Stockton bids farewell to its retiring police chief

By Tony Carton

It was standing room only Tuesday night in the Stockton Village Hall board room as friends, family and community members witnessed the passing of the village police department leadership torch from retiring Chief LaDon Trost to incoming Chief Tom Sheehan.

Trost's official retirement date is June 17 which coincidentally is 46 years to the day since he knocked on the door of then Apple River Mayor Lyle Lathlean in response to a classified ad calling for a village marshal.

"Lyle came to the door with shaving cream all over his face because he was getting ready to go to a village board meeting," Trost said. "I introduced myself because I had never met the guy in my life and said, 'I understand you are looking for a village marshal and I would like to apply for the job.'

Lathlean invited him in, wiped the shaving cream off his face and they as they sat down at the kitchen table to talk Lathlean went into the other room and came back with a badge to tell Trost he was the new Village of Apple River Marshal.
"There was no training or police academy in those times, but I was in my early 20s, married and looking for a little direction in life and village marshal suited me just fine," Trost said.

He held the marshal's position for about a year and a half before joining the Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Department.

"I started with the Sheriff's office as a dispatcher," said Trost. "I had worked there about a week when the sheriff sent me to Stockton on an errand and while on the way there a dispatch came out about a guy who was wanted for a serious felony. There was a description of the guy and his vehicle and while I was in Stockton on Route 20 I spotted that vehicle. I stopped and arrested him and took him to jail and the next thing I knew, I was on the road regularlv.

Over time Trost had the distinction of becoming the first officer from Jo Daviess Sheriff's Department to be certified by the Police Training Institute in Chicago.

He was with the Sheriff's office for about 20 years and eventually because the department's Chief In-

"We had a lot of interesting cases back in the day," he said. "I could remember when I first started in law enforcement. I worked the road and I could not wait to go to work. It was neat to have a job that I really liked. There were ups and downs, but I loved my work.

As with any law enforcement officer there are cases that stand out in

"I was working in Menomonie and heard a dispatch from the Warren Police Department," Trost said. "The Warren chief and one of his officers were patrolling that night and had gone back behind the Foodland grocery to find a van pulling out of the alley. They acknowledged the guys in the van and kept going, but started wondering why that van was coming out from behind the gro-

Upon further inspection, the Warren officers discovered the grocery had been burglarized. They did a quick run-through in the town, but could not find the van, so they put a call on the wire. Trost heard the call and turned his squad toward Warren where he encountered the van just as he was entering the town.

"Just as I hit the city limits on Stage Coach Trail that van blew a yield sign right in front of me," Trost said. "I spun around and pulled them down. I radioed for backup, but radios weren't what they are today and no one heard me. All at once the driver got out of the vehicle. I dropped my microphone and got out so I wouldn't be caught inside the squad. I went to the back of the van, looked inside and could see groceries everywhere. I knew I had the right people."

While Trost and the driver were talking the guy put his hand in his jacket pocket.

"As hard as I could I pushed him

Five things you should know about national dairy month

by Tony Carton

Wisconsin has fewer -- but more productive -- cows than a generation ago: There are 1.2-million dairy cows in Wisconsin, compared to 1.8-million 30 years ago. But, through better nutrition, genetics, agri-science and medicine a typical Wisconsin cow produces more milk than ever. Today average milk production per cow is 22,000-pounds. It was 12,500 in

More-efficient cows have also given rise to the mega-dairy. There are now more than 200 so-called 'Concentrated Animal Feeding Operations' or CAFOs in the state. The number of mega-dairies has doubled in Wisconsin since 2000. The biggest change in Wisconsin's dairy landscape over the past 30 years is the number of very small farms - 50 cows or fewer - that are no longer in operation.

Wisconsin has fewer farmers than ever before: Wisconsin's dairy industry supports 413,000 jobs. About one-third of those jobs are directly tied to farms. The other two-thirds are farm-related industries like processing. But the number of dairy workers in Wisconsin is down 20% since 2,000. Automation of the milking process has driven the change in employment levels. On many high-tech farms it's not uncommon for five or six workers to milk 500 cows.

Many children from farm families have decided not to go into agriculture, and that's driving two trends: a worker shortage and the diary industry's involvement in the immigration debate. Someone with a college degree in dairy science can earn $35,000 to $40,000 a year. But the work is demanding and vacation and benefits are much less generous than other jobs. A milker starts at $10 on most farms, and there's a shortage of experienced not native-born. Some estimates are that 50% of dairy workers are undocumented. The Ag industry regularly argues that these jobs are difficult to fill with American workers - and that a broader guest-worker program is needed. The American Farm Bureau and the National Milk Producers Federation say immigration reform is their top legislative priority.

Holstein dairy cattle dominate this country's milk production industry. The reason for their popularity is clear: unexcelled production, greater income over feed costs, unequaled genetic merit, and adaptability to a wide range of environmental conditions.

Cheese, not milk, is Wisconsin's number one dairy product: Those happy cows in California churn our more milk than Wisconsin's. It not even close... 40-billion pounds to 29-billion.But we're number one in cheese.

Cheese is a higher value dairy product with higher profit margins. And Wisconsin's position as the number-1 cheese-producer seems secure. Cheese requires a more elaborate production infrastructure than milk, and we have 138 cheese production plants here. 14 other facilities process butter. And 14 more make vogurt.

The Wisconsin cheese-making community is internationally respected. Our cheesemakers took home 127 international awards last year, more than any other state. Much of our success is because Wisconsin cheese-making is highly diversified. We're the number one producer of processed mozzarella cheese for pizzas. We're the top producers of specialty cheeses like Feta and Limburger – which is produced exclusively in Wisconsin.

Dairy has a big economic footprint: The dairy industry in Wisconsin contributes $43-billion to the economy. The Wisconsin Milk Marketing Board says no single product has as-big an economic impact in the state. Dairy accounts for about half of all the farming activity in the state. There are 300 ag-related career choices that have ties to the state's dairy industry. And most farms are small businesses – 96% are family-owned.

We've been 'America's Dairyland' since 1940: It's hard to think of 'America's Diaryland' as controversial, but it was when it began appearing on Wisconsin's license-plates in '40. It marked the end of lumber and logging as the most-prominent industry in the state. Farming became the state's dominant industry as large swaths of the state were cleared of the best

Since 1939, June Dairy Month has encouraged families to make dairy their first choice based on its nutrition and value.

lumber around the turn of the century. Some loggers considered the phrase 'America's Dairyland' as a dig at them – that one industry was ascending while another was wan-

And while the rest of the nation thinks of Wisconsin in terms of cows, there are two other agricultural products where our state has a larger market share. We're the number-one cranberry-producing state in the USA. 60% of the crop comes from Wisconsin bogs.

Massachusetts, the number-two producer, has a cranberry harvest that's half our size. And Wisconsin is the dominant ginseng-producing state in country, with 90% of domestic production. 'Wisconsin Ginseng' is marketed as a highlyrespected brand in many Asian nations. In Thailand and mainland China many people only know Wisconsin as a ginseng producer. They've be surprised to hear that we're more famous for our cows up against the van," Trost said. "I drew my gun and stuck it in his ear and then reached in his pocket to find he was going for a 38 snub nose."

Trost held his suspect against the van and called again for backup, but the only response was from another officer who was at home in Warren and happened to hear the call. He jumped in his personal car and drove to Trost's location.

"The whole time I thought the guy I had was the only guy in the vehicle," Trost said. "I didn't see anybody else, but as soon as my friend arrived he opened the van door and hollered at the other guy to drop a gun. I heard steel drop inside the vehicle and as it turned out, the other guy had a .32-20 hand gun and a rifle in the vehicle."

They subdued both suspects and took them to the Warren Police Station where they ran background on the pair and discovered they were both wanted out of Fergus Falls, MN where they had burglarized a golf course club house, but had been confronted by a janitor. They had tied him up with golf shoe shoestrings and both had put a shot in his head.

"The spent rounds from the Fergus Falls killing were against the hammer in both of their guns," said Trost. "They had done the golf course burglary and were in Warren to find a guy who had turned State's Evidence against one of them. They came to town to kill him."

He said not every criminal he came in contact with over the years was incorrigible.

"There have been a few people that I've worked with and could have sent to prison, but with the help of the States Attorney office got them the help they needed, and a number of those people are good productive members of our society today," said Trost. "We are not social workers, but we can work with people. Not everybody has to be arrested. Some people have to be arrested, but sometimes you can see a little light and those people can be worked with. All my officers here in Stockton are like that. They would take the time to help somebody and work with them."

He said being in the position of making the decision to work with someone is one of the good things about working in law enforcement in a small community.

Trost said he plans to spend some of his new found free time traveling with his wife Mary Lynn Trost.

"She is anxious for me to retire after 46 years on the job," said Trost. "She's been a great policeman's wife. A lot of law enforcement officers end up in divorce and there have been many times when we will plan to go out for dinner and instead I've had to call her back and cancel because something came up at work. We've been a thousand miles from home on vacation and I've gotten a call and had to go home. She hasn't been happy with those situations, but she understood. We've been married fifty-one and a half years and it takes a special person to be a policeman's wife and my wife Mary Lynn is that special person. I admire her so much for her understanding."

From the desk of State Representative Brian W. Stewart

of the current fiscal year and again the legislature's day in Springfield was cancelled by Speaker Madigan. We are told that the Working Groups are making progress, but in reality, the State of Illinois cannot wait any longer. If we do not agree to a financial plan in the next week, our state will enter its second year without a

It is unacceptable that the two parties have not been able to reach a compromise over the past 24 months. What is even more unacceptable is that it appears the Speaker intends to do nothing before the November election. Seniors, students, schools, mental health facilities, healthcare facilities and our prisons desperately need state assistance. Without a budget, our schools will not open this fall. Our mental health facilities will close their doors. Healthcare facilities will lay off workers. Our prisons will run out of food and the lights will go out. This is no time to play politics. This is time for the Speaker to allow us to do our jobs and serve the people who send us to Springfield.

As I stated last week, there are two bills that are fully-funding solutions to the issues stated above. This was not our first choice, but we have been advocating for a comprehensive balanced budget from Day 1. These proposals are temporary, but give us the time to reach an agreement. This is the most responsible response to our current situation. Let's keep the lights on and keep the schools open. The taxpayers didn't cause our financial turmoil and they should not be the ones to bear the brunt of its consequences. How can the Speaker say that he advocates for our schools when he holds them hostage? That is like a bank robber saying, "Sorry hostages, but I'm doing this for your own good". All of this is happening for Chicago taxpayers who do not want to pay more for their schools. Heaven forbid Chicago has to actually pay for the outrageous benefits that they promise their employees. Heaven forbid they have to raise their property taxes up from the lowest in the State of Illinois. This state is bigger than the City of Chicago. Our kids in Northwest Illinois are just as important as the kids in Chicago. They do not deserve to pay the consequences of Chicago's mismanagement and yet they are being held hostage by Chicago Democrats until the state has a complete government shutdown and absolute chaos. It is more than disappointing. It is repul-

The Speaker is striking fear into every citizen of this state. This nation was founded on the notion that the government should work for the people, not hold them hostage. My constituents are not leverage. This hostage negotiation needs to stop.

Looking ahead, I will keep fighting for our government to stay open.

The House Republicans have introduced comprehensive budgets in the past year, not 40 billion dollar spending plans, but budgets that were realistic and paid for. None of them were ever let out of Rules Committee by Speaker Madigan. Instead of stomping our feet while Rome burns; we have offered stopgap solutions to fund essential State human services while a "Grand Bargain" is negotiated. After it was clear that there would not be budget talks on the last day of Spring Session, we introduced a budget bridge package to get emergency funds to the agencies and organizations that depend on state appropriations. The bridge would supply agencies with enough money to survive until January 1, 2017.

The most important fact about this package is the state can actually appropriate the funds and it would not require a tax increase. Although it is only a temporary solution, it is not an empty promise or a check that will bounce; there is money to pay for it. It is not politically controversial; it is just the right thing to do. Right now, the fate of Illinoisans rests with one man: Speaker Michael Madigan.

This continuing impasse reminds me of a quote from former Illinois State Representative and now U.S. Congressman Mike Bost, "I feel like somebody trying to be released from Egypt! Let my people go!"

Legislation seeking to add Freeport to Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area advances in Congress

Information compiled by Tony Carton EDITOR

Bipartisan legislation that would add two Lincoln-Douglas debate sites and another county to the Abraham Lincoln National Heritage Area in Illinois moved through a US Senate subcommittee last week and is pending in Congress. U.S. Senators Mark Kirk, a Republican, and Dick Durbin, a Democrat, are among sponsors of the heritage- area legislation.

The national heritage area, formed by Congress in 2008, advances Lincoln heritage and preservation in 42 central Illinois counties, including well known Lincoln sites in Springfield and surrounding counties.

The legislation introduced last week would add Lincoln-Douglas debate sites in the northern Illinois community of Freeport and the southern Illinois community of Jonesboro, as well as Livingston County at the northern edge of the existing heritage area.

It completes the area where Lincoln spent the bulk of his time in Illinois," said Sarah Watson, executive director of in Springfield in an interview with the State Journal Register.

The Lincoln Heritage Coalition is a not-for-profit coalition tasked with overseeing heritage area programs, including the Looking for Lincoln network of Lincoln sites and communities, through a partnership with the National Park Service.

Livingston County was excluded during construction of the 2008 legislation, even though it met the requirement that counties be contiguous to the area in question. Lincoln often traveled to Pontiac in Livingston County as a young lawyer in the 8th Judicial Circuit. A life-sized bronze of Lincoln as a young lawyer stands in the city, according to Looking for Lincoln, and unfortunately, the StrevellLincoln House is the only remaining Livingston County structure visited by Lincoln.

Lincoln-Douglas debate sites in Freeport and Jonesboro are the only two of nine from the famed 1858 U.S. Senate debates outside the existing heritage area, but recently the National Park Service made an exception to the contiguous rule for the debate

No additional funding will be provided in support of the heritage area expansion, which allows the coalition to include Freeport, Jonesboro and Livingston County in formal heritage area enrichment and perpetuation pro-

Congresswoman Bustos helps introduce WATER Act at press conference in front of U.S. Capitol

Congresswoman Cheri Bustos participated in a press conference to introduce the Water Affordability, Transparency, Equity, and Reliability (WATER) Act of 2016. This bill would provide critical federal funding for State Revolving Funds, including the Drinking Water State Revolving Fund which is the source of the $4 million forgivable loan the city of Galesburg is set to receive to replace lead service lines.

"Fixing America's aging water infrastructure needs to be a top priority because there's nothing more important than protecting our children," said Congresswoman Cheri Bustos. "While I was very proud that we were able to secure $4 million in forgivable loans to replace lead service lines in Galesburg, this is a problem that affects far too many of our communities, especially small and rural towns with tight budgets and fewer resources to invest in their water infrastructure. By passing the WATER Act, we'll help create thousands of good jobs in cities across our nation while modernizing our infrastructure to reduce lead exposure from water.'

The WATER Act provides funding for the existing SRF programs by eliminating the deferral U.S. multinational corporations currently enjoy on paying domestic tax on overseas income. By taxing these overseas revenues in the year they are earned, we can raise more than $60 billion a year to fund repairs, maintenance, and improvement of our nation's water in-

In addition to providing a permanent, dedicated source of funding for the SRFs, the WATER Act will also:

provide SRF funding for grants to owners of private service lines for replacement of lead service lines;

create a new grant program to fund public schools' testing and replacement of drinking water infrastructure increase technical assistance to rural and small municipalities and tribal governments;

require EPA to coordinate a study about water affordability, discrimination and civil rights violations by water and sewer providers, public participation in water regionalization efforts, and water shutoffs;

create a new grant program for the repair, replacement or upgrading of septic tanks and drainage fields limit Drinking Water SRF funding to publicly owned, operated and managed utilities; and,

National Safety Week

Grain handling and storage plays a very important role in modern farming, but working in grain bins can be very dangerous. Always use safety equipment and never enter a bin without following lockout/ tagout procedures.

Silo gas is formed through the natural fermentation of chopped forages shortly after it is placed in the silo. A variety of gases can be formed in conventional silos but generally, nitrogen dioxide is the most prevalent type of gas. Nitrogen dioxide is harmful because it causes severe irritation to the nose and throat and may lead to inflammation of the lungs.

Don't Drink and Drive this Independence Day

No excuses says the Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Office

Every year, Americans head out on our roads to celebrate the Fourth of July at picnics, parties, parades and more. Unfortunately, for many, the celebrating includes drinking alcohol, which too often leads to drunk driving on one of the most traveled holidays of the year.

That's why the Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Office will be on patrol this Independence Day, making sure motorists are driving sober.

"Don't even think about drinking and driving this Fourth of July – or you will be arrested," said Lt. Tim Wand "The 'Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over' campaign means zero tolerance for drunk driving – no excuses."

In addition to looking for drunk drivers, the Sheriff's Office will be stepping up seat belt enforcement, particularly at night when seat belt usage rates are at their National Highway Traffic Safety Administration data shows that young drivers (18 to 34 years old) are especially at risk of driving drunk. In fact, nationally, 58 percent of the drivers 18 to 34 years old who were killed over the July Fourth period in 2014 were driving drunk (BAC of .08 or higher). Motorcycle operators are also overrepresented as the highest percentage of alcohol-impaired drivers in fatal crashes. In 2014, more than a quarter (29 percent) of motorcycle operators in fatal crashes had BACs of .08 or higher.

If you're caught driving drunk this Independence Day, you will be arrested. The consequences of drunk driving are that serious. Not only could you put your life and the lives of others at risk, but a DUI arrest means a loss of freedom and money, including going to jail, losing your license, and paying steep financial expenses.

Lt. Tim Wand wants you to know that always designating a sober driver and not letting friends drive drunk are just two simple steps to help avoid a tragic crash or an arrest for drunk driving. Other important tips include:

If you are hosting an Independence Day party:

Remember, you can be held liable and prosecuted if someone you serve is involved in a drunk driving crash.

Make sure all of your guests designate a sober driver in advance or help arrange ride-sharing with other sober drivers

When there's lightning, bolt to safety indoors

It's too easy to think we're invincible when it comes to lightning storms—going outside, staying in the pool, or continuing a softball game as thunder sounds in the distance are not safe activities when lightning and thunder are in the area. Instead, move indoors when thunder roars—such a simple step could save more than 400 people from getting struck by lightning every year.

In recognition of Lightning Safety Awareness Week, June 19 – 25, FEMA is encouraging everyone to get storm safety smart:

There is no safe place outdoors when thunderstorms are in the area. Get indoors and avoid contact with corded phones, electrical equipment, plumbing, and windows and doors.

Water is an excellent conductor of electricity – so get out of and away from water!

Electricity always seeks the shortest path to its destination. Avoid tall, isolated trees or other tall objects in a lightning storm.

When camping, set up in a valley, ravine or other low area. Tents and open-sided shelters don't provide protection from the dangers of lightning. If there isn't a substantial building nearby, take shelter in your vehicle

Wait 30 minutes after the last lightning or thunder before going back outside.

Anyone struck by lightning will need immediate medical attention. Call 911 and remember: lightning victims do not carry an electrical charge and are safe to touch.

During Lightning Safety Awareness Week, FEMA Region 5 will be hosting a social media engagement campaign in collaboration with the National Weather Service in Chicago—get involved by following FEMA online at twitter.com/femaregion5 and www.facebook.com/fema. You can also find more valuable lightning safety tips by visiting www.ready.gov/thunderstorms-lightning and www.lightningsafety. noaa.gov. Consider also downloading the free FEMA app, available for your Android, Apple or Blackberry device, so you have the information at your fingertips to prepare for severe weather.

OM LENA'S KITCHE

The not so skinny cook

I just returned from a church wide meeting at Augustana College. To say that I am exhausted is an understatement. Students who go to that campus have to be in fantastic physical condition because of the hills to every building. I came home, and almost forgot to send my column in. I am ready for a vacation!! However, it was wonderful to see old pus-food has definitely improved in the cafeteria since I attended college. Since food is the subject of this column, I will get right to this week's selections. There is a great appetizer, a tasty vegetable chicken salad, yummy chicken thighs with an apricot glaze, and a reader submitted easy cake.

I really like Bruschetta, and when I find a new recipe for it, I have to pass it on. Some people make a whole meal of it; I like it as an appetizer, so I try to eat only one piece!

Broccoli Bruschetta

4 oz. cream cheese, softened

1 t. minced fresh garlic1 t. fresh lemon juice

1/4 t. red pepper flakes

1 Roma tomato, seeded and diced

Salt and pepper

1½ C. chopped broccoli florets

2 T. minced sweet onion

1 T. olive oil

½ t. minced lemon zest

8 baguette slices, ½-inch thick

Preheat the broiler with the rack 2-3 inches from the element. Combine the cream cheese, garlic, lemon juice, and pepper flakes in a bowl; season with salt and pepper.

Blanch the broccoli in boiling salted water for 30 seconds, then transfer to a bowl of ice water. Drain broccoli and pat dry with paper towels. Combine the broccoli, tomato, onion, parsley, oil and zest in a bowl.

Broil the baguette slices on a baking sheet until lightly toasted, 1-2 minutes per side. Spread 1 T. cream cheese mixture on each slice and top with the broccoli mixture. Enjoy this great appetizer.

There is still some really great asparagus out there. This next salad recipe combines chicken and asparagus in a wonderful luncheon salad. The dressing is good enough to use on other salads. Using the fresh herbs really brings out the flavors, but if you don't have tarragon (and it was hard to buy this spring in plant form), substitute the dried tarragon. The almonds add just the right amount of crunch to this dish. Serve it with a piece of crusty bread, and you have a great lunch.

Asparagus and Chicken Salad with Buttermilk Dressing

Dressing:

<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> C. fresh parsley

1/4 C. fresh tarragon or 4 teaspoons of dried tarragon

Juice of 1 lemon

2 t. Dijon mustard

<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> C. buttermilk

Salt and pepper

2 lb. bunches of thick asparagus, bottom half peeled and ends trimmed, cut into 2-inch pieces

2 heads of Bibb or Boston lettuce, roughly chopped

1 bag of Spring mix lettuce

6 radishes, thinly sliced

8 oz., boneless chicken, diced

4 oz. cream cheese, softened and cubed

Salt and pepper

Dressing: pulse the parsley, tarragon, lemon juice and mustard in a mini food processor to make a coarse paste. Add the buttermilk, mayo, and olive oil and pulse until smooth. Season with salt and pepper. Refrigerate for an hour.

Salad: prepare a large bowl of salted ice water. Toast the almonds in a small dry skillet over low heat, about 4 minutes. Transfer to a plate and let cool. Bring a large pot of salted water to a boil. Add the asparagus and cook until just tender, about 4-5 minutes. Drain and transfer to ice water; let cool. Drain again and pat dry. Transfer to a large bowl.

Add the lettuce, spring mix, radishes, chicken, cream cheese, parsley and half of the toasted almonds to the bowl. Drizzle with half of the dressing and season with salt and pepper; toss. Sprinkle with the remaining toasted almonds and serve with the remaining dressing

A long time ago, I had this same chicken recipe, and it was delicious. I lost the recipe, but I recently found it in a cooking magazine. You can heat the recipe up by using cayenne pepper if you like. I really like chicken thighs, so this recipe is right up my alley. The apricot preserves give it a nice sweet and sour kick.

Apricot-Glazed Chicken Thighs

<sup>1</sup>/<sub>4</sub> C. honey

2 T. soy sauce

2 T. minced fresh ginger

1 T. minced garlic

½ t. pepper

8 bone-in chicken thighs

Place the oven rack in the bottom third of the oven and preheat to 400. In a small saucepan, combine the preserves, honey, soy sauce, ginger, garlic and pepper. Heat over medium-low heat until preserves are melted. Remove and stir in the vinegar; cool.

Line a 9 x 13 baking pan with foil. Arrange in a single layer. Pour the apricot glaze over the chicken, turning the pieces to coat. Arrange pieces skin sides up. Bake, uncovered, 40-45 minutes or until done and tops are browned, brushing with glaze two times during the baking. Skim the fat from the pan juices and serve juices over chicken.

Our thanks to Connie Loberg from Pearl City for this good and easy rhubarb recipe. Connie says that she uses one half the sugar and sugar free Jello for a friendlier diabetic recipe. I think served warm with some whipped topping or ice cream would make this dessert a crowd pleaser.

Rhubarb Dump Cake

3-4 C. rhubarb (1 lb.)

1 C. sugar

1 pkg. (3 oz.) strawberry Jello

1 C. water 1 pkg. yellow cake mix

Preheat the oven to 350. Grease a 9 x 13 pan. Spread the rhubarb evenly in the bottom of the pan. Sprinkle the sugar over the rhubarb, followed by the Jello, and then the cake mix. Pour the water and melted butter over the top. DO NOT STIR! Bake 45 minutes or until the rhubarb is tender.

I am sending this column away to be printed, and then I am crawling in my nice bed to go to sleep. It is fun to go away, but it is good to come home also. We are still looking for new recipes; thank you to Connie Loberg for sending us the great rhubarb recipe. If your strawberries are starting to ripen, let us know how you best like to fix them.

If you have any spring or early summer recipes to share, you can contact us in person, by mail, or email us at From Lena's Kitchens, Shopper's Guide at 213 S. Center St. or email scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.

benefits Monroe Clinic Hospice

The idea hatched 23 years ago for a fun summer evening's event has grown into a successful fundraiser for a worthy cause.

New Glarus, Wis. businessman Hans Lenzlinger recalls how the idea came about. "It was 1992, and I was a member of the Monroe Clinic's board of directors. The president at the time, Bill Robichaux, challenged each of us to do something to benefit the hospital."

Lenzlinger, owner of a mini-golf course and two restaurants in New Glarus, decided to put the enterprises together, and the event known as Dinner & "A Little Golf" was born. A lively round of mini-golf at Swissland Miniature Golf Course is followed by a gourmet meal at the New Glarus Hotel. The first year, the event raised around $5,000. In 2015, over $50,000 was raised.

The growth of the event has included the addition of both a silent and live auction, many years benefiting from Lenzlinger's ties to the University of Wisconsin athletic department. Past head coaches of both the men's basketball and football teams have attended and donated auction items.

Lenzling remembers the year University of Wisconsin Football Coach Bret Bielema donated football tickets to be auctioned off. Two people were bidding furiously on the two available tickets. Bielma agreed to get two more tickets, and match the bids, if each party agreed on the highest bid of $2,000. This brought the total for tickets to $4,000, and with Bielma's match a total of $8,000 was raised.

Over the years, Lenzlinger and

For 23 years, New Glarus, Wis. businessman Hans Lenzlinger has remained vital to the success of the Monroe Clinic Hospice, Dinner and a Little Golf benefit project.

former Monroe Clinic Hospice Director Carla Stadel recall some logistical ups and downs, including the year a storm threatened the outdoor dinner, which was to be held at Chalet Landhaus. "We moved the whole event to the New Glarus Hotel in about two hours," Stadel says.

Two things about the event have remained the same over the years: the New Glarus Hotel and Chalet Landhaus have donated both event space and food to benefit the event and all proceeds are used to benefit Monroe Clinic Hospice programs for both patients and families.

This year's event is on June 28 at Swissland Miniature Golf Course and the New Glarus Hotel in New Glarus, Wis. Golf begins at 4:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. For more information, or to purchase tickets, contact Sue Wegman at 608-324-1264.

U of I offers Distinguishing the Flavor of Taste session

Our sense of taste comes from the taste buds on our tongue, but did you know the tongue can also sense texture and temperature in foods? Join Diane Reinhold, University of Illinois Extension's Nutrition and Wellness Educator as she explains how our perception of flavor is more complex than the simple sensation of eating food.

During this 90 minute session, we will explore the science behind taste and how the tongue works. We will discuss what influences our perception of flavor, the five sensations of taste, the pairing of various flavor combinations and more importantly, we will have taste-testing!

The Distinguishing the Flavor of Taste workshop will be held on Tuesday, July 12 from 6-7:30 p.m., at the University of Illinois Extension office, 204 Vine Street, Elizabeth, IL. Preregistration is required by Monday, July 11. To register, call the Extension office at (815) 858-2273 or visit us online at http://web.extension.illinois. edu/jsw. There is a $5 fee to cover the educational session.

Over 10,000 people flock for celebration

Stockton, Ill. has a population of 2,000, but on July 4th thousands more people roam the Stockton Memorial Park to take part in festivities and witness an amazing fireworks display. This celebration is easily the largest and longestrunning in the region, having grown into a "must-do" event throughout it's more than 50 years in existence.

The day starts off with a 3-on-3 basketball tournament in the Stockton school gyms. This tournament began in 2005 with only 32 teams, and since has grown into a 4th of July staple with at least 80 teams (limited to 100) coming back year after year to compete. Divisions range from boys and girls entering 5th grade all the way through high school seniors. It also features very competitive men's and women's divisions. The tournament has become a "who's who" of current, former, and future northwest Illinois basketball stars. The 3-on-3 has donated over $30,000 to Stockton youth sports and other various school organizations that have volunteered over the years.

When not watching basketball, guests have more than enough to keep them busy. Roam the more than 70 vendor booths set up in the park. Vendors feature everything from crafts to baked goods to home products. And while there are multiple food stands where you can grab a snack, possibly one of the most famous past times of the celebration is the Lions Club chicken dinner. Thousands of people line up throughout the day for a taste of this chicken dinner. Lions Club members cook the chicken right there at the park, starting at 5 a.m., and end up serving over 3,000 chicken halves! This tradition is in its 53rd

New this year is a remote control car demo from 4:00 pm to 6 p.m. on the baseball field at the park and a photo booth! All of that not enough? Throughout the day visitors also enjoy BINGO, bounce houses for the kids, a kiddie tractor pull, music, and live entertainment in the afternoon. There is even a classic car show that takes place nearby on W.

Perhaps the most anticipated part of the day happens at dusk when the fireworks begin! Guests are in awe over the non-stop aerial show and ground displays.

For those that want to kick off their 4th of July celebration early, the Annual Stockton 5K/10K will be held July 2. Beginning in 2007. the event had 53 participants and has grown to around 400 participants. The course is fun, yet challenging. Be prepared for entertainment throughout the course by the Stockton High School band and snacks after the race.

The Stockton Pool will also be open after to race, free for all participants. The 5K/10K event has donated in total, more than $20,000 to local organizations.

More information about all of the events included in the Stockton 4th of July Celebration can be found online at www.facebook.com/stocktons4th or www.stocktonjuly4.com. Follow the Facebook page for event updates, times and contests. You can also contact Steve Jordan, Chair of the event committee at SJordan@wipfli.com or 815.541.8286. ## Hallerman benefit to be held at Jo Daviess County Fairgrounds

Tony and Sherry Hallerman are a young family with three sons. Nicholas Mackall, Dakota Mackall, and Dylan Hallerman. Tony is diagnosed with Frontotemporal Dementia, a rear but aggressive degenerative brain disease, which in time will shut down the front half of the brain which controls body functions such as the muscles.

Due to this diagnosis and the already present symptoms, Tony is unable to work. While he has qualified for Social Security Disability this has left a huge gap in the family income and also make it necessary to purchase health insurance out-of-pocket for the family. Sherry works part-time which is limited by Tony's increasing care needs.

Please attend a benefit for the family on June 25, from 11-4 in the Ag Building at the Jo Daviess County Fair Grounds in Warren.

Dinner will be $10 for an adult plate and $5 for children. There will be a 50/50, raffle, silent and live auction plus many other fun activities.

Donations can also be made to Hallerman Medical Benefit c/o Apple River State Bank, Warren IL 61087 or at www.hallermanbenefit. com All proceeds to benefit the Hallerman family.

The list of the Top 100 Rural & Community Hospitals and more information about the study is available at www.iVantageINDEX.com. The research identifies both strong and vulnerable organizations, as the company's website explains: "Amidst uncertainty, transition and strain, these top performers are excelling in managing risk, achieving higher quality, securing better outcomes, increasing patient satisfaction, and operating at a lower cost than their peers. These two groups serve as a benchmark for other rural facilities as they strive to achieve similar results and provide a blueprint for successfully navigating the uncertainty of the new healthcare."

"Rural healthcare encompasses more than 60 million Americans and the facilities, which comprise our Top 100 Rural & Community Hospitals play a vital role in ensuring the long-term sustainability of the rural health safety net," said Michael Topchik, iVantage Health Analytics Senior Vice President. "Our data analysis shows that this group of top performers exhibits a focused concern for their community benefits and needs, regardless of scale, reimbursement and people's ability

Pet Talk: Arthritis in Dogs

Joint problems are not uncommon in dogs, especially those of older age. From playing fetch to jumping on the couch, canines may experience joint pain that can result from underlying joint conditions, such as osteoarthritis. Dr. Brad Bennett, lecturer at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences, explained the types of arthritis as well as the development of the disease.

"Osteoarthritis, commonly referred to as degenerative joint disease, is a noninfectious degenera-tion of joints," Bennett said. "There are two types of arthritis; primary and secondary. Primary osteoarthritis is a disorder in which the cartilage in the bone degenerates as the dog ages. Secondary arthritis, which is more common than primary, occurs secondary to joint disease, abnormal pressure on the cartilage surfaces of the joint, or joint instability." Instability of a joint, or a joint that is vulnerable to inflammation due to some form of injury, can eventually lead to arthritis.

Owners of dogs with arthritis may notice a decrease in the dog's physical activity. A dog with arthritis may also be slower or have difficulty rising in the morning. One of the most common signs of arthritis in dogs is lameness, which may be a result from pain or injury. Lameness is often recognized by a change in the dog's gait or movement patterns. The signs of lameness may occur persistently or every once in a while.

"If an owner thinks signs of arthritis may be occurring in their dog, taking the dog to a veterinarian for a physical examination can help determine if the signs are a result of arthritis," Bennett said. "During this examination, radiographs and X-rays may be taken to help determine a diagnosis."

Based on a clinical examination and radiographs, several treatment options may be available. If the arthritis is mild, it may be managed by weight loss, and pain and anti-inflammatory medications prescribed by a veterinarian, as well as prescribed supplements. In other cases, treatment may include surgery, therapeutic exercises, and rehabilitation medicine. To ensure your four-legged friend is diagnosed and treated properly, it is important to visit your regular veterinarian for guidance.

Dog owners would do anything to give their dogs long and happy lives; however, preventing arthritis may be a little tricky. "Generally speaking, weight reduction is key," Bennett said. "If there is less weight and impact on the jointsthere should be less discomfort and pain. However, this may not work with secondary arthritis depending on the inciting cause. Preventing arthritis may be difficult depending on if it the arthritis is classified as primary or secondary."

Canine joint pain resulting from arthritis is common, especially in older dogs. If you notice a negative change in your furry friend's mobility and play-time tolerance, be sure to monitor the situation closely and contact your veterinarian. In addition, remember that maintaining your pet's ideal weight through a healthy diet and exercise can help reduce the effects of joint pain and related diseases, such as arthritis.

Senate Week in Review

With just two weeks until Illinois' new fiscal year starts July 1, Gov. Bruce Rauner is asking state lawmakers to immediately return to Springfield and approve a stop-gap budget that will fund K-12 schools for the next year and keep essential state services running until January.

Also during the week, two Rauner Administration officials explained what the ongoing budget impasse means to state infrastructure construction and improvement projects.

We have offered affordable budget solutions that will allow schools to open on time this fall, and keep basic state government services operational through the end of the year.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Michael Madigan cancelled a planned Wednesday session for the second week in a row.

Short-term budget needed to avoid capital construction delays

Without spending authority on July 1, more than 800 active road projects worth about $2 billion and employing about 25,000 workers are at risk, and vital capital improvement projects affecting correctional centers, K-12 schools, universities and veterans' homes will sit idle for a second year.

On June 15, Department of Transportation Secretary Randy Blankenhorn joined the Governor in calling for a resolution to the budget impasse, warning that road construction and improvement projects will shut down July 1, creating safety concerns for motorists, adding significantly to project costs, and resulting in the loss of thousands of construction jobs.

Capital Development Board Executive Director Jodi Golden also noted that the lack of spending authority forced the suspension of a number of active construction projects across the state last year, and threatens the loss of a second construction season this year. She said many routine maintenance issues have turned into safety concerns, and the state is seeing its facilities deteriorate and incurring costs on a daily basis. Halting these construction projects also put jobs on hold for many workers.

Stop-gap budget most responsible course of action

We have been working for more than a year in bipartisan and bicameral negotiations to pass a balanced budget and meaningful economic reforms to expand job opportunities, fix a corrupt political system and mend a failing state economy.

It is clear that Democrat leaders are hoping to delay the budget until after the election in November, putting at risk schools, prisons, mental health facilities and other human service programs. Barring an immediate resolution of the stalemate, we have joined the Governor in saying a passage of a stop-gap budget is the most responsible course of action right now.

Ensuring schools can open in the fall is the most pressing issue, and we have introduced measures (Senate Bill 3434/House Bill 6583) that would ensure General State Aid for K-12 schools would be fully funded for the first time in seven years.

The legislation includes an additional $105 million to "hold harmless" schools that would have received less state aid in Fiscal 2017 than they received during Fiscal Year 2016. The measures would also end the practice of "proration"—the deliberate underfunding of the General State Aid that schools should receive—that has taken place the last seven years.

A second part of the stop-gap budget solution (Senate Bill 3435/ House Bill 6585) will ensure state correctional facilities, universities, and basic government operations are funded through the end of the calendar year.

It is important to note that there is available revenue associated with these plans, unlike the out-ofbalance budget forced through by House Democrat leaders in May, which spends $7 billion more than the state takes in and would force a massive tax hike on every Illinois family. We will not support the continuation of the reckless and irresponsible spending that has been a hallmark of Illinois fiscal policy for the last dozen years, and is the reason Illinois finances are in such a terrible mess athletes recently returned from the 2016 National Championships with some well-deserved hardware and a chance to experience the selection of the 2016 Trampoline Olympians for the Rio Games. The 2016 National Championships for Tumbling, Trampoline and Double Mini Trampoline were held in Providence. Rhode Island. Madalyn Fitzanko (Pecatonica), Jenna Revell (Pecatonica), Emily Gibson (Byron) and Bridgett Hunziker (Ridott) were the four athletes representing the Pecatonica Gym. Revell recently mobilized to the Elite level of competition for the event of Power Tumbling. Revell's competition consisted of athletes ages 11-14, Youth Division requirements for the Elite level with two tumbling passes with varied requirements of double and twisting somersaults. Revell captured 1st place and the title of Youth Elite National Tumbling Champion. The third day of competition, Revell placed 3rd overall in the Level 10 division of 13-14 year olds in the event of Double Mini Trampoline. Fitzanko and Revell also participated in Synchronized Trampoline where both athletes perform the same routine on two different trampolines set up side by side. The athletes are judged on various somersaulting, form and synchronization requirements. The pair took 1st place and the title of Level 9, 13-14 year old Synchronized Trampoline Champions. Fitzanko later placed 25th overall in Level 8 Tumbling and 19th in Level 8 Double Mini Trampoline.

J&J athletes bring home medals from the 2016 national championships

Two athletes were also attending their final National Championships as high school graduates. Emily Gibson and Bridgett Hunziker have attended a combined total of 14 National Championships with the J&J in Trampoline, Tumbling and Double Mini events. At this year's Nationals Gibson placed 17th in Level 8 Trampoline and 35th in Level 8 Double mini in a field of 62 athletes in each event. Hunzicer also placed well in a highly contested age division of Level 8 Trampoline placing 4th overall, Double mini 6th and Tumbling 13th. At the conclusion of the competition the athletes and families were able to attend the USA Gymnastics Finals for the Senior Elite athletes and the final Olympic Trial for both Trampoline and Rhythmic Gymnastics. The finals proved to be a spectacular event concluding with the naming of the 2016 Olympians Logan Dooley (California) and Nicole Ahsinger (Louisiana) who will be representing the USA in Rio at the 2016 Olympic Games.

Blackhawk Hills Regional Council holds spring symposium and annual meeting

Blackhawk Hills Regional Council, northwest Illinois' Regional Planning Commission, held its Spring Symposium and Annual Meeting on June 9, 2016, at Turner Hall in Galena, IL. The meeting was open to the public and nearly fifty guests from various local governments and organizations attended. The event's name was "Old Is New Again: Downtown Rising."

Daryl Watson, author, educator, and local historian, spoke about Turner Hall, the city, and events that shaped Galena over time. He discussed local leadership's place in revitalizing communities and downtowns, pointing out the importance of unique community identity and dedication. To community leaders in attendance, Watson emphasized that concern for architecture and historic preservation were key components in Galena's revitalization in the 1980s.

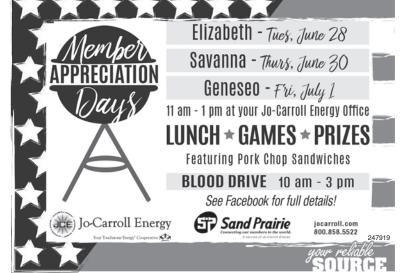

Laura Carstens, Planning Services Manager for the City of Dubuque, IA, presented on Dubuque's past decline and present resurgence, providing a history lesson and community planning perspective. She noted that Dubuque found success in setting high standards and raising civic expectations. Examples of expecting more included the adoption of an over-arching comprehensive plan that guides all planning and development. Carstens also cited citizen engagement and neighborhood outreach, as well as updates to zoning, subdivision, site development, and historic preservation regulations into one unified code.

Both speakers touched on the place of attitude and explained that single projects can be catalysts for bigger projects and that resources can be leveraged (from public, private, and non-profit sectors) and combined to achieve greater economic, environmental, and quality of life outcomes for locals.

Two awards were given at the meeting. The Volunteer of the Year award was presented to Diane Bausman, Executive Director of Blackhawk Waterways Convention and Visitor's Bureau. The award is presented annually to the person(s) or group(s) that have shown dedication to a project or initiative within the six-county region related to Blackhawk Hills' goals and priorities. The second, the Carson DeJarnatt

Economic Development Award, was presented to the City of Lanark. It is given to a person, organization, or initiative that demonstrates commitment to economic development. The award's namesake, Carson DeJarnatt, joined the Blackhawk Hills Regional Council as the Whiteside County Board representative in 1987. He was instrumental in the establishment of Blackhawk Hills' Economic Development District in 1992. Blackhawk Hills created the award in his honor after his death in
