In my opinion

Random Acts of Kindness Day is every single day

Back in the day when I gave a lot of JOY talks and workshops (I still do some), people started calling me the Joy Fairy. I loved it. Still do. (Some now call me the Book Fairy too.) I was constantly gifted with joy mementos and trinkets and cards, in person and in my PO Box. As much as that was indeed joy and my gratitude overflowed, I told folks to instead send to someone in their world who could use a pick me up.

That is what I am asking you to do today. Snail mail someone a card or a note, just to say "Hey, I was thinking about you!" This simple act of kindness does a world of good. And we are a world that always welcomes more good. It can be a simple joy kind of thing or it can be specific to that particular someone. Know a friend who digs sunflowers? Print out a picture of a field of flowers from your computer and sign it. Sending happy thoughts has exponential power.

Use your imagination. I had a friend cut something off a cereal box and she sent it with a sticky note. It made me smile. It made my day. (Thanks, Mary, for the fun snail mail!)

You don't have to be a creative genius. If your friend loves Adam Levine, print a picture and sign it: Singing for you! Do whatever feels fun for you.

Certainly you can send actual cards. Buy in bulk or grab when the image or words resonate for a special someone. A stamp is fifty cents. If you do not buy yourself one cup of coffee this week, you can have the moolah for the stamp, the envelope, the card, whatever.

By

The return on the investment is priceless. The ripple effect of kindness is real and scientifically proven.

You can also throw a little surprise kindness to strangers. My hubby and I were out and about this weekend and everywhere we went, people of all ages and origins, were holding doors open and smiling and saying "Have a good day." We did.

Don't wait for Random Acts of Kindness Day (February 17, a long way off). Make every day random acts of kindness day, make it a way of life.

When you are feeling up, pay for the coffee for the person behind you in line. AND when you are feeling low, pay for the coffee for the person behind you in line. Studies show that doing a kindness is a huge mood booster. So if YOU need a pick-me-up, do a nice little deed for another.

There is something lovely about doing kindnesses for strangers. They may not be able to reciprocate directly to you, but they will be compelled to do a nice gesture for another and that strengthens the collective goodwill toward mankind vibe.

Kindness is always in season. We can plant more and more and more. We can watch it blossom and grow. We can reap the harvest and share the spoils. We can plant more seeds. And on and on and on.

One thing leads to another. One joy leads to another. Do one small this week and see what happens.

Let me know your random acts of kindness. Write info@kellyepperson.com and sign up for my weekly newsletter! www.kellyepperson.com and PO Box 2324 Loves Park, IL 61131.

Slices of life

What's in a name?

It's one of the first things new parents do after counting to make sure there are 10 fingers and 10 toes. They name the baby. Names are chosen carefully and with great attention to detail. What sort of mean nicknames could kids in the schoolyard find to taunt little Dicky with?

Will a weird spelling haunt a kid for life? Does the name of choice rhyme with any swear words? Do initials spell out anything with negative connotations? Will the name make a smooth transition from childhood to adult life?

So much to contemplate.

I've been doing all of the above – not for a baby, per se, but for myself. I'm on the cusp of acquiring an additional name – one I've spent a lifetime preparing for. And by golly I've earned it. It's the one the new baby in my life will call me and it calls for considerable consideration.

Grandma is the obvious choice, but according to Google research, Grandma is just one of many grand choices. Not every grandma has to answer to grandma. And many modern grannies are utilizing creativity and uniqueness to bump their monikers up a notch.

None of this is new. Grandmas have been anything but grandma since the invention of the species. I had a neighbor once who insisted her grandkids call her Sylvia. That would be really unique and funny if her name

On July 3, 2018, I fell walking down to get the paper. I realized I must have broken something because I couldn't move. My husband thought I had been gone too long and came down to investigate. He called 911 and in about 4 minutes the WinBurSew EMT's arrived. We would like to thank Tyler, John and the trainee that was with them for the fast, efficient and professional way they handled the situation. What a comfort to know that dedicated people like them are available on a 24/7 basis.

were Mary, but it was Sylvia, so it wasn't overly remarkable.

Point is, she didn't want others seeing her as a grandma. Maybe she felt she was too young for that, or maybe she didn't want anyone to know she was old enough to have a grandchild. It matters not. She was Sylvia to them.

My own mom wasn't grandma, but not by choice. She would have been perfectly happy being grandma, but on the day I was bringing my first baby home from the hospital, my mom fell and broke her hip.

Her recovery was gradual and for years she had trouble walking. We explained to our toddler daughter that grandma had an "owie on her hip" – and from then on she was no longer grandma, but "owie on the hip." The name was adopted by each of our subsequent kids and for the rest of her days my mom gladly answered to the name "owie on the hip" or sometimes just "owie."

Grandmas are called different names in different countries. A babushka in Russia is akin to a mormor in the Scandinavian countries. In Spain and Mexico she goes by abuela; in Japan o baachan; in France grand-mere; in Germany oma. All are good, but I've no need to be bilingual in my grandmotherly status.

Here in the U.S. a few different ones are common. In addition to grandma, you've got granny, gran and nana. If you wanted to go the formal route you could opt for grandmother. One I found clever and sweet was a woman whose husband, as grandpa, was called simply "pop." She asked to be called "lolly" and together they made a lollypop. If that doesn't make you go "Awww" I'm not sure what will.

As for me, I'll come when called, no matter what she calls me. But, I have decided on a preference – if it works out. I sort of like grammy, for a silly and simple reason: it sounds like an award and I've always wanted to win an award.

And my new little granddaughter is the best award this grammy could ever get.

SHARING DREAMS

Ken Beever always wanted to be a farmer. When a UTV accident left him with a broken hip, he feared his dream was over. Recovery was expected to last six to nine months, and there were no guarantees his hip would ever be the same. "I felt like I was letting my family down. I'd have to find another line of work." But thanks to perseverance and great care from OSF HealthCare, Ken returned to farming in just 110 days. "They treated me like a family member, and they helped me return to doing what I love to do the most."

RACVB announces winners of Business is Blooming

Program continues to honor community for innovation, beautification efforts

The Rockford Area Convention & Visitors Bureau (RACVB) announced the 2018 Business is Blooming program winners who further the efforts of Forest City Beautiful and aim to enhance the Rockford region by beautifying their storefronts and entrances to their businesses. Business is Blooming exists to build a culture of community involvement and visually appealing environments for our city. The program supports and acknowledges the positive values and efforts displayed by our business owners to make Rockford a beautiful and enjoyable place to live, work and play. Activities that strengthen civic pride and the customer experience are vital links to long-term success in the Rockford region. Rewarding beautification efforts acknowledges this value.

Now in it's second year, the Business is Blooming program expanded the boundaries by more than doubling the geographic area of businesses who could participate to include south of Riverside, west of Alpine, north of Broadway and east of Rockton Avenue.

A team of eight judges visited the exterior grounds of selected businesses to be considered for this designation. Out of 54 businesses, seven were chosen in select categories: Small Business (1-10 employees) Trove (2410 Jackson St, Rockford, Ill. 61107); Large Business (26+ employees) UIC Health Sciences Campus - Rockford (1601 Parkview Ave, Rockford, Ill. 61107); Restaurant Outdoor Dining Sisters Thai Café (514 E. State St, Rockford, Ill. 61104); Downtown Business Restoration Café (625 W. State St, Rockford, Ill. 61102); Returning Champion Community Foundation of Northern Illinois (946 2nd St, Rockford, Ill. 61107); Public Garden Anderson Japanese Gardens (318 Spring Creek Road, Rockford,

FAMILY FEATURES

Serving up an outdoor meal is a summertime staple for gatherings of all kinds – barbecues, celebrations, picnics and more. However, with so many options available and different styles for preparing the dishes, it can be a challenge for home chefs to decide what guests will go for.

Instead of racking your brain or spending hours searching for the right main course, consider these versatile options – one dish focused on chicken, one for beef and one for pork – that can send partygoers back for seconds.

Find more recipes perfect for outdoor gatherings at Culinary.net.

Serve Up Skewers

Ideal for simple family meals or full-blown summertime parties, these Honey-Lime Chicken Skewers are an ideal handheld food for outdoor meals. With just a handful of ingredients and an easy grilling method involved, they’re tasty and tantalizing without taking your focus off all the fun and festivities. More honey-infused recipes are available at Honey.com.

Honey-Lime Chicken Skewers

Recipe courtesy of The National Honey Board
Servings: 8

- 2 tablespoons honey
- 3 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 lime, juiced
- 1 pound chicken breast strips, skinless and boneless bamboo skewers

In small bowl, whisk honey, soy sauce, olive oil and lime juice until completely blended. Pour mixture into re-sealable freezer bag and add chicken strips. Seal bag and gently shake to cover chicken strips. Allow to marinate 2 hours.

Heat grill to medium-high heat.

Soak bamboo skewers in water 15 minutes. Remove chicken strips from marinade and skewer onto bamboo sticks. Grill 8 minutes, or until juices are clear and chicken is fully cooked.

Savor Your Summer Soirees

Main dish options for outdoor entertaining

Sweet Summer Refresh

Summer typically brings about both the desire to feel healthier and cravings for sweet, refreshing meals. When you rethink your food and focus on feeling better about your diet and yourself, the two can work hand-in-hand.

Liven up your summer entertaining menu with a delicious touch of reduced-calorie sweetness from Truvia in recipes like this sizzling Java London Broil. Celebrity chef Devin Alexander, featured on “The Biggest Loser,” created this succulent recipe with less sugar by using Truvia Brown Sugar Blend, combining stevia sweetener with brown sugar to maintain the taste and texture of brown sugar with 75 percent fewer calories, for her latest book “You Can Have It!”

For more summertime recipe ideas, visit Truvia.com.

Java London Broil

Recipe courtesy of Devin Alexander from “You Can Have It!,” copyright American Diabetes Association
Servings: 6

- 2 teaspoons freshly ground coffee
- 1/2 tablespoon Truvia Brown Sugar Blend
- 2 teaspoons freshly ground black pepper
- 1 teaspoon ground coriander
- 1/2 teaspoon dried oregano
- 1/4 teaspoon sea salt
- 1 London broil (1 1/2 pounds, preferably grass fed)
- 1 teaspoon extra-virgin olive oil

Heat grill to high.

In small bowl, add coffee, brown sugar blend, black pepper, coriander, oregano and salt; mix well.

Place London broil on cutting board or large plate. Drizzle 1/2 teaspoon of olive oil on each side of meat then rub all over. Sprinkle seasoning mixture over roast and rub in to evenly cover meat.

Grill London broil to desired doneness, about 3-5 minutes per side for medium rare. Tent meat with foil for 5 minutes then slice into thin slices, cutting at an angle against the grain.

Sweet and Savory Ribs

By starting these Grilled Sticky Ribs in the oven before finishing them off on the grill with a sweet chili glaze, home cooks can help make summer festivities stand out without spending hours at the grill or smoker. The Asian-inspired finish of the glaze gives guests a unique taste to savor while soaking in the summer sun. Visit verybestbaking.com for more recipes from Nestlé.

Grilled Sticky Ribs

Recipe courtesy of Nestlé
Prep time: 20 minutes
Total time: 3 hours, 35 minutes
Servings: 5-6

- 2 racks (about 4 pounds) baby back ribs
- garlic salt
- ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil

- 1/4 cup finely chopped red onion
- 1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
- 1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger
- 3/4 cup sweet chili sauce
- 1/2 cup Apple Nestlé Juicy Juice 100% Juice
- 1 tablespoon rice wine (mirin)

Heat oven to 300 F. Using knife, remove membrane from bone side of ribs. Pat ribs dry with paper towel; season both sides liberally with garlic salt and pepper. Place ribs in large roasting pan, overlapping as needed. Add water to pan. Cover tightly with aluminum foil.

Bake about 3 hours, or until meat is tender but not quite falling off bones.

In small saucepan over medium-high heat, heat oil. Add onion; cook, stirring occasionally, 2-3 minutes, or until soft. Stir in garlic and ginger; cook 1 minute. Stir in sweet chili sauce, apple juice and rice wine. Reduce heat to low; cook 8 minutes, or until sauce is reduced to about 1 cup.

Heat grill to medium heat.

Brush glaze over tops of ribs. Grill 4-5 minutes, or until sauce caramelizes. Serve with remaining glaze.

“Last year, it was our hope that this program would inspire business owners, operators and property owners to think about the ways they can beautify their business. We are overjoyed with the number of businesses who participated this year and are encouraged by their mindfulness and attention to detail making their entrances, facades and landscapes a welcoming experience,” said Tana Vettore, RACVB director of destination development.

“The Businesses of Distinction that we honored today have invested in this concept of beautification and are excellent models within our community. They have taken their standard to the next level by incorporating elements like appealing and well-placed signage, awnings that are professionally designed and installed, and beautiful outdoor patios which incorporate lighting, flowers and appealing landscapes.”

This annual program aims to develop and maintain a partnership among RACVB, businesses, neighborhood advocacy groups, schools, non-profit organizations, volunteer groups, etc. to share in the vision and maintenance of this program. As a result, they will serve as exemplary models to inspire more people to do the same.

The program will recognize and incentivize businesses, organizations and property owners to improve the landscaping and facades of their buildings and properties; promote the goal of year-round activity/maintenance such as proper snow removal at businesses for customer access as well as lush summer landscapes and weed-free, litter-free environments; and selecting and rewarding outstanding or innovative beautification achievements.

“Maintaining the park-like atmosphere of the 20-acre campus from when it was a TB sanitarium in the early 1900s to when it became the College of Medicine in 1971 to today when it is a health sciences campus with multiple colleges and programs takes dedication and planning,” says Chris Berndt, director of physical plant, IT and facility planning for the UIC Health Sciences Campus - Rockford. “We were honored to be nominated for this recognition and credit our maintenance staff, Crimson Valley Landscaping and our campus Garden Club members for the work they did to earn us this award.”

The 2019 Business is Blooming program will again expand city-wide and will become a nomination-based contest. Registration for the 2019 contest is open and all applications are due by June 14, 2019, with judging on July 16, 2019 and the awards ceremony on July 25, 2019. Business owners are encouraged to visit forestcitybeautiful.com/bloom to get more information about the program and to register to participate.

There is no cost to nominate a business.

Forest City Beautiful is a multi-year initiative aimed at creating and maintaining beautiful landscapes in downtown Rockford. RACVB leads the effort in collaboration with the City of Rockford. As part of the initiative, RACVB has the responsibility to plan, install and maintain landscaping in public spaces. More information can be found at forestcitybeautiful.com.

RACVB exists to drive quality of life and economic growth for the citizens of Rockford and Winnebago County through tourism marketing and destination development. www.gorockford.com
