smiles and good memories. And probably a residual sugar buzz.

If you haven't dressed up in a costume in years, start thinking on it. You just might enjoy it. I'll keep you posted on my party date. You've got plenty of time.

Kelly Epperson Simmons has sparkly pumpkins in her house through Thanksgiving and then the trees come out. Connect Kelly at info@kellyepperson.com.

MY SECRET INDULGENCE: AN AFTERNOON NAP

What do you do with your free time?

If given an extra hour or two on a Saturday afternoon, some people will go out and play a round of golf or tennis. (There's never time for both.)

Others will take a warm bath, curl up with a good book or make a fresh batch of homemade peanut butter cookies.

Maybe there's a good movie or game or "Naked and Afraid" on TV. Some (but not many) will clean out the garage.

Each of these options has its own attributes, and I might choose any of them on an unencumbered Saturday, but none would be my first choice.

I have a secret indulgence reserved for Saturday afternoons. Sometimes my husband joins me. When I have a moment (or two) I opt for a nap.

There, I said it. I am a napper. I love (love, love) taking naps. Some Saturday mornings I wake up early just so I can schedule in a nap. I'm creative that way.

Jill Pertler
SLICES OF LIFE

I do not readily admit to my nappiness. It might make me appear lazy – sleeping in the middle of the day and all.

We live in a society where productivity and action are valued. (Who's going to clean out the garage if I am on the couch napping?) Still I believe there are inherent benefits to the occasional siesta.

I'm not alone. According to the National Sleep Foundation, 85 percent of mammals are polyphasic sleepers. Polyphasic sleepers snooze in short spurts, aka naps.

My felines nap all the time. (They don't call them catnaps for nothing.) If 85 percent of the animal population is doing something there has to be a good reason for it.

Napping is a way to avoid predators, get through the day unscathed and stay alive. It's pretty intelligent, really. I always knew my cats were smarter than me.

Animal kingdom aside, many important and influential people throughout history were nappers. Winston Churchill, John F. Kennedy, Napoleon, Einstein and Thomas Edison all napped – but not together.

There are actual books written on the benefits of napping, but why read about the subject when you can take a real nap yourself?

Scientific research shows numerous benefits to catching a few ZZZs in the afternoon. A NASA study found that short naps improve performance and alertness.

According to the buzz at BuzzFeed, napping can heighten creativity, promote relaxation, enhance memory, brighten mood and lower blood pressure.

We've all heard the expression, "You snooze you lose." With naps, this might just be the case. Studies show that sleepy fellows reach for less high-fat, sugary foods than those walking around with bags under their eyes.

That's not all. I saved the best for last. Sleep deprivation dampens sex drive. Napping reverses the effect. This is exponentiated if you can get your significant other to nap with you.

I may sleep on Saturdays, but some are taking napping to new levels – and days of the week. There's a growing trend that encourages short naps at work. Employers are recognizing the positive benefits of napping and allowing workers to catch a little shut-eye during the lunch hour. Some even provide napping pods and zero gravity chairs to enhance the whole experience. Gentle lighting and vibrations wake employees when it's time to get back to work. It gives a whole new meaning to the term "sleeping on the job."

I've always been a closet napper. Then I did some research for this column and discovered we afternoon sleepers should be loud and proud about our noontime habits. A little afternoon sleep can increase creativity, help you lose weight and boost your sex life. (Ka-ching!) There isn't any pill anywhere that can do that.

Counting sheep after lunch? I say count me in.

Sound Advice for a Sound Future

Changing Jobs or Retiring? Know Your 401(k) Rollover Options

You have several choices when you retire or change jobs. You can:

- Roll over your assets into an IRA.
- Roll over your assets to your current employer's plan (if you have a new job and the plan permits it).
- Keep your assets in your former employer's plan (if the plan permits it).
- Take a distribution in cash (taxes will apply and withdrawal penalties may apply).

Experience you can count on with Sound Advice from First National Investment Services.

Holiday Hosting

Time-saving tips for effortless entertaining

FAMILY FEATURES

This year, find creative ways to elevate your holiday hosting with a time-smart approach that's no less gourmet. Look for versatile recipes that can be made ahead, reheated in minutes and served straight from the oven to make holiday entertaining stress-free.

Creative combinations of fresh, seasonal ingredients transform typical casserole dishes from mundane to gourmet fare fit for any holiday occasion. But delicious time-smart cooking actually starts with the right cookware, such as the Anolon Advanced Umber casserole pan, which seamlessly moves from stove top to oven to table with a unique umber finish that brings warmth to your holiday spread. Anolon's high-performance, exceptionally crafted cookware, bakeware, cutlery and gadgets are offered in a wide selection to satisfy each home cook's unique style.

Another time-smart way to elevate your holiday entertaining is offering a selection of high quality wines to accompany your meal. Look for wines that consistently exhibit intense layers of flavor with complexity and balance, such as Kendall-Jackson's Vintner's Reserve collection. For example, Kendall-Jackson's 2013 Pinot Noir uses grapes grown in California's cool coastal vineyards to achieve flavors of ripe strawberry, raspberry, blackberry and dark cherry. Five months of aging in French oak barrels layers on aromatic hints of toast, vanilla and cedar.

Start your holiday menu with a versatile and savory bread pudding, created by Irvin Lin, author of the blog, Eat the Love. This winter dish is ideal for a crowd and offers the flexibility of serving smaller portions as a side item or larger portions for a main course.

"This bread pudding is perfect for a holiday brunch, easy lunch or casual holiday dinner," Lin said. "It can be made ahead of time for convenience and served at room temperature or warmed up."

Join @Anolon to discover your kitchen creativity and find more holiday hosting inspiration on Facebook, Pinterest, Instagram and Tumblr, and use the code ANOLONCOOKS (case sensitive) to receive 20 percent off your total order on Anolon.com this holiday season.

Follow Kendall-Jackson @KJWines on Facebook, Instagram and Pinterest for holiday food and wine pairing tips, recipes and holiday decor ideas. Use the code KJHOLIDAY to receive free shipping on orders of $49 or more on KJ.com.

Savory Mushroom, Bacon and Gruyere Bread Pudding

Servings: 6

- 1/2 pound bacon
- 1/2 pound (about 1/2 loaf) crusty sourdough bread
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 teaspoons chopped fresh thyme leaves
- 1 1/2 teaspoons kosher salt, divided
- 1 1/2 teaspoons fresh ground pepper, divided
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
- 6 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 1/2 cups chopped onions
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped red pepper
- 1/2 pound sliced button mushrooms
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley leaves
- 2 teaspoons dried oregano
- 4 large eggs
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 1 cup (4 ounces) shredded Gruyere cheese, divided

Place bacon in freezer to chill. This will help make it easier to chop. Heat oven to 375 F.

Cut bread into 1/2-inch cubes and place in large bowl. Drizzle olive oil over bread and sprinkle with thyme, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper and garlic powder. Toss with spatula to coat evenly, then spread bread evenly in one layer onto rimmed baking sheet. No need to clean bowl yet. Bake bread for 20 minutes or until bread starts to turn golden. Remove from oven and lower oven temperature to 350 F.

Remove bacon from freezer and finely chop it. In 3 1/2-quart oven-proof stovetop casserole pan, cook bacon over medium-high heat until crispy. Use slotted spoon to move bacon pieces to bowl lined with paper towel. Pour bacon grease out, but don't wipe out pan.

Add garlic to pan and cook over medium heat for 30 seconds or until it starts to smell fragrant. Add onions, celery and red pepper and cook for 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Add mushrooms and cook until all vegetables are soft, about 5 more minutes. Season with remaining salt and pepper.

Pour toasted bread into original large bowl and add vegetables and cooked bacon. Add parsley leaves and dried oregano, and mix together with large spatula. In medium bowl, whisk together eggs and cream. Pour over bread and vegetables, add 1/2 the shredded Gruyere cheese and mix with spatula. Pour entire contents back into casserole pan.

Sprinkle top of pudding with remaining cheese. Place in oven and bake for 30-35 minutes or until top of bread pudding has turned golden brown and cheese is melted. Serve warm.

Recipe Reimagined

Eat the Love blog author Irvin Lin offers these variations and tips for a winning dish your guests will love:

- Make the bread pudding vegetarian by omitting the bacon, using 1 tablespoon of olive oil to saute the vegetables and adding 1/2 cup of smoked Gouda cheese to the filling.
- If you can't find Gruyere cheese, feel free to substitute Jarlsberg or Swiss.
- To reheat the pudding if you prepare ahead of time, bake for 15 minutes in the oven at 350 F.
