The Scoop/ Shopper's Guide

Former local banker, Bob Russell, writes book!

Former Northern Illinois resident and local banker, Bob Russell has recently released a new book entitled, "The American Dream." The book tells the inspiring life stories of 17 people who achieved financial success through free market capitalism. Among the stories in the book are those of four local entrepreneurs – Joe Eaton of Special Power, Inc., Mike Fisher of Heartwood Creations, Inc., Brian and Bev Nelson of The Bedroom, Inc. and Russell's parents who were farmers from Capron.

Russell wrote this book to celebrate our free market economy and to honor those who achieved The American Dream. Many books have been written about the tycoons of the past, but this book is about average people who worked hard and achieved their dreams. Russell was compelled to write the book after hearing many of these inspiring stories from his friends. The hardships and difficulties that some had to overcome in order to become successful is amazing. The common thread among all of these entrepreneurs is that they had the vision, determination and intelligence to succeed.

Today many people question if The American Dream is still achievable, which makes the book especially helpful for teenagers and young adults as they are determining a career path to enable them to achieve their goals and dreams. Russell has donated this book to over 200 colleges, public libraries and high schools throughout the country including all those in Ogle, Boone and Winnebago counties.

The author, Bob Russell, was born and raised on a farm in Boone County and spent his entire career in banking in Rockford. He now resides in Fort Myers, Florida
