Pearl City takes first swings into new season

By Chris Johnson
SPORTS CORRESPONDENT

With winter weather returning to the area to open the "official" first week of the spring sports season, things had to be reconsidered as starting times and first pitches faced delays.

The three-time defending Regional and 2015-2016 Sectional Champion Pearl City Lady Wolves, if weather-conditions required, got a little more time to think about how well things turned out last season.

The Lady Wolves have a lot to be proud of and a lot to hold onto as they enter play this spring. They defeated Lena-Winslow to win the Class 1A Pecatonica Girls' Sectional Title to close last year's spring sports season. Now they look at a roster that has a lot of offensive weapons in place to help them open the new season.

Game play was scheduled to begin on Monday, March 13 against Aquin. The start time coincided with a scheduled boys' match between Pearl City and Aquin.

A match against Freeport was also scheduled to open this week of play. The Wednesday, March 15 first pitch was slated for send-off at 4:30 p.m.

Pearl City is expected to be strong this season on the softball diamond. They know they are going to have the capacity to score a lot of runs and now that opportunity is supported by a lot more confidence.

It's difficult to enter a new season as a defending Sectional Champion and not feel a sense of "duty" to live up to it...and perhaps try to do even more, this time. A bigger parade would be waiting and sometimes athletes just know it.

The Lady Wolves closed the 2015-2016 season with a 28-4 record. The season before, with Head Coach Mark Melville, Pearl City was 24-3 and had successfully defended its Regional Title that it earned with Melville, following a 19-6, 2013-2014 softball season.

Heading into last season's Class 1A Sectional Final against Lena-Winslow, Pearl City had already secured its third consecutive Regional Title and "had a feeling", according to recalled comments from Melville, that they "truly had a chance for even more success."

It came to be for the Lady Wolves. Kendra Melville pitched strong late and collected the "needed" strikeouts to help get the best of Lena-Winslow. The win in Pecatonica helped the Lady Wolves capture their first ever Class 1A Sectional Crown.

Pearl City is scheduled to host Pecatonica, weather permitting, to return the favor, on Thursday, March 16.

Following the Thursday meeting with the Lady Indians, the Lady Wolves look to get a slight respite before they head out on the road and into NUIC-play, beginning Saturday, March 18 in a junior-varsity, varsity double-header at Polo.

The road trip continues on Tuesday, March 21 as an attempt to silence the Lady Thunder is made in Savanna. A night later Pearl City closes its journey in Milledgeville.

Pearl City is scheduled to face down one of the many tough challenges they will have to realize this season Saturday, March 25, as they travel to play Rockford East.

Area educator receives award at career and technical education annual conference

Elizabeth Chambers, of Oregon, IL, was recently named the recipient of the "IACTE New Teacher of the Year Award" during the Illinois Association for Career and Technical Education annual conference. The conference was held at the President Abraham Lincoln Springfield -a Doubletree by Hilton Hotel in Springfield, IL, Feb. 15-17.

The New Teacher of the Year Award goes to a full time classroom/laboratory Career and Technical Education (CTE) teacher at the middle, secondary or post-secondary school level with three to five years' experience of teaching. This award is given to an individual for making significant contributions toward innovative and unique career and technical education programs and showing a professional commitment early in his or her career." Ms. Chambers was nominated by her administrator, Jen Newendyke.

Ms. Chambers has been the Program Coordinator and Lead Instructor for the Health Occupations Youth Apprenticeship (HOYA) program for CareerTEC in Freeport, IL since 2013. Her commitment to quality Career and Technical Education has contributed to an increased program student enrollment of 60%, from 58 to 93 students from fiscal year 2013 to fiscal year 2017. During the same time period, assessment scores on the Certified Nursing Assistant exam have increased by six percent. ## Clarence Mitchell Library at HCC presents 'A Shameful Affair: The 1908 Springfield Race Riot'

Highland Community College's Clarence Mitchell Library is pleased to offer a program with guest speaker Kathryn Harris who will speak about the history of the 1908 Springfield, Illinois race riot. The conflict made national headlines and provided much of the impetus for the founding of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). "A Shameful Affair: The 1908 Springfield Race Riot" will take place at 2 p.m. on Tuesday, March 28 at the Clarence Mitchell Library in the Marvin-Burt Liberal Arts building. The riot started because a white woman claimed that she had been raped by a black man. She would later confess that her account had been false, but not in time to prevent a deadly race riot from erupting in the hometown of the Great Emancipator in the summer of 1908.

Kathryn Harris, a regional historian and retired library services director at the Abraham Lincoln Presidential Library, will relate the history of the 1908 Springfield Race Riot and lead a discussion about current race relations in Springfield, Illinois, and the United States.

The event is being produced in part by the Illinois Humanities Council's Road Scholars Speakers Bureau, a program that provides organizations statewide with affordable, entertaining, and thought-provoking humanities events for communities. A roster of speakers, hailing from 20 different towns and cities across Illinois, present topics in history, culture, literature, music, politics, law, science and more.

The Clarence Mitchell Library is committed to the success of the Highland community, students, faculty and staff in learning, teaching and research. The Illinois Humanities Council is an independent, nonprofit state affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities, dedicated to fostering a culture in which the humanities are a vital part of the lives of individuals and communities. The IHC creates programs and funds organizations that promote greater understanding of, appreciation for, and involvement in the humanities by all Illinoisans, regardless of their economic resources, cultural background, or geographic location. The IHC is supported by state, federal and private funds.

The event is free and open to all audiences. The Clarence Mitchell Library is located on the second floor of the Marvin-Burt Liberal Arts Center at Highland Community College. ## Bustos introduces bipartisan legislation to expand access to Pell Grants for students Congresswoman Cheri Bustos (IL-17) introduced the Flexible Pell Grant for 21st Century Students Act, a bipartisan bill that will allow students to use their Pell Grant awards year-round. Joining Congresswoman Bustos to introduce this bipartisan legislation are Republican Representatives Elise Stefanik (NY-21) and Carlos Curbelo (FL-26). Congresswoman Bustos has long been pushing for more flexibility for students with Pell Grants, especially those attending community colleges, and has previously introduced similar legislation in past years.

"As the mother of three boys, I know how important quality and affordable education is to getting a good-paying job and building a better life for hardworking Illinoisans in our region," Congresswoman Bustos said. "After visiting each of the seven community colleges in our Congress-sional District, I heard from students and administrators about the need for more flexibility for Pell Grant awards – that's why over the past few years, I've been pushing strongly for this bipartisan and commonsense legislation. This bill would give students more options in choosing when to take classes and would enable them to save money by entering the workforce faster. The colleges and universities in our region offer a pathway to success to so many Illinois students, so I'll continue to do everything I can to help make higher education affordable and accessible for all."

"As the youngest Member of Congress and the Chair of the House Republican Policy Committee's Millennial Task Force, I am pleased to introduce this important, bipartisan measure to help make college more affordable for North Country families," said Congresswoman Stefan-

ik. "This legislation is a direct result of concerns that were raised from my Higher Education roundtables throughout the district, and from Carole McCoy, President of Jefferson Community College. Right now, Pell Grants are only available for qualifying students during the fall and spring semesters. By expanding the eligibility window to include summer classes and increasing the possible maximum Pell Grant award by 50 percent, we can make sure that low and middle income families have added flexibility to achieve a college degree. As the first member of my immediate family to graduate from college, making higher education more affordable and more accessible is a top priority of mine and I urge my colleagues to support this commonsense legislation."

"We need to ensure students who wish to complete a postsecondary education can do so as quickly and affordably as possible," said Congressman Curbelo. "This bipartisan bill would help many South Florida students graduate faster and at a lower cost by providing them the flexibility to draw Pell Grant funds at a faster pace to pay for additional courses."

Unfortunately, outdated higher education programs do not meet the needs of contemporary students, especially those who attend community colleges. For example, while the Pell Grant provides support for more than one-third of all undergraduate students, the program fails to adequately support those who want to complete their studies more quickly by taking additional courses beyond the traditional academic year.

After hearing concerns from students and officials from community colleges in our region, Congresswoman Bustos is proud to work across the aisle and introduce the Flexible Pell Grant for 21st Century Students Act, which will help students complete a postsecondary education more quickly and at a lower cost.

Study: Medicare prescription drug benefit reduced elderly mortality by more than two percent

CONTACT: Phil Ciciora
U OF I BUSINESS & LAW EDITOR

A new paper co-written by a University of Illinois expert in health care economics provides the first evidence that the increase in drug utilization attributable to Medicare Part D saved lives.

The implementation of Medicare's prescription drug benefit program has reduced elderly mortality by 2.2 percent annually since 2006, according to an analysis by Julian Reif, a professor of finance and of economics at Illinois.

"A big question in health economics is 'Do public health insurance programs improve people's health?'" said Reif, also a faculty member of the Institute of Government and Public Affairs and the Center for Business and Public Policy. "You would think the answer would be obvious, but it's a hard thing to prove. This paper provides strong evidence that health insurance programs improve health, and that reducing the price of medical care also improves health."

The study, which will be published in the Journal of Health Economics, compared trend differences in mortality between the "young-elderly" (age 66) who had been eligible for Medicare Part D for at least one year and the "near-elderly" (age 64) who were not yet eligible during the implementation phase of the prescription drug insurance program.

"The analysis in the paper is very simple: People over the age of 65 are almost universally eligible for Medicare, people under age 65 are not," Reif said. "The paper looks at changes in the mortality rate of people just over age 65 versus people just under age 65. We looked at it before and after Medicare Part D came online."

Reif and co-author Jason Huh, a U. of I. doctoral student, found a 2.2 percent annual reduction in the mortality rate among 66-year-olds relative to 64-year-olds, "an effect that is primarily driven by a 4.4 percent reduction in cardiovascular mortality," according to the paper.

"It fits in this more general question about the efficacy of public health insurance programs in improving our health," Reif said. "There are other papers that look at Medicare and Medicaid, and their effect on public health. This paper is the first to look at Medicare Part D."

Reif said the advantage of the study is that the population is very large, "and you need a really large dataset to detect these effects."

"We employed detailed cause-of-death mortality records for the entire U.S. population, which allowed us to measure mortality, a relatively rare event, very precisely," he said. "A lot of other studies can't look at mortality because their sample size is too small."

The prescription drug program currently serves 39 million Medicare beneficiaries and spends $70 billion per year. Reif calculated the social value of the reduction in elderly mortality attributable to Medicare Part D at $5 billion per year. Combining this result with prior studies evaluating its nonhealth benefits yields a total benefit of about $20 billion per year, which accounts for a sizeable fraction of the program's total expenditures, Reif said.

There's certainly more to health than how long you live," Reif said. "We look at mortality because it's easy to measure. But you take prescription drugs not just to live longer but also to relieve pain or to manage symptoms. There are quality-of-life benefits as well that come from health care; it's just harder to measure those. But it's reasonable to think that if you're finding mortality effects there are drugs that are also making useful quality-of-life improvements, as well. To really evaluate whether what we spent on it was worth it, you really want to take into account all those things."

While Medicare Part D was initially criticized as a boon to the pharmaceutical industry, others argued that the program's potential health benefits would make its costs worthwhile, Reif said.

"I think the paramount concern is what has been the effect on people's health," he said. "The more we improve people's health, the more we should be OK with spending $70 billion per year on Medicare Part D. Regardless of whether you think we're overpaying pharmaceutical companies for drugs, it does appear to be improving people's health. It should be comforting to know that we're at least getting some results."

In light of the legislative ruminations to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act, the effect of health insurance on health is a fundamental question for policymakers, Reif said.

"This matters because we spend a lot of money on social insurance programs like Medicaid and Medicare, and one of the major justifications for social insurance programs like Medicare and Medicaid is that they save lives and actually improve people's health," he said. "So I think it's important to know that there's evidence that these programs really work to reduce mortality."

James Beaudry announces departure from Timber Lake Playhouse

Timber Lake Playhouse Artistic Director James Beaudry has announced that the upcoming summer season will be his last with the Mount Carroll theatre company. Executive Director Dan Danielowski and Board Vice President Bernie Leopold jointly announced Beaudry's resignation at the company's annual meeting in November. Beaudry will direct and choreograph this season's productions of Evita and Carousel.

"Jim has been with the company for sixteen years, eight of them as Artistic Director," said Danielowski. "To replace someone with his artistic talents and experience at TLP will be difficult at best." Beaudry has served TLP as a performer, director and choreographer working on over 100 productions during his tenure at TLP.

"TLP has been my artistic home since 2001, and it's been my privilege to serve the community as Artistic Director since Brad Lyons, my mentor and friend, left the company in 2009," Beaudry said. "The job and responsibility of Artistic Director has grown beyond something that allows me to continue my directing and choreography career outside of the playhouse. I'm looking forward to pursuing other opportunities – and taking a summer vacation for the first time in 17 years."

"I will miss Jim's clairvoyance as a director, and his keen ability to recreate and reinterpret Broadway standards," said Bernie Leopold, TLP Vice President and head of the HR Committee. "His work is gaining national attention." In Beaudry's eight seasons leading the company, TLP has produced a diverse list of plays and musicals that sets TLP apart from most summer stock companies. "I'm grateful that the board of directors has had the vision to support plays like The Big Meal and Having Our Say and musicals like Sunset Boulevard and Flight of The Lawnchair Man in addition to popular titles like Footloose and Mary Poppins," said Beaudry.

TLP's programming has given the theatre a national reputation that's allowed Beaudry to hire a very select group of early-career performers and established directors. "There's something magical about that combination of talent from around the country and Midwestern ambition that pushes each production to be greater than the sum of its parts," Beaudry stated. "Thanks to the support of our audiences and committed board members, the company has grown tremendously."

Since Beaudry took over as Artistic Director in 2009, TLP has doubled its operating budgets and staff size, increased programming by 25%, and completed a major building project and land acquisition. "The administrative part of the company is in good hands," said Beaudry, "and I'm hopeful that the artistic legacy that Brad started and I've continued remains the central focus of Timber Lake."

"We have all been touched by Jim's passion, inspiration, and professional expression of theatre arts. I encourage you to come out to the theatre to make Jim's last season the best yet," said Robin Saar, TLP Board President. A national search for a new artistic director will begin immediately with announcement of a new Artistic Director to come in September of 2017.

Timber Lake's 56th Summer Season will include Mary Poppins, Ah! Wilderness, Evita, Scapino, Carousel, and Little Shop of Horrors. The Magic Owl Children's Theatre will produce Charlotte's Web in May and Cinderella during the season. The Jukebox Series includes Pump Boys and Dinettes in May and Million Dollar Quartet in September. For more information, visit our website at www.timberlakeplayhouse.org. TLP's Box Office opens April 3, but tickets to all productions are now available online.

Midwinter Bald Eagle count results released

Terrence Ingram, Coordinator for the Eagle Nature Foundation's Midwinter Bald Eagle Count has just released the results of the 2017 Annual Count, which was conducted by many volunteers between Minnesota and Tennessee. This is the 57th year for this count to be conducted. This count was conducted in primarily a two hour period, from 9 to 11 a.m. on Saturday, Jan. 28, 2017. The reason this count is conducted during the last weekend in January is that normally the end of January is between the bald eagle's Southern migration and the Northern migration. The two hour time frame is to keep the duplication of bald eagle sightings to a minimum.

This year 1,257 bald eagles were sighted. Of these 795 were adults, 62 were sub-adults, 299 were immatures and 101 were of unknown age. This resulted in an immature to adult ratio of 31.2 %, which is just slightly below last year's ratio of 31.8 %, even though almost 50% more eagles were counted this year than last year.

Part of the reason more eagles were counted is because we had more volunteers counting in more areas than last year. Volunteers included US Army Corps personnel, Fish & Wildlife personnel, many conservation organizations as well as many, many individuals from northern Wisconsin down to Tennessee and out to eastern Nebraska.

If we would look at just the same areas the count covered in the early 1960's, the numbers we are seeing now are lower than they were at that time. Those same areas this year recorded only a total of 413 bald eagles, with 307 adults, 28 subadults, 38 immatures and 40 of unknown age. This is only about 2/3 of the numbers that were seen on the very first count in 1961, when 621 bald eagles were counted. Isn't anyone else alarmed? Have they moved away from the Mississippi? If so, where?

We can even look at long term trends. The count's first five year average of immature to adult ratios was 19.4 % and the second 5-year average was 28.5%. Our last five year average of immature to adult ratios is only 25.5 %, which is lower than even the second 5-year average. Ever since then this five year average has been higher, reaching a high of 32.4% about 1988 and 30.8% in 1998. The 10 year averages have gone from 21.5% in the first 10 years up to 31.6% in the third 10 years and back down to 26.8% in the past 10 years. This compares with the 57 year average of 27.3%.

The bald eagle population was reproducing well from about 1968 until about 2005. Since then something is affecting its reproduction and bringing the 5 averages back to a level that is below what it was during the second five years of the count.

We must determine what is affecting our bald eagle population before this percentage drops even further!

CELEBRATE ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Who was St. Patrick?

Compiled by Tony Carton
EDITOR

St. Patrick, the patron saint of Ireland, is one of Christianity's most widely known figures. But for all his celebrity, his life remains somewhat of a mystery. Many of the stories traditionally associated with St. Patrick, including the famous account of his banishing all the snakes from Ireland, are false, the products of hundreds of years of exaggerated storytelling.

taken prisoner by a group of Irish raiders who were attacking his family's estate. They transported him to Ireland where he spent six years in captivity. (There is some dispute over where this captivity took place. Although many believe he was taken to live in Mount Slemish in County Antrim, it is more likely that he was held in County Mayo near Killala.) During this time, he worked as a shepherd, outdoors and away from people. Lonely and afraid, he turned to his religion for solace, becoming a devout Christian. (It is also believed that Patrick first began to dream of converting the Irish people to Christianity during his captivity.)

leave Ireland.

To do so, Patrick walked nearly 200 miles from County Mayo, where it is believed he was held, to the Irish coast. After escaping to Britain, Patrick reported that he experienced a second revelation—an angel in a dream tells him to return to Ireland as a missionary. Soon after, Patrick began religious training, a course of study that lasted more than 15 years. After his ordination as a priest, he was sent to Ireland with a dual mission: to minister to Christians already living in Ireland and to begin to convert the Irish. (Interestingly, this mission contradicts the widely held notion that Patrick introduced Christianity to Ireland.)

Taken prisoner by Irish raiders

It is known that St. Patrick was born in Britain to wealthy parents near the end of the fourth century. He is believed to have died on March 17, around 460 A.D. Although his father was a Christian deacon, it has been suggested that he probably took on the role because of tax incentives and there is no evidence that Patrick came from a particularly religious family. At the age of 16, Patrick was

Guided by visions

After more than six years as a prisoner, Patrick escaped. According to his writing, a voice—which he believed to be God's—spoke to him in a dream, telling him it was time to

Bonfires and crosses

Familiar with the Irish language and culture, Patrick chose to incorporate traditional ritual into his lessons of Christianity instead of attempting to eradicate native Irish beliefs. For instance, he used bonfires to celebrate Easter since the Irish were used to honoring their gods with fire. He also superimposed a sun, a powerful Irish symbol, onto the Christian cross to create what is now called a Celtic cross, so that veneration of the symbol would seem more natural to the Irish. Although there were a small number of Christians on the island when Patrick arrived, most Irish practiced a nature-based pagan religion. The Irish culture centered around a rich tradition of oral legend and myth. When this is considered, it is no surprise that the story of Patrick's life became exaggerated over the centuries—spinning exciting tales to remember history has always been a part of the Irish way of life.

The Durbin Report: The GOP's Reckless Health Care Repeal Plan will hurt middle-class families and seniors

This week, House Republicans finally revealed their plan to repeal health care. It would cause millions of Americans to lose their health insurance, increase costs for seniors and middle-class families, and cut benefits. Organizations like the AARP, the American Medical Association, and the American Nurses Association have already spoken out to condemn this reckless bill.

The Republican's plan wouldn't just cause millions of people across the country to lose their health insurance and increase costs for middle-class families and seniors. It would also end Medicaid as we know it; hurting seniors, children, and people with disabilities, as well as shifting costs onto already-stretched state budgets. It would cut taxes for the very wealthy and shorten the solvency of Medicare by at least four years. And the Republicans, ever the guardians of the national treasury, released this bill without any report from the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office on how many people it would cover, how it would change premiums, and how much it would add to the deficit.

Frankly, it is unclear what problems the Republican repeal bill will actually solve. It will not help more people become insured in fact, the American Enterprise Institute estimates that ten to fifteen million Americans will lose their health coverage under the Republican plan.

It will not make health insurance more affordable in fact, it will increase out-of-pocket costs for most Americans, especially seniors. And it will not improve the quality of health insurance, in fact it will eliminate many of the currently guaranteed benefits. Perhaps that is why virtually every medical and patient group we have heard from opposes the legislation.

For seven years, I've said that if Republicans would take repeal of health care off the table, I'll pull up a chair. But with this reckless bill, Republicans have shown us that the only thing they are serious about is cutting taxes for the wealthy, increasing out-of-pocket costs for middle-class families and seniors, and throwing people off their health insurance plans

Take three actions to fight the flu

Compiled by Tony Carton
EDITOR

Take time to get a flu vaccine

CDC recommends a yearly flu vaccine as the first and most important step in protecting against flu viruses.

While there are many different flu viruses, a flu vaccine protects against the viruses that research suggests will be most common.

Flu vaccination can reduce flu illnesses, doctors' visits, and missed work and school due to flu, as well as prevent flu-related hospitalizations.

Everyone 6 months of age and older should get a flu vaccine by the end of October, if possible.

CDC recommends use of injectable influenza vaccines (including inactivated influenza vaccines and recombinant influenza vaccines) during 2016-2017. The nasal spray flu vaccine (live attenuated influenza vaccine or LAIV) should not be used during 2016-2017.

Vaccination of high risk persons is especially important to decrease their risk of severe flu illness.

People at high risk of serious flu complications include young children, pregnant women, people with chronic health conditions like asthma, diabetes or heart and lung disease and people 65 years and older.

Vaccination also is important for health care workers, and other people who live with or care for high risk people to keep from spreading flu to them.

Children younger than six-months are at high risk of serious flu illness, but are too young to be vaccinated. People who care for infants should be vaccinated instead.

Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze.

Take everyday preventive actions to stop the spread of germs

Try to avoid close contact with sick people.

While sick, limit contact with others as much as possible to keep from infecting them.

If you are sick with flu-like illness, CDC recommends that you stay home for at least 24 hours after your fever is gone except to get medical care or for other necessities. (Your fever should be gone for 24 hours without the use of a fever-reducing medicine.)

Cover your nose and mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze. Throw the tissue in the trash after you use it.

Wash your hands often with soap and water. If soap and water are not available, use an alcohol-based hand rub.

Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth. Germs spread this way.

Clean and disinfect surfaces and objects that may be contaminated with germs like the flu.

Take flu antiviral drugs if your doctor prescribes them

If you get the flu, antiviral drugs can be used to treat your illness.

Antiviral drugs are different from antibiotics. They are prescription medicines (pills, liquid or an inhaled powder) and are not available over-the-counter.

Antiviral drugs can make illness milder and shorten the time you are sick. They may also prevent serious flu complications. For people with high-risk factors, treatment with an antiviral drug can mean the difference between having a milder illness versus a very serious illness that could result in a hospital stay.

Studies show that flu antiviral drugs work best for treatment when they are started within 2 days of getting sick, but starting them later can still be helpful, especially if the sick person has a high-risk health condition or is very sick from the flu. Follow your doctor's instructions for taking this drug.

Flu-like symptoms include fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills and fatigue. Some people also may have vomiting and diarrhea. People may be infected with the flu, and have respiratory symptoms without a fever.

The Bluegrass Express will be performing at Calvary Church in Stockton on Sunday evening, March 19

Bluegrass Express to perform

The Bluegrass Express will be performing at Calvary Church in Stockton on Sunday evening, March 19, at 7 p.m. The Bluegrass Express was formed in 1980 by the father-son team of Gary and Greg Underwood. The band has been in existence and performed extensively from Michigan to Mississippi and all points in between. The band currently consists of Gary Underwood, son: Greg Underwood, grandson: Jacob Underwood and Nate Burie.

The band plays traditional and bluegrass gospel music and has received many awards. Jacob joined the band at age 11 and later won the fiddler award at the Sandwich Fair and was the winner twice at the Woodstock Harvest Fest in the mandolin contest. They are each expert at several instruments, playing between them the guitar, fiddle, bass fiddle, banjo and mandolin.

The Bluegrass Express is the third offering in the Calvary-Wesley Lenten Series. The event is open to the public. A free will offering will be taken.

HCC to discontinue Wind Turbine Technician program due to low enrollment

During their Feb. 21 meeting, the Highland Community College Board of Trustees approved a resolution reducing the number of full-time faculty, citing low enrollment in the Wind Turbine Technician program. The resolution impacts one full-time faculty member and will result in a discontinuation of the Wind Turbine Technician associate of applied science degree and certificates.

According to Highland officials, the program has seen a decline in enrollment in recent years. This past fall, there was insufficient registration to run the introductory course, and there are currently no new students registered for first-year wind technology courses.

"When the new degree was announced in the spring of 2008, there was a substantial wind farm being developed in the College district which led to a great deal of local and regional interest, particularly among non-traditional students looking to retool their skills to enter a new and growing field," said Dean of Business and Technology Scott Anderson. "We have seen that interest wane in recent years."

Anderson went on to say that while there are job opportunities for technicians in the wind industry in other regions of the country, the College was unsuccessful in recruiting students from those areas, largely because similar educational programs are readily available to potential students in those regions.

Begun in the fall of 2008, the program has produced 70 degree and certificate completers. Graduates have secured employment in the wind industry and related fields in 12 states and several foreign countries.

"We have been pleased with the accomplishments of our Wind Turbine Technician graduates," said Anderson. "Recently, much of the local employment opportunities available to them have been in the high-demand field of industrial maintenance technology."

Anderson pointed out that the College's Mechatronics degree, begun this past fall, will continue to provide pathways to employment in the industrial maintenance field, and that many of the more marketable skills gained in the Wind Turbine Technician program will continue to be delivered through the new Mechatronics program.

All students currently pursuing the Wind Turbine Technician degree are enrolled in the final semester of courses and will have the opportunity to complete their program in May of this year.

"The College has introduced a number of new programs in the last two years based on student demand including Criminal Justice, Environmental Science, Hospitality Management, Mass Communication, Mechatronics, and Phlebotomy," said Director of Marketing and Community Relations Pete Willging. "The College continues to focus on growth in areas where there is student interest and community need."

"The decision to discontinue a program is never taken lightly," said Highland President Tim Hood. "Enrollment trends, associated costs, market outlook and student interest are all taken into consideration when evaluating a program's viability. This is an example of how we are responsibly and carefully allocating College resources in ways that will best serve the needs of the College district."

How big of a problem is tax fraud? More than 1.8 million fraudulently filed returns were identified by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) in 2015 – totaling a whopping $12.3 billion in fraudulent refunds. However, the IRS stopped more than $11.4 billion in potential fraudulent payouts.

To help taxpayers steer clear of tax return fraud, the Illinois CPA Society outlines some common tactics fraudsters use to deceive people into providing personal information, including posing as an IRS official.

What Scammers Don't Want You to Know

Some of the sophisticated methods criminals rely on to trick people include spoofing caller ID readouts to make it appear a call is coming from the IRS. There are also "phishing" scams – where regular mail and emails asking for your updated information are distributed. They contain official IRS logos, contact information and are made to look real, but are not. Taxpayers as well as tax practitioners are often targets of phishing scams.

In addition to never contacting taxpayers by email, text messages or social media channels to request or confirm personal or financial information, the IRS also warns it does not:

Use scare tactics: Making threats of arrest, confiscation of professional licenses and even deportation in order to get you to make an immediate payment

- Call you about your tax bill without first sending you a bill in the mail
- Demand you pay taxes owed and not allow you to question or appeal the amount
- Require that you pay your taxes a certain way (prepaid debit card or specific type of payment)

• Ask for credit or debit card numbers over the phone

• Threaten to bring in police or other agencies to arrest you for not paying

• Threaten you with a lawsuit

Initial contact by the IRS usually happens in a letter through regular mail. If you believe you're the target of a phishing scam, you can forward it to phishing@irs.gov. Additional details are at the IRS Tax Scams/Consumer Alert web page.

Monitoring your credit report for unusual activity, not using public Wi-Fi connections to send private information and shredding old financial documents are a few ID theft prevention steps that may help stop tax fraud. And during tax season, having your tax forms delivered to you electronically and filing returns early can also help thwart criminals.

Science Siesta! girls + science = fun!

Have you ever dreamt of spending the night in a museum? No, this is not a movie, it's Science Siesta! Hosted by University of Illinois Extension, this annual event for fourth-sixth grade girls will take place on April 21 and 22. Once again, this program will be held at the Discovery Center Children's Museum in Rockford. This action-packed overnight will combine the fun of a pajama party with hands-on science experiences. "This is our sixteenth year of conducting Science Siesta, we have reached over 2,400 girls so far and we are excited to continue to offer this fun, interactive event to encourage girls to consider science-related career fields," said Johnna Jennings, University of Extension 4-H Youth Development Educator.

At Science Siesta, girls have the opportunity to meet females in actual science career fields from throughout northern Illinois. The scientists will share information about their background and involve the girls in activities much like they complete in their work every day.

Following the face-to-face interaction with female scientists, youth participate in activities based on the "Wonderwise" curriculum developed by the University of Nebraska. This curriculum highlights the work of female scientists and then translates their work into hands-on science based activities, which are fun and engaging. Participating girls may choose one of three workshop tracks for breakout sessions. Their choices include activities from "Vet Detective", "Parasite Sleuth" and "Urban Ecologist".

Statistics show that girls are less likely to pursue degrees and careers in science and mathematics than boys. Researchers agree that this is a complex problem with no easy answers, but believe that there are things that can be done. They suggest that having role models that girls can look up to, as well as making science fun and interactive will encourage girls to stay involved and interested in science. Events such as Science Siesta are designed to help bridge the gap for girls at a time when many may start to lose interest in science or question whether science is a field they should choose.

Science Siesta for Girls will begin with registration at 5 p.m. on Friday, April 21 and will conclude with check-out at 8:30 a.m. on Saturday, April 22. The registration fee is $40 per girl. The registration fee covers pizza, snack, breakfast, admission to the Discovery Center Children's Museum and all hands-on activities. For additional information, as well as to register for either one of these Science Siesta events, go to the University of Illinois Extension website at <http://web.extension.illinois.edu/bdo/> or call (815) 758-8194. The registration deadline for this event is Friday, April 7
