Stockton UU Church to host Potters for Peace event

By John Day
REPORTER

The Stockton Unitarian Universalist Church will be having a special guest at their January 20th service. The church often features a guest speaker as part of their regular service. Jennifer Mally, Executive Director of Potters for Peace, will be talking about art pottery and the organizations efforts to help indigenous people throughout the world.

“Our worship committee does a wonderful job of finding speakers that bring to the forefront that are relevant to our beliefs about social justice, humane action and charitable work,” said Stockton Unitarian Universalist Pastor Armida Alexander. “We really believe that the work being done by Potters for Peace embodies the spirit of our beliefs and concerns. If issues such as this interest people, I encourage them to check our website for information about our mission, weekly services and future speakers.”

Mark and Sheila Haman are members of the Stockton Unitarian Universalist Church and Mark is a member of the Worship Committee. Sheila Haman said, “The Twenty Dirty Hands Art Show has been an ongoing art pottery event in Galena for some time. One of the participating pottery artists is Stephanie O’Shaunnessy, who has worked and done classes at Adamah Pottery Studio in Dodgeville, Wisconsin. O’Shaunnessy introduced Mark and I to Jennifer Mally, who spoke about her involvement with Potters for Peace and their mission. Almost instantly, Mark told me that we must have this woman speak at our church.”

Mark and Sheila learned that Potters for Peace helps indigenous people establish sustainable pottery businesses for themselves. Just as important, Potters for Peace also works around the world training people to produce a filtering system that provides safe, clean, potable water at low cost.

“This filtering system consists of a bucket shaped clay vessel, formed in a press, which has been made from local terra cotta and a combustible material. Firing the vessel in a kiln burns off the combustible material leaving fine porous clay walls. The vessel is coated with colloidal silver. The pore size and bactericidal properties of the silver remove bacteria as the contaminated water seeps through the vessel walls. When in use, the filter is placed in five-gallon plastic or ceramic receptacle which collects the clean water. The filtering rate is 1.5 to 2.5 liters per hour.”

Mally said, “We are funded 100 percent by grants and donations. Potters for Peace has been working primarily in Nicaragua, but we are a worldwide organization. We help indigenous people, predominantly women, start their own business by providing equipment and supplies for potters. The pottery that they produce

On Jan. 20, the Unitarian Universalist Church of Stockton will host guest speaker Jennifer Mally, the Executive Director of Potters for Peace. Jennifer will talk about the organization’s 2-part efforts to help indigenous, rural potters in Nicaragua become sustainable artists and help them preserve their traditional ceramic techniques, and second, to help set up ceramic water filter production sites throughout the world to help communities without clean potable water.

is both functional and artistic. The designs created by these local people are heavily influenced by their cultural heritage.

“Although I’m a pottery artist myself, I also have a background in mechanical engineering. Simple, efficient technology fascinates me. In addition to helping people develop their own pottery business, we’re involved with the manufacture and distribution of a water purification system. Clean water is a serious issue in undeveloped countries. We train local people to produce a very simple system that is inexpensive and easy to use. The technology of the system is as old as pottery making. The service and program scheduled for Jan. 20 will begin at 10:30 a.m. The Unitarian Universalist Church of Stockton is located at 219 N. Pearl St. in Stockton. The church has a Facebook page and can be reached at 815-990-8200. Potters for Peace can be contacted through its website www.pottersforpeace.org. # Why I honor the American Flag essays

Why I honor the American Flag

By Sadie Fry
FIRST PLACE: RIVER RIDGE VFW ESSAY
Americans have been standing for the flag since June 14, 1777, the day Continental Congress declared the flag, "The flag of independence." The union is thirteen stars, a blue field, and red and white stripes. The flag now has 50 stars for each state and 13 stripes to represent the British colonies that declared independence from the Kingdom of Great Britain "We stand for the flag today, not to please ourselves but to honor those who paid the ultimate sacrifice for our freedom."- John Hill. That quote is why most Americans stand for the flag, to honor the ones who have lost their lives for us.

The national anthem was written by Francis Scott Key. It was inspired by the British bombing Ft. McHenry during the war of 1812. It is sung at sport events and more. People take off their hats and put their hands on their hearts to honor the flag. The entire space goes quiet when the music starts. People can show abundance about themselves by the way they sing it; they also hum along to show their appreciation. The song basically says "I'm American".

"I pledge allegiance to the flag" Is what I say every day before I start school. The whole class stands. Most, if not all schools do this every day, once a day. It was written in Sept. 8, 1892, by the socialist minister, Francis Bellamy. The pledge is basically saying that we are thankful for the people that fought for us in war.

Everyday soldiers fight to keep our freedom. We have Veterans Day to show respect to those who served. We go to their memorials and put flowers on tombstones. It isn't just once a year, people celebrate all the time to show their appreciation. The flag, anthem, and pledge is used every day. Now how do you honor the American Flag?

Why I honor the American Flag

By Lucas Holland
SECOND PLACE RIVER RIDGE/VFW ESSAY
Google dictionary defines the flag as a piece of cloth or similar material, typically oblong or square, attachable by one edge to a pole or rope and used as the symbol or emblem of a country or institution or as a decoration during public festivities. The flag had a long creation process and through that time period there had been more and more facts about it.

The flag is a symbol of freedom and patriotism. The original flag in 1777 had 13 stripes and 13 stars in the shape of a circle because there were 13 colonies. Every time a state was added to the U.S.A. there was one more star added to the flag. The original thirteen colonies were Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Georgia, Connecticut, Massachusetts Bay, Maryland, South Carolina, New Hampshire, Virginia, New York, North Carolina, and Rhode Island. The official flag now still shows the 13 colonies with the stripes. The red symbolizes hardiness and valor, white symbolizes purity and innocence, and blue represents vigilance, perseverance and justice.

There now is 50 stars and 13 stripes on the flag. There is 50 stars because there are 50 states, there are 13 stripes because there were 13 original colonies. The first official flag was made by Betsy Ross. The first flag was adopted 1777 and the flag now was adopted in 1960. There has been 27 flags for the U.S.A. in the time from 1777 to 1960. A total of six flags have been planted on the moon by Apollo 11, 12,14,15,16, and 17. The 50 star flag has been used for over 58 years.

The American flag represents what America stands for, freedom, perseverance, strength and more. I think all of these things about the flag. What do you think about it?

Why I honor my flag

By Millie Boden
THIRD PLACE RIVER RIDGE/VFW ESSAY
I honor the flag because so many people have worked towards making it our symbol of America's freedom and patriotism. People like Betsy Ross, Mary Pickersgill, George Washington, and other military representatives have helped make the American flag a symbol of our unified country. Take a closer look at our flags history and how it affected so many people.

I honor the women who are responsible for the creation of the American flag. Betsy Ross was asked by George Washington to sew the first American flag. Mary Pickersgill was asked by American generals to make a flag that easily be seen from far away for fort McHenry. There were six other women including an African American who helped Mary sew the flag.

I honor the symbolism on our flag. The fifty stars on our flag represent the present fifty states. Thirteen stripes stand for the original thirteen colonies. Not only do the stars and stripes mean something, but so do our colors. White signifies purity and innocence, red, hardiness and valour, and blue signifies vigilance, perseverance, and justice.

I honor America's symbol of unity. People have come together over the past two-hundred years and have come up with different names for the American flag. The Stars and Stripes, Star-Spangled Banner, Old Glory, and The Red White and Blue are a few of the names that people have created.

I honor the American flag. American flags must be treated with respect. A total of eight rules of how to display the flag exists. The most important to be are:

In the United States, no other flag should be placed above the American flag or, if they are to be placed on the same level, to the right of the American flag. The flag should never touch anything beneath it, such as the ground, the floor, water, or merchandise.

chandise.

Why do I honor the American flag? I honor the flag because of how Betsy Ross and Mary Pickersgill proved that a woman could accomplish anything. I honor what our flag symbolizes. I honor the flag because of the unity it represents for America. I honor the rules of the flag.

Why I honor the American Flag

By Brynn Fry
RIVER RIDGE/VFW ESSAY HONORABLE MENTION
Do you honor the American flag? Well I do. Here is an essay that will tell you why I honor the American flag.

I think that we all need to respect the American flag since there were men that died during the Revolutionary War because they believed in freedom from England. People like, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson who put their life on the line for freedom and the American flag. The people were not treated the best in this time period.

Our history continues in America. In that time period people were either very wealthy or very poor. Women were not treated equally. In 1916, women are still treated poorly. In 1916, young men left their home, their families and their jobs to go fight for freedom. The ones who were lucky enough to survive finally went home in 1918. They came back home to their home, families, and jobs. It's very thoughtful of them to fight for us to have freedom.

Then, world war two came along. In 1941 it started and the Japanese attacked the United States at Pearl Harbor. It ended in 1945.

The Civil rights movement started in 1954. Martin Luther King Jr fought to be equal with Caucasians. Rosa Parks was asked to sit on the back of the bus but she didn't move so she got arrested. It all ended in 1968.

People need to treat others the way they want to be treated. One good example of having respect is respecting the American flag. We stand up for the national anthem, take our hats off and stand there silently. Many men and women have died defending the people that represent the flag. We all need to be nice people that have different color skin, disabilities, and different skills.

In conclusion we should all honor the American flag. We all need to treat people the way you want to be treated. We also need to treat people for who they truly are for instance different color skin, disabilities, and different skills. If you're doing all of this, then you are truly honoring the American flag!!!

Your spine and your heart

tion and proper attention to details and warning signs.

Research released in 2018 shows that people who exhibited increased amounts of wear and tear in the neck also experienced higher rates of heart arrhythmias. The study showed that people demonstrating even small amounts of cervical wear and tear were up to 3.1 times more likely to suffer from heart arrhythmias. The same study determined that people who went through a neck rehabilitation program or underwent surgical decompression experienced lower rates of heart arrhythmias. Nerves located in and around the neck, linked directly to the parts of the heart which influence cardiac electricity, provide an explanation for why neck problems directly associate with heart arrhythmias.

Health personnel treat arrhythmias by implanting a small device near the collarbone which shocks a patient's electrical signal back into action when it drops below a certain threshold. People recognize these devices as being called pacemakers. Anti-arrhythmia medications or blood thinners also treat the condition. Some cases even involve coronary bypass surgery. Some of these solutions and procedures become necessary in an emergency situation. Evidence-based research proves that a more natural and less evasive solution exists for those suffering from arrhythmia.

Chiropractic care provides a minimally-invasive approach to help heart arrhythmia patients get drugless care to help address the cause. Research will continue to reveal the benefits associated with taking care of the spine and nervous system with regard to how Chiropractic care beneficially influences the nervous system and vital organs of the body.

Non-Pharmaceutical Ways to Help Improve Heart Arrhythmias and Blood Pressure Problems

1) Regular Chiropractic Care - Chiropractic adjustments improve neck movement and alignment. Improves alignments links to improving heart arrhythmias, especially the upper and lower cervical spine.

2) Neck Pillow - Neck pillows support a proper curve in the neck. 30% of life is spent sleeping and proper neck curvature improves with the use of a good pillow.

3) Fit While You Sit - Maintain appropriate work station space that supports good spinal alignment, movement, and function.

4) Better Sleep - Experiencing adequate sleep has been linked to improving cases of heart arrhythmias. Block out any light and lower the room temperature to 68 degrees Fahrenheit to promote better sleep quality.

5) Distilled Fish oil- over 2000 studies on the benefits of fish oil and many of them contributing to the Heart.

The medical community defines heart arrhythmia as a potentially life-threatening irregular heart beat or rhythm. Heart rhythm problems (arrhythmias) occur when a malfunction exists in the electrical impulses within the heart which coordinate how a person's heart beats. The condition results in the heart beating too fast, too slow, or irregularly. A trial fibrillation represents the most common type of heart arrhythmia.

Most people experience occasional, brief, and usually harmless arrhythmias such as a skipped, fluttering, or racing heartbeat. Although those moments may feel scary, most people who experience them have nothing wrong with their heart and need no treatment. More than four million Americans experience more severe heart arrhythmias which accompany additional bothersome signs or symptoms. These symptoms include shortness of breath, fainting, and even an unexpected loss of heart function, breathing, and consciousness. Proactive health always begins with educa-

"Life should not be a journey to the grave with the intention of arriving safely in a pretty and well-preserved body, but rather to skid in broadside in a cloud of smoke, thoroughly used up, totally worn out, and loudly proclaiming "Wow! What a Ride!"

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

Hope you all had a great beginning to 2019! Christmas decorations are coming down. It will be sad to not have the decorations downtown; the streets were so sparkling and pretty. We now go into the "dark" side with winter months; however, the days are getting longer. (Not by much, but if you are like me, every bit of light is a gift!). This week's recipes will include a soup, a vegetable, two main dishes, and a great cookie bar.

This month is truly soup month. This delicious bean soup uses bacon. If you have ham left from the holidays, you could use a cup of diced ham instead of the bacon. You can also use traditional great Northern beans; just remember they will need an overnight soak. The canned ones (or jarred) are a time saver. If you don't have an immersion blender, you can use a regular blender. Just be sure you have a towel wrapped around the blender, and only fill the blender a third full for your safety, and you won't have a mess to clean up.

Bean and Bacon Soup

- 8 oz. bacon, diced
- 1½ C. diced onion
- 1 C. diced carrots
- 1 C. diced celery
- 1 T. minced garlic
- 3 T. tomato paste
- ½ t. smoked paprika
- 4 C. chicken broth
- 1 t. red pepper flakes
- 4 cans (15 oz. each) great northern beans, drained, rinsed, and divided
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1 T. minced fresh thyme
- 1 T. white wine vinegar

Cook bacon in a pot until crisp; transfer to a paper-towel lined plate and drain all but 3 tablespoons of drippings. Sauté onions, carrots, celery, and garlic in drippings over medium heat, stirring often, until vegetables soften, about 5 minutes. Stir in tomato paste, paprika, and pepper flakes; cook for 1 minute. Deglaze the pot with broth, then stir in 3 cans of beans. Bring soup to a boil over medium-high heat, reduce heat to medium-low, and simmer for 20 minutes. Season with salt and pepper. Partially puree the soup with a handheld blender or a regular blender. Stir in remaining can of beans, thyme, vinegar and three-fourths of the bacon. Top servings with remaining bacon.

Are you looking for an interesting side? This side melds the starch and vegetable together. It uses a bottled dressing to make things easier. If you have a recipe for Asian sesame dressing of your own, you can certainly use it. The edamame makes for a little crunch in this side. Just a reminder: edamame is baby soy beans.

Orange Cauliflower with Rice

- 1 T. cornstarch
- 3 T. apple cider vinegar
- 1 navel orange
- ½ C. Kraft Asian Toasted Sesame Dressing
- 1/3 C. ketchup
- 2 t. sugar
- 2 t. chili sauce
- 5 C. cauliflower florets
- 1 C. frozen edamame, shelled
- 3 C. hot cooked long grain white rice

Mix cornstarch and vinegar until blended. Use a vegetable peeler to cut 5 strips of peel from the orange; place strips in a large saucepan. Cut orange in half; squeeze juice over the orange strips. Add the dressing, ketchup, sugar, chili sauce, and cornstarch mixture; mix well. Bring just to a boil on medium heat; simmer on medium-low about 3 minutes, stirring frequently.

Add the cauliflower and stir. Cover and cook on medium heat 10 to 11 minutes or until cauliflower is tender; uncover and stir occasionally after 5 minutes. Meanwhile microwave edamame in large microwaveable bowl on HIGH for 2 minutes. Add rice and mix lightly. Remove and discard orange peel strips from cauliflower mixture. Serve over rice mixture.

Last week I had a Hungarian soup, so I guess I am into Hungarian this year. This next dish is a Hungarian dish that features paprika. I ate several Hungarian dishes when I was in Europe many years ago. One of the staples in our house was Hungarian Goulash. Try this interesting take on chicken. It is best served over noodles, but mashed potatoes will also be a good starch for this dish.

Chicken Paprikash

1 fryer chicken but into 8 pieces
1 t. salt
½ t. pepper
1 T. canola oil
1 medium onion, halved and sliced
1 large garlic clove, chopped
1½ T. flour
½ T. sweet paprika
1 C. hot chicken broth
½ C. sour cream
Minced fresh parsley and paprika for garnish
Cooked noodles or mashed potatoes
Season chicken with salt and pepper. In a Dutch oven heat oil over medium-high heat. Brown chicken in batches. Remove with a slotted spoon; drain and keep warm. Reduce heat to medium-low. Add onions; cook stirring to loosen browned bits from pan, until onions begin to soften, 6-8 minutes. Add garlic, cook for 1 minute longer.

Stir in flour and paprika; reduce heat to low. Cook until paprika is fragrant, 3-5 minutes. Add broth, cook, stirring constantly, until smooth, 6-8 minutes. Return chicken to pan, simmer, covered 3-minutes. Transfer chicken to platter. Skim fat and stir in sour cream; heat just until warmed through, 3-5 minutes—do not allow to boil. Sprinkle with parsley and paprika. Serve over noodles or mashed potatoes.

There are still cranberries available in most grocery stores, so this recipe is a good one to use up any in your freezer or if you want a good cranberry cookie bar. If you don't have apple pie spice in your cupboard, you can make your own by using 1 teaspoon of cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon of nutmeg, and ¼ teaspoon of allspice. You will probably have those three spices.

Spiced Cranberry Pecan Bars

Crust:

2½ C. flour
½ C. sugar
1½ t. apple pie spice
¾ t. baking powder
½ t. ground ginger
½ t. salt
1 C. cold butter, cubed
1 large egg

Filling:

5 C. fresh cranberries, divided
¾ C. sugar
½ C. applesauce
½ C. maple syrup
2 T. orange zest
2 T. fresh orange juice
¼ t. salt
1½ T. cornstarch
1½ T. water

Topping

½ C. roughly chopped pecans
½ C. old-fashioned oats

Preheat the oven to 350. Line a 9 x 13 baking dish with parchment paper, letting excess extend over sides of pan. For crust: in a large bowl whisk together the flour, sugar, pie spice, baking powder, ginger, and salt. Add cold butter, and beat with a mixer at medium speed until crumbly. Add egg, beating until combined. Reserve 1 cup flour mixture for topping. Press remaining mixture into the bottom of prepared pan. Bake until lightly golden, about 18 minutes. Leave oven on.

Meanwhile, for the filling; in a large saucepan, bring 3 cups of cranberries, sugar, applesauce, maple syrup, orange zest, juice, and salt to a boil over medium-high heat. Cook, stirring constantly, until cranberries begin to burst. Reduce heat to low, and simmer for 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. In a small bowl, whisk together the cornstarch and water. Stir cornstarch mixture into cranberry mixture, and cook until thickened, about 2 minutes. Remove from heat; fold in remaining 2 cups of cranberries. Spread mixture in an even layer over prepared crust.

Topping: in a small bowl, combine the pecans, oats, and reserved 1 cup flour mixture. Sprinkle over cranberry mixture. Bake until crust is golden and filling is bubbly, about 30 minutes. Let cool completely in pan. Using excess parchment as handles, remove from pan, and cut into squares.

We are moving quickly into January, and so far the weather hasn't been as brutal as it has been in past Januarys. I know some of you probably wonder why I still tell time by the school calendar. I taught 40 years, so the school calendar is still part of my thinking. Basketball and wrestling are going full throttle as well as speech contests and music contest preparation. Soon there will be musical tryouts in the area schools, and the second semester is in full swing. I know people have already started planting seeds in their porch areas that are heated and in small green houses.

When the holidays are over, it seems as if we start to race through winter.

We continue to look for winter recipes—some appetizers, soups, and sandwiches.

If you would like to share, please send them in. You can contact us in person, by mail, or email us at From Lena's Kitchens, Shopper's Guide at 213 S. Center St. or email scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.
