Did you know?

The United States healthcare system is the most expensive in the world, despite that health outcomes are generally no better. In some cases, we are worse than other developed countries, according to the Organization for Economic Co-Operation & Development, (OECD), which develops policies to improve the economic and social well being of people across the world. In 2012, the total national spending on healthcare was $2.8 trillion, or 18% of the economy. We spend over twice as much, per capita, than others. These costs are projected to grow, and is one of the nation's fiscal challenges long term. (Data compiled by PGPF.)

Health Outcome:	U.S. Rank (1st is preferable)
Heart Attack Fatalities	12th out of 32
Life expectancy: Men	22nd out of 34
Women	25th out of 34
Infant Mortality	31st out of 34
Unmanaged Asthma	27th out of 28
Surgical Complications	16th out of 19

The Centers for Disease Control, (CDC), states that prevention should be woven into all aspects of our lives, including where and how we live, learn, work, and play. Everyone – government, businesses, educators, health care institutions, communities, and every single American – has a role in creating a healthier nation.

Prevention and wellness has always been the cornerstone on which chiropractic care has been built upon. It is our focus to restore health, and prevent future problems. The Council on Chiropractic Education states that, "As a gatekeeper for direct access to the health delivery system, the doctor of chiropractic's responsibilities as a primary care physician include wellness promotion, health assessment, diagnosis, and the chiropractic management of the patient's health care needs." Volumes of independent studies provide conclusive evidence that chiropractic care leads to better health outcomes, higher patient satisfaction with their care, and lower costs for care. According to the JMPT, this includes a 43% reduction in patient hospital admissions, 58% reduction in hospital days, a 43% reduction in outpatient surgeries and procedures, and a 51% reduction in pharmaceutical costs. Wellness is the way of the future. Let us help get you there!

As women, we understand the health concerns you face. As moms, we know that your health concerns reach beyond yourself and to your family. As chiropractors, our goal is to help you regain you health so you can get your life back.

God Bless,

Dr. Heather & Dr. Laura
