Winners all around

The Stockton Fire Department held a raffle for the Mark Kruse benefit, with more than 100 items donated. Due to social distancing, the raffle was held as a live Facebook event with Randy Baysinger as the announcer. Alex Kriebs and Mike Schultz, new to the department, pulled the ticket for the winning prize. More than $35,000 was raised at the benefit and given to the Kruse family.

Annual count yields 42 species of birds

The Eagle Nature Foundation sponsored a Big Bird Day at Apple Creek Arboretum, Prairie and Woods near Apple River on May 9.

Master birder Terrence Ingram documented 42 different species of birds from dawn to dusk. Only a single bird of many species was seen or heard, including a red-tailed hawk, barred owl, great-horned owl, common flicker, white-breasted nuthatch, orchard oriole, indigo bunting and vesper and field sparrows.

He was not able to document some common birds, such as turkey, pheasant, wood duck, bluebird, kingbird, hairy and pileated woodpeckers, tufted titmouse, white-throated and swamp sparrows or any flycatchers, vireos or warblers.

Some of these were seen the day before or day after Big Bird Day.

Ingram started this event several years ago to document the loss of birds due to agricultural spraying in the area.

“Our modern agricultural practices of clearing the landscape and constantly spraying the poisons has got to stop if we are to have any bird life survive,” Ingram said in a news release. “Without the birds, we are going to be facing problems with all of the insects that can adapt to these farm practices.”

To help the Eagle Nature Foundation in its efforts to preserve the bald eagle, Ingram uses this event as a fundraiser.

He is asking people to pledge dollars for every species of bird he saw on May 9 or simply donate. Pledges should be sent to Eagle Nature Foundation, 300 E. Hickory St., Apple River, IL 61001.

For more information, contact Ingram at that address or call 815-594-2306.

Lawmakers to return to Springfield on May 20-22

State budget among top items to be considered

By Peter Hancock
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

Illinois lawmakers will return to Springfield from today through Friday — the first time in more than two months — to take up a state budget and other critical matters while following strict social distancing and public safety guidelines during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Before returning to the capital, lawmakers are being asked to sign a pledge stipulating they will be tested for COVID-19, regardless of whether they have symptoms or have been previously infected. They also will be required to wear face coverings, undergo temperature checks on session days, travel alone and stay in separate hotel rooms, follow social distancing guidelines and avoid extracurricular activities.

The House will meet in the Bank of Springfield Center, a convention center a few blocks from the Statehouse. The Senate plans to meet in the Senate chamber of the Capitol.

The Illinois State Police will provide security at the BoS Center, and all people entering the building will be required to pass through a metal detector to prevent weapons from being carried into the facility.

All people also will be required to wear face coverings and submit to a touchless temperature check. Anyone with a temperature of more than 100 degrees will be required to leave.

The House also recommended lawmakers and staff who are at risk of serious illness from COVID-19 — people over age 65 or with pre-existing conditions — consider not traveling to Springfield for the special session.

Senate President Don Harmon, D-Oak Park, said in a statement that the upper chamber was working on the logistics of how it will meet, but he said senators are ready to get to work.

"Time and again the Illinois Senate has shown its members can work together to solve problems and produce results for the people of this great state," Harmon said. "That cooperative spirit of bipartisan achievement is needed now more than ever. This global pandemic has decimated our state and local economies regardless of political affiliation. From far-flung living rooms, kitchen tables and home offices, senators have been working together while apart to figure out what we can and need to do now."

Lawmakers have not met since March 5. They were scheduled to

The Capitol in Springfield has been quiet for more than two months because lawmakers and most state employees practiced stay-at-home routines as ordered by Gov. JB Pritzker.

be off the week of March 9-13 to campaign in advance of the March 17 primary. They also were scheduled to take a two-week spring break April 6-17. All other session days since then were canceled due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Lawmakers have been meeting remotely in informal working groups during the shutdown, mainly to gather information they will need when they return to session, but those working groups were not authorized to draft legislation or hear testimony on bills.

Much of the work ahead is expected to focus on passing a state budget in light of a severe drop in revenues that has resulted from the closure of nonessential businesses, a statewide stay-at-home order and the delay in the state's tax filing deadline.

Newly revised estimates from the Commission on Government Forecasting and Accountability, or CoGFA, project that total revenues for the current fiscal year, which ends June 30, will be about $2.2 billion lower than the previous estimate released in March. Net income taxes are expected to be $1.7 billion lower than the March estimate.

Revenues for the upcoming fiscal year, which begins July 1, are expected to be $4.7 billion lower than previously estimated.

The state has the ability to borrow money from other funds to shore up the general revenue fund. Officials also will be watching closely to see if the U.S. Congress approves any federal aid for states.

Despite the falloff in revenue, Gov. JB Pritzker has said he wants lawmakers to pass a COVID-19 financial relief bill that will specifically target small businesses that have been unable to access federal relief funds.

"Obviously, as I've said for some time now, we have real challenges with the loss of revenue because of COVID-19," Pritzker said during his daily briefing March 13 in Chicago, "so we need to rely upon the federal government and its support for all the states in order for us to provide the services that people need, in order to pay for the education that our kids need and for us to support our businesses and our families in the wake of this curve as we're dealing with this COVID-19 crisis."

Meanwhile, many legislative Republicans have been calling for weeks to reconvene the session, arguing the governor has no legal authority to extend the disaster declaration beyond the original 30-day time frame, and they hope to put the governor's authority up for a vote.

"I am pleased the governor and Democratic leaders have heeded our calls to return to the people's Capitol to address the critical issues facing our state during these unprecedented times," Senate Minority Leader Bill Brady, of Bloomington, said in a statement. "It is vital the Legislature be a part of the decision-making process when it comes to maintaining the public's health, reopening our state, moving our economy forward and overcoming a graduated income tax that would negatively impact Illinois families."

House Minority Leader Jim Durkin, of Western Springs, also issued a statement welcoming a special session.

"After two months of inaction, it is about time we get back to the job we were elected to do," he said.

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

I guess we are in Week 8 if you started with the first week in April. The first recipe in last week's column was a pasta salad made with peas. One of my friends pointed out that something didn't make sense. Have you ever forgotten a comma? That is what I did. I know that the whipping cream sort of threw people off, but the recipe does use whipping cream and Parmesan cheese. These two will thicken a bit after bringing to a boil.

Sorry I forgot to put the comma between cream (for whipping cream) and cheese (for Parmesan).

I am repeating the recipe so you have the right directions to a spring salad.

Spring Pea Pasta

2 T. olive oil
4 cloves, garlic minced
1/4 t. crushed red pepper
1 1/2 C. fresh or thawed frozen peas
1 C. whipping cream
1 C. shredded Parmesan cheese, plus more for garnish
2 T. unsalted butter
1/2 lb. elbow macaroni, cooked according to package directions
1 lemon, zested and juiced
1/4 t. salt

In a large skillet, heat oil, garlic and red pepper over medium heat; cook until fragrant, 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in peas, cream, cheese and butter and bring to a low boil. Cook until peas are tender and sauce is slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in pasta, lemon zest and juice and salt. Garnish with the Parmesan.

Green Salad

This green salad can be made with several kinds of greens. You can substitute Napa cabbage for the spinach or bok choy also. If you have pine nuts, you can use them for the sunflower seeds. I would stick with the sunflower kernels because pine nuts are really expensive; you also need to keep pine nuts in the freezer because they go bad really fast.

1 bag baby spinach or 1 head bok choy, finely chopped
2 bunches green onions, thinly sliced
2 pkg. (3 oz. each) ramen noodles, broken
1/4 C. slivered almonds
1 T. sunflower kernels
1/4 C. butter

Dressing

1/3 C. to 1/2 C. sugar (use your discretion on how sweet you want the sweet and sour dressing)
1/2 C. canola oil
2 T. cider vinegar
1 T. soy sauce

In a large bowl, combine greens and green onions; set aside. Save the seasoning packet from ramen noodles for another use. In a large skillet, sauté the noodles, almonds and sunflower kernels in the butter until browned, about 7 minutes. Remove from the heat; cool mixture to room temperature. Add to greens and onion mixture.

In a jar with a tight-fitting lid, combine the dressing ingredients and shake well. Just before serving, drizzle over salad and toss to coat.

Southwestern Casserole

Everyone seems to be into Southwestern food these days. This casserole is a good one because you get two casseroles out of one recipe.

You can freeze the one you aren't going to eat for a meal sometime in the next few weeks. If you don't want any spice, you can leave the jalapeno peppers off the top.

2 C. uncooked elbow macaroni
2 lbs. ground beef
1 large onion, chopped
2 garlic cloves, minced
2 cans (14 1/2 oz. each) diced tomatoes, undrained
1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 can (4 oz.) tomato paste
1 can (4 oz.) green chilies, drained
1 1/2 t. salt
1 t. chili powder
1/2 t. ground cumin
1/2 t. pepper
2 C. Monterey Jack cheese
2 jalapeno peppers, seeded and chopped

Cook macaroni according to package directions. In a large saucepan, cook beef and onion over medium heat, crumbling beef, until meat is no longer pink. Add garlic; cook 1 minute longer. Drain. Stir in tomatoes, kidney beans, tomato paste, chilies, salt, chili powder, cumin and pepper. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer uncovered for 10 minutes.

Drain macaroni and stir into beef mixture. Preheat the oven to 375. Transfer macaroni mixture into 2 greased 2-quart baking dishes. Top with cheese and jalapeños. Cover and bake at 375 for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake until bubbly and heated through, about 10 minutes longer. Serve one casserole. Cool the second casserole and cover it and freeze up to three months.

Pork Chops with Rhubarb

I have a lot of rhubarb recipes this season; some of them are more traditional than others. Paring the rhubarb with the pork is a unique flavor. The sauce is very much like the chutney from last week.

1 T. flour
Salt and pepper to taste
2 bone-in pork loin chops (1/2 to 3/4 inches thick)
2 T. butter
1/2 lb. fresh or frozen rhubarb, chopped
1 T. honey
1/8 t. cinnamon
1 1/2 t. minced fresh parsley
In a shallow dish, combine the flour, salt and pepper; add pork chops and turn to coat. In a skillet, melt butter over medium heat.

Add pork chops and cook until a thermometer reads 145, about 4 to 5 minutes on each side. Remove and keep warm. Add the rhubarb, honey and cinnamon to the skillet; cook until rhubarb is tender, about 5 minutes. Serve sauce over pork chops. Sprinkle with parsley.

Rhubarb Crumble

Going along with our spring rhubarb theme, this desert will tickle your fruit taste buds. It has apples, strawberries and rhubarb in it. Enjoy this nice dessert that is made in a small pan. You won't have to eat it forever.

3 C. fresh or frozen rhubarb, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
1 C. diced, peeled apples
1/2 to 1 C. strawberries
1/3 C. sugar
1/2 t. cinnamon
1/2 C. flour
1 t. baking powder
1/4 t. salt
4 T. cold butter
2/3 C. packed brown sugar
2/3 C. quick cooking oats

Combine the rhubarb, apples and strawberries; spoon into a greased 8-inch square baking dish. Combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over rhubarb mixture. Set aside.

In a bowl, combine flour, baking powder and salt. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in brown sugar and oats. Sprinkle over rhubarb mixture. Bake at 350 until lightly browned, about 40 to 50 minutes. Serve warm or cold with a scoop of ice cream.

Pistachio Torte

Someone sent me this old-fashioned recipe; actually I think it was from the 1970s, and I don't think of that as old! It is a layer dessert so you have to plan ahead. It also uses pistachio pudding, which may be hard to find. I know I have seen it at Cub Foods and at Sullivan's.

Base:

2 C. flour
2 sticks cubed, cold butter
1/2 C. chopped pecans

Topping:

1 pkg. 8 oz. cream cheese
1 1/2 C. powdered sugar
1 carton (8 oz.) frozen whipped, topping, thawed and divided
2 (3.3 oz. each) boxes pistachio pudding
2 C. milk

Preheat oven to 350. In a medium bowl, use two forks to combine flour and butter until dough resembles coarse crumbs. Stir in pecans. Pour into a 9-by-13-inch baking dish, and use your hands or the bottom of a drinking glass to press crumbs into a smooth crust along the bottom. Bake 18 to 20 minutes or until lightly toasted. Remove from oven and let cool to room temperature.

In a medium bowl, beat cream cheese on medium speed until smooth. Scrape the bowl and add powdered sugar and beat until combined. Fold in 1 cup of whipped topping. Carefully spread cream cheese mixture over prepared crust and smooth with a spatula.

In a medium bowl, beat together pistachio pudding and milk for 2 minutes on high speed. Spread pudding mixture evenly over cream cheese layer. Spread remaining whipped topping mixture over pudding. Chill in the fridge 1 hour before serving.

Closing thoughts

It was an interesting week at my house. My computer went down right before I was going to submit this column. Luckily my computer tutor came out and fixed it. He told me what happened, and I nodded my head appropriately. I am such a challenged computer operator that I have to rely on his expertise. He fixed me up, and I was able to get this column in on time.

Earlier in the week my nice helper came and hauled my lawn furniture up from the basement. It hasn't been fit to use it yet. I am looking forward to sitting out there and watching everything green up. My neighbors' lilac bushes have begun to bloom. They are beautiful, and I don't care if they kick up my allergies because they smell wonderful. My tulips are finally blooming, and the pretty pink ones have been dancing in the wind. I always am amazed at how sturdy the little buggers are.

We continue to stay in most of the time. I am making a casserole that I will probably have to eat for several days. I usually share with some senior citizen friends. However, I can't get to them to share.

I had a surprise when my brother brought me some crab Rangoon. Boy did I savor those little buggers.

Remember that patience is a virtue — as I am running out of it and not feeling very virtuous — and there are a lot of people who have more challenges than many of us do. Keep smiling and keep safe.

Unemployment numbers continue to climb

By Jerry Nowicki

CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

The U.S. saw nearly 3 million more unemployment claims the week ending May 9, including another 72,993 in Illinois, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

The 2.98 million claims nationwide in the week pushed the jobless claims in the first two months of the novel coronavirus pandemic to more than 36 million. The unprecedented number of claims made for a national unemployment rate of 15.7 percent the week ending May 2.

In Illinois, the number of new claims on the week was 1,483 less than the week prior. The number of new claims each week has gone down since a peak of 201,041 during the week of April 4.

The Illinois Department of Employment Security said in a news release it has now processed 1,076,461 claims for regular unemployment benefits from March 1 through May 9.

Continued claims reached 756,441 in the state last week, which was the final period before contractors and self-employed persons were able to file for special federal pandemic unemployment assistance in Illinois.

"While the number of initial claims for regular benefits has plateaued in the last two weeks, IDES will experience an increase in overall claims processed when the federal pandemic unemployment assistance claims data becomes available Thursday, May 21," according to the department's news release.

Gov. JB Pritzker said last week more than 50,000 applications had been filed through the state's new pandemic unemployment assistance system.

"It is working reasonably well," he said of the new portal in his Tuesday daily briefing, calling the new system "a more robust system than the existing one for regular unemployment."

Pritzker said the existing system was "built on a 10-year-old platform not expecting to take the kind of size of applications that have come in for regular unemployment."

Reports of long wait times and an inability to reach employment offices over the phone persist amid the unprecedented inflow of new claims.

"We have many thousands of calls that come in each day, thousands get answered and responded to. And people get processed over the phone as well," Pritzker said in his May 13 briefing.

The state has expanded call center capacity and Pritzker said online applications are the best way to get an application through the system.

"I realize that it is difficult when you can't file, if there's some problem with your filing online, and it requires perhaps an arbitration or some other intervention that it does have a personal discussion with somebody," Pritzker said May 13. "We're working very hard; we've just spun up this outside call center to add on top of the internal IDES capability. And we're getting to them as fast as possible again with an unprecedented number of filings, it is difficult."

IDES said in the news release it has processed 33,729 Pandemic

What COVID-19 means for dinner tables

Farmers struggle with processing plant closures

University of Illinois ACES

Headlines about dairy farms dumping milk and livestock being euthanized are a sharp contrast to empty meat cases.

The novel coronavirus outbreak has disrupted the nation's food supply chain, resulting in increased prices for panicked shoppers and major losses for Illinois farmers.

The usual rules of supply and demand between farmers and consumers have been disrupted by a problem with the middleman: processing plants and slaughterhouses. "Our system is so efficient and streamlined that everything moves at the same flow," says Travis Meteer, a University of Illinois- Extension commercial agriculture educator. "But when you have a kink, all of a sudden, that flow stops."

Processing

Meat processing plants are considered critical infrastructure and have remained open. But with several commercial packing plants in Illinois closed or working at a reduced capacity, thousands of cattle and pigs are waiting to be processed.

Small-scale regional processors are still operating, but most are booked well into fall.

Cases of COVID-19 in the workforce have forced plants to close to follow CDC recommendations for cleaning and inspections, and some staff are simply not reporting for shifts out of fear of getting sick, Meteer said.

"The price of meat is going up, but the price (farmers) are receiving is going down," Meteer said.

The beef cattle industry nationwide is projected to lose $13.6 billion due to COVID-19. Those who can find a buyer are taking losses of $216 to $146 per animal.

Illinois-Extension commercial agriculture educator Teresa Steckler has heard as high as $700.

Production

Livestock managers can use different feeding strategies to hold animals at a certain weight or slow gains until processing plants are ready.

"With packing plants closed, fat steers are sitting in the feedlot with nowhere to go," Steckler said. "So, you have to keep feeding them."

Holding and feeding market-ready animals incurs extra costs producers may not be prepared for.

At Southern Illinois' Dixon Springs Agricultural Center, where Steckler works, recent dry falls and cool, wet springs have reduced the quality of the local hay supply.

"Some of these guys are finding that their supply of feedstuff is dwindling," she said.

And as shoppers' food budgets shrink, they are buying less expensive cuts, such as hamburger over prime cuts, resulting in less profit for producers.

Dale Hadden runs a grain and cattle farm with his family in Jacksonville and serves on the Cass-Morgan County Farm Bureau board.

"There's not a place to market our calves, so we continue to hold them with grass and hay and get them to weights a little heavier than usual," Hadden said.

He's also looking ahead to September when he'll be selling most of his 280-head herd.

"If this doesn't turn around, that's going to have a huge impact on how I generate any income."

Consumption

Dairy: In the U.S., 60 percent of butter goes to restaurants. When schools and restaurants closed to slow the spread of the virus, the sales of food-service dairy products plummeted and there were suddenly too many cows producing too much milk.

Hadden said dairy manufacturing facilities are set up with lines to package milk into jugs for grocery stores, cartons for schools or bags for food service. Dairy has a short window for processing and there are only so many gallons that can be held.

"They're dumping it because the processors don't have demand for those products," Hadden said.

Pork: The Illinois pork industry contributes an estimated $13.8 billion to the state's economy, according to the Illinois Pork Producers Association.

River Ridge, Elizabeth to celebrate Class of 2020

Organizers are inviting River Ridge School District family and friends to join them in celebrating the Class of 2020 in a socially distanced Cats' Caravan on Friday, May 22.

They are asking residents to come out and support the seniors as they drive down the streets of Hanover and Elizabeth.

Banners showcasing the graduates will be hung in Elizabeth on the light poles and on the fence in Hanover. The communities donated the money to purchase banners for both towns.

Seniors will be lined up alphabetically, joined with the police and fire trucks.

The caravan will begin at the Hanover Park District at 6 p.m. (they start lining up at 5:15) and travel through town before heading to Elizabeth, where they will begin at Catlin Street in the Lutheran church parking lot.

Church cancels Gospel Music Night events

The First Presbyterian Church, of Apple River, will be canceling its Gospel Music Night for the rest of this year.

Construction projects on the fast track

$25 million in grants to help local governments

By Rebecca Anzel
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

The Illinois department tasked with the state's economic development launched a program May 12 providing grant funding to local governments for capital projects.

Its aim, said Michael Negron, assistant director of the Department of Commerce and Economic Opportunity, is to return skilled laborers to work on road improvements, building upgrades and other ventures that can begin quickly at a time when communities are facing COVID-19-related economic struggles.

The Fast-Track Public Infrastructure Grants allocate $25 million from the Rebuild Illinois capital plan to "shovel-ready projects," he said, or those that can begin construction within 90 days of receiving funding. Officials will prioritize those improvements in underserved areas.

This link shows where these targeted areas are, which include much of Jo Daviess County and the Freeport area in Stephenson County: www2.illinois.gov/dceo/ExpandRelocate/Incentives/Pages/UnderservedAreas.aspx.

Michael Negron

Each award is worth from $500,000 to $5 million and represents the priority that Gov. JB Pritzker's administration is placing on Illinois' infrastructure, Negron said.

"The key here is we want to get shovel-ready projects off the ground in recognition that when you're investing in infrastructure, you're investing in people — the work creates jobs and improves the business climate," he said. "The priority is adding some stimulus to the economy right now, taking advantage of the construction season and making improvements to infrastructure, which is in constant need of modernizing. That need doesn't go away because of this pandemic."

DCEO announced in March that it would accept applications for such projects until June 30 as part of a larger program worth $50 million. Officials are making half that pot of money more readily available for this new initiative.

The fast-track grants are a product of the department's internal discussions about what it could do quickly," Negron said.

"We knew that there were local governments with a wish list of projects in various stages of readiness," he added. "Once the pandemic started to really have an impact on the economy and the governor issued a stay-at-home order to flatten the curve of infections, we took an urgent look at everything that we had and what creative ways we could use money to get it to people that really need it."

Local governments that cannot have an application ready for this immediate program, for example, can still apply for the remaining $25 million through the end of June.

This initiative is one of several economic aid plans announced by the department to ease the financial effects of the novel coronavirus pandemic.

The Downstate Small Business Stabilization Program, Emergency Hospitality Grants and Emergency Small Business Loan Fund are a few others.

Department officials plan to host online trainings for local governments and other public entities to learn about the fast-track grants.

Illinois providers receive telehealth funding

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services on May 13 awarded $586,159 to seven organizations in Illinois to increase telehealth capabilities in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

These awards are funded through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief and Economic Security (CARES) Act that was signed into law on March 27.

According to a news release, these investments will train students, physicians, nurses, physician assistants, allied health and other high-demand professionals in telehealth.

This will enable these professionals to maximize telehealth for COVID-19 referrals for screening and testing, case management, outpatient care and other essential care during the crisis.

And organizations will be able to maintain primary care services when clinics and medical facilities are not available, especially for COVID-19 positive, quarantined, elderly and other vulnerable populations.

Organizations from Illinois received funding from one or more of these five BHW programs:

- Geriatrics Workforce Enhancement Program
- Area Health Education Centers Program
- Centers of Excellence Program
- Nurse Education, Practice, Quality and Retention – Veteran Nurses in Primary Care Training Program
- Nurse Education, Practice, Quality and Retention – Registered Nurses in Primary Care Training Program

"Telehealth is a vital tool for our providers in delivering critical treatment to populations most seriously impacted by this pandemic," Health Resources and Services Administration Administrator Tom Engels said in the news release. "As we look to build and prepare the future workforce, telehealth has opened up new possibilities to educate and clinically train health providers to connect with patients, when and where they need services."

BE A "PIZZA" OF THE SOLUTION...TO UNDERAGE DRINKING

Use this information to help guide your conversation as you build your pizza together.
Each ingredient represents a fact about underage drinking!

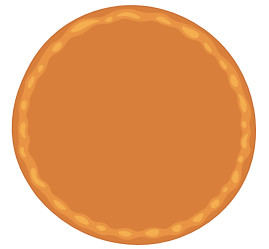

Don't forget to snap a photo of you and the family and post on Facebook using the hashtag #JDCpizza.

STEP 01

CRUST

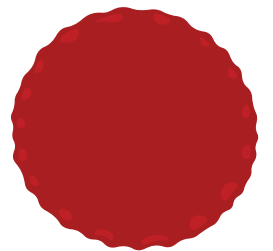

Your family is the solid base - Parents, your actions matter. Talk to your teen about underage drinking. Let them know that drinking is NOT a right-of-passage into adulthood. Education starts at home and is a key factor in creating awareness. Let your teen know where you stand on underage drinking.

STEP 02

SAUCE

Why your child might start drinking - Some children may experiment with alcohol as they approach their teen years and begin to experience many emotional and physical changes. Affirm that your teen has the support to address these challenges (such as stress, peer pressure and transitions) as they may come their way.

TOPPINGS

The people who help us achieve our best along the way - Let your teen know where you stand on underage drinking. Help your teen learn how to say "no" to peers.

CHEESE

Our sprinkling of caring (when things heat up we melt together) - Make a difference, be part of our community effort to spread awareness about underage drinking. As a community, we can work together to monitor activities and decrease access to alcohol. Parents, speak up! Let other parents know that it is NOT ok for your teen to drink alcohol, not even at their house.

STEP 05
