American Red Cross needs blood donors

Donation sites following safety guidelines

The American Red Cross needs people of all races and ethnicities to give blood to help ensure a diverse blood supply.

“While the vast majority of people have types A, B, O or AB blood, some blood types are unique to certain racial and ethnic groups, so a diverse blood supply is important to meeting the medical needs of a diverse patient population,” according to a Red Cross news release.

A blood drive is set for 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 1, at St. Mary’s School, 701 Illinois Route 35, East Dubuque. To make an appointment to give blood, go online to redcross-blood.org, call 800-733-2767 or download the Red Cross blood donor app.

The Red Cross is testing blood, platelet and plasma donations for COVID-19 antibodies. The test may indicate if the donor’s immune system has produced antibodies to this coronavirus, regardless of whether they developed symptoms.

The Red Cross antibody tests will be helpful to identify individuals who have COVID-19 antibodies and may qualify to be convalescent plasma donors.

“Convalescent plasma is a type of blood donation collected from COVID-19 survivors that have antibodies that may help patients who are actively fighting the virus,” the release said.

Donors can expect to receive the results of their antibody test within seven to 10 days through the blood donor app or the donor portal at redcrossblood.org.

The Red Cross is not testing donors to diagnose illness, referred to as a diagnostic test.

To protect the health and safety of

AMERICAN RED CROSS The Scoop Today

The American Red Cross is seeking blood donors of all blood types. Temperature checks, social distancing standards and face-mask requirements have been put in place at blood drive locations.

Red Cross staff and donors, people who do not feel well or believe they may be ill with COVID-19 should postpone donating blood.

“Each Red Cross blood drive and donation center follows the highest standards of safety and infection control, and additional precautions — including temperature checks, social distancing and face coverings for donors and staff — have been implemented to help protect the health of all those in attendance,” the release said.

Donors are required to wear a face covering or mask while at a blood drive location.

Blood drives also are essential to help ensure that blood is available for patients this winter. To learn more and sign up to host a blood drive this fall or winter, go online to redcross-blood.org/hostadrive.

Voters are encouraged to vote early, either in person or by mail, for the November election.

Think ahead for fall voting

Due to COVID-19, Jo Daviess County Clerk and Recorder Angela Kaiser is encouraging all voters to cast a ballot prior to the Nov. 3 Election Day by mail or during early voting.

“Voting by mail is an easy option for voters, and you can request a vote-by-mail ballot through email, mail, online or in person,” Kaiser said in a news release.

Any voter validly registered in Jo Daviess County may vote early, after showing proper identification. Early voting begins Sept. 24 and continues through Nov. 2.

If you are not currently a registered voter or need to make a change of name or address, you may do so through Oct. 6, at the county clerk’s office or with a deputy registrar. Online registration is available through Oct. 18 at ova.elections.il.gov and will require the upload of identification documents.

State law does allow for grace period registration and voting. Grace period registration and change of address requires two forms of ID, one showing your current address, and takes place in-person at the county clerk’s office, 330 N. Bench St., Galena.

Grace period voting runs from Oct. 7 through Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 3, in the county clerk’s office.

Early voting hours are currently 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays at the county clerk’s office. Beginning Oct. 19, the early voting hours will expand to 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The clerk’s office will be open for Saturday voting from 9 a.m. to noon on Oct. 24 and Oct. 31.

For voters who return vote-by-mail applications early, ballots will be mailed out starting on Sept. 24. Oct. 29 is the last day for the county clerk to mail a ballot.

Any early or grace period vote cast at the county clerk’s office is final and the voter is not eligible to vote at the polls on Election Day.

For more information about early voting, voting by mail or grace period voting, call the clerk’s office at 815-777-0161.

Slices of life

Don't let one Karen ruin the whole lot

(Dedicated to all the innocent Karens in the world)

None of us chooses our own name (at least not the original one.) Let that sit for a moment. You might be John or Steve or Julie or Lisa, but not by choice. Most likely your name came by the choice of your parents.

By JILL PERTLER
Contributor

Imagine that another Steve or Julie did something publicly embarrassing. What if John or Lisa acted in a manner that caused others to shake their heads in disbelief and mumble, "Man, what were they thinking?"

And then, ponder Karen. Poor, poor Karen. (Not the original manager-seeking one, but those who just happen to have that same name.)

I counted and I've known an estimated 12 Karens during my lifetime. An even dozen — by and large they were an agreeable lot. Not condescending. Not complainers. Not unkind. Not entitled. Not demanding. Not unreasonable. None of those things.

The Karens I know are teachers, nurses and social workers, to name a few. They are helpers. They give more than they receive.

And none of them, to my knowledge, has ever asked to speak to a manager.

But people are ruthless, especially when anonymous and online. That's why Karens are taking a beating — on every social media platform capable of posting a meme. Because memes speak the truth. We all know that. (Duh.)

How many jokes can be made about wanting to speak to a manager?

In the words of Buzz Lightyear, "To infinity and beyond." That is reality for all of our Karens (and each of us has a few, if we don't carry the name ourselves.)

Currently, that is their legacy. A legacy they didn't choose. A legacy, quite frankly, they don't deserve. At least not 99.95 percent of them.

The caring Karens I've known have been just that. How many other first names can you think of that sound so close to caring or kindness? Karen fits that bill as do the bulk of Karens in my life.

Yet the name, for many, has been dragged through the mud — and poopy, self-righteous mud at that. It warrants its own Wikipedia page. It has become a caricature, created to make a point, but resulting in pulling some innocents along the route along the way.

Karen (and you know who you are) I apologize for the one Karen who wrecked it for you all. Life is unfair. And we all deal with unfairness, but no one wants their very name to be plowed through a cesspool of poopy mud.

Never mind the other Karen — the guilty one. There are thousands and thousands of you who are not doers of the transgression so described in countless memes and on Wikipedia.

Hold your head high. Speak your name proudly. Stereotypes are for the desperate. For the ignorant. For the belittlers. For all the things none of us aspire to be.

My name is Karen. I am Karen. It's Karen with a "K." That's you. And there are scores of us, not named Karen, who will stand beside you, proudly.

In the meantime, I'll do my best to not wreck it for the other Jills out there. We can all do our part.

During these tough times, who needs to add to anyone's load and burdens? Please let's be kind — to the Karens we love and everyone else, no matter their name. It's what each of us needs. Truly.

Governor's political games put Illinoisans at disadvantage for unemployment benefits

Unemployed Illinoisans are at a disadvantage when it comes to federal unemployment dollars, and they have Gov. JB Pritzker to blame for it simply because he decided to play politics with the federal government rather than secure funds through the Lost Wages Act. This new federal program provides an additional $300 a week to those who have experienced a COVID-19 related job loss.

There is a total of up to $44 billion available in the program, which is up for grabs by the states on a first-come-first-served basis.

However, amid the bickering, the governor's administration failed to promptly apply to the program and as a result, Illinois was only approved recently. Not only did the governor's procrastination put Illinoisans behind those in other states who are receiving payments, but they are now left to also wait for an undetermined amount of time on the troubled Illinois Department of Employment Security to issue these payments. Even then, it is unknown how long these payments will last.

For someone who often says he is looking out for our most vulnerable, this is quite the contradiction.

While in the midst of the governor's feud with the federal government over this program, here in Illinois we continue to see our own unemployment system in shambles and unable to meet our constituents' needs.

We are six months into the pandemic and "call backs" at the Illinois Department of Employment Security either aren't happening or take several weeks, staff isn't properly trained to

FROM THE KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

My grandmother used to say that you should be careful what you wish for. We were asking for rain, and boy did we get it. It was a little late for the crops, but none of us had to water flowers for days. It also brought us some cooler weather; however, it is going to be warmer this week. The recipes this week feature some of the end of the garden vegetables, a little southwestern, a little Italian, and a little apple.

Party Queso Dip

This appetizer is a cheesy one with a little kick. You can use spicy sausage to give it a little more kick. You can serve it out of a cast iron fry pan; however, I like to put it in the crock-pot to keep it warm for a party.

3 links of pork sausage, casings removed
1 lb. Velveeta cubed

1 C. shredded Monterey Jack cheese
½ C. whole milk, divided
1 can (10 oz.) tomatoes with green chilies
¼ t. garlic powder
¼ t. salt
Tortilla chips
Chopped fresh cilantro, minced bell pepper

In a 10-inch skillet, cook sausage over medium heat until browned and crumbly, eight to 19 minutes. Drain well and wipe the skillet clean. Add Velveeta, Monterey Jack, and ¼ C. milk to skillet; cook over medium-low heat, stirring frequently, until melted, about seven minutes. Stir in sausage, tomatoes, garlic powder and salt; cook, stirring frequently until smooth, about six minutes. Stir in remaining ¼ C. milk to thin, if necessary. Add to crock pot and heat on low. Garnish with cilantro. Serve with tortilla chips or red, yellow or orange bell peppers cut into strips.

End of Garden Relish

This relish can be used as a side with meat, on top of vegetables, and as a dressing for a salad. It uses a lot of vegetables that are coming to the end of their life. The vegetables don't have to look good, because you are finely chopping and shredding. They are canned so they can last all winter.

7 large cucumbers, shredded

3 large onions, finely chopped
3 C. shredded carrots
2 medium sweet red peppers, finely chopped
5 T. salt
5 C. sugar
3 C. white vinegar
1 T. celery seed
1 T. mustard seed

Toss first five ingredients; let stand for three hours. Drain; squeeze and blot dry with paper towels. In a Dutch oven, mix sugar, vinegar, celery seed and mustard seed; bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer, uncovered for five minutes. Add vegetables and bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer uncovered for 20 minutes.

Ladle hot mixture into hot 1-pint jars, leaving ½-inch headspace. Remove air bubbles and adjust headspace if necessary by adding hot mixture. Wipe rims. Center lids on jars; screw on bands until fingertip tight. Place jars into canner with simmering water, ensuring that they are completely covered with water. Bring to a boil; process for 20 minutes. Remove jars and cool.

Nacho Pie

Sometimes southwestern recipes are complicated and take a long time to make. This easy pie is a quick way to get supper on the table fast.

4 C. nacho flavored tortilla chips
1 lb. ground beef, cooked and drained
½ C. chopped onion, cooked
16 oz. chili beans
8 oz. can tomato sauce
1 C. mozzarella cheese, shredded
Crush nacho chips; place in a greased 9-inch pie plate. Mix onion and ground beef together and spoon over chips. Top with chili beans and tomato sauce. Sprinkle with mozzarella. Bake at 375 for seven to eight minutes.

Creamy Ravioli with Bacon and Peas

This recipe is also a quick one because you use the refrigerated ravioli. It is a great one to make when you are in a hurry. I cook my bacon in the oven and then freeze the pieces, so all you have to do is take them out to use in soups and casseroles. Usually if I am going to make slices to eat in a BLT or with eggs for breakfast that is when I bake the bacon to use later.

5 slices bacon, cut into ½ inch slices
2 C. chicken broth
1 pkg. refrigerated cheese ravioli, uncooked
1 C. garlic and herb cream cheese (recipe below)
1 C. shredded Italian Five Cheese blend
¼ C. frozen peas, thawed
1 T. chopped chives

Cook and stir bacon in a large skillet until crisp. Remove bacon from skillet with slotted spoon, drain on paper towels. Reserve for later use. Discard drippings. Wipe skillet clean. Add chicken broth and ravioli and stir. Bring to boil and cover. Simmer on medium-low heat four minutes or until ravioli are tender. Add cream cheese spread, shredded cheese and peas; cook three to four minutes or until cream cheese is completely melted and mixture is heated through, stirring frequently. Remove from heat. Top with chives and reserved bacon.

Garlic and Herb Cream Cheese

8 oz. cream cheese softened
2 T. finely grated Parmesan cheese
2 garlic cloves, smashed
1½ t. dried oregano
1 t. dried parsley
¼ t. dried dill
¼ t. dried basil

Mix all the ingredients with a mixer. Place on plastic wrap and wrap up for the refrigerator. You can place it in a dish and sprinkle fresh chives on it to use as a spread for vegetables and crackers.

Double-Pecan Caramel Brownies

If you are looking for a wonderfully rich dessert, this brownie recipe is really a death-by-chocolate eating experience. On one of my cooking shows, the cook always uses coffee granules in anything chocolate she makes. She thinks the coffee granules enhance the flavor of chocolate.

2 pkg. (12 oz. each) semisweet chocolate chips, divided
1 C. unsalted butter
¾ C. sugar
½ C. firmly packed brown sugar
4 eggs
2 T. instant coffee granules
1 T. vanilla

¾ C. flour
¾ C. finely ground pecans
½ t. salt
2½ C. pecan halves, divided

Caramel Sauce

1½ C. sugar
½ C. water
½ C. heavy whipping cream
2 T. unsalted butter, softened
¼ t. salt

Preheat the oven to 350. Spray 9-by-13 pan with baking spray with flour. In a large microwave-safe bowl, heat one package chocolate chips and butter on high in 30-second intervals, stirring between each, until melted and smooth (about two minutes). Let cool for 10 minutes.

Whisk sugars, eggs, coffee and vanilla into chocolate mixture. Stir in flour and ground pecans and salt until combined. Spread half of batter into prepared pan. Sprinkle with ¼ C. pecans and half of remaining chocolate chips. Spoon remaining batter onto chocolate chips. Top with remaining ¼ C. pecans and remaining chocolate chips. Bake until set, 25 to 30 minutes. Let cool completely in pan on a wire rack. Cut into bars; serve with caramel sauce.

Sauce: In a medium saucepan, stir together sugar and ½ C. water just until moistened; bring to a boil over medium-high heat. Cook, without stirring, until mixture turns amber in color, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in cream, butter and salt until smooth. Let cool until slightly thickened, about 10 minutes. Serve with bars. Refrigerate bars up to three days and sauce up to two weeks.

Rustic Caramel Apple Tart

One of my friends loves to make fruit tarts. She thinks it is way easier than making a pie. These generally are really rough looking but taste just wonderful. If you are wondering what kind of apples are great for baking, use Cortland (I love these apples, but they are hard to find around here), Granny Smith, and Jonathan. I love the Mrs. Richardson's Caramel Ice Cream topping.

2/3 C. flour
1 T. sugar
1/8 t. salt
¼ C. cold butter, cubed
6½ t. cold water
1/8 t. vanilla

Filling
1½ C. chopped peeled tart apples

handle the issues or the calls that do get answered are unproductive and solve little to nothing, leaving families wondering how to pay the bills and put food on the table.

Despite months of pleas from legislators all around the state, things have yet to improve and our constituents are fed up. The lack of response by the administration is unacceptable.

While all these issues within the Illinois Department of Employment Security remain here in Illinois, it seems quite hypocritical for the governor to poke holes and critique the federal government when his own department continues to operate in a state of dysfunction. Illinois hasn't even been able to properly handle getting the first round of federal benefits out of the door, yet the governor has the audacity to complain about the way the federal government is providing the second round of benefits.

The irony of it all may seem comical, but we can assure you it isn't for the thousands of Illinoisans who are relying on these benefits to make it from day to day.

Enough of the political games, governor. Real lives are being impacted.

Dual credit offers advantage for high school students

More than 20 high schools, CareerTEC and the CTE Academy within the Highland Community College District are participating in the college's dual credit program.

Dual credit is an instructional arrangement where an academically qualified high school student can enroll in a college-level course, and upon successful completion, earn both high school and college credit.

"This allows the high school student the opportunity to explore various academic areas and at the same time introduces them to the rigors and expectations of college-level coursework," according to college news release.

In total, 155 Highland classes are offered to high school students, who have accumulated 4,600 credit hours through the dual credit program.

Sam Schaible, coordinator of outreach and dual credit at Highland Community College, works with area students from the participating schools to help guide them to academic success.

"The opportunity to earn college credit while still in high school allows for students to finish a degree or certificate sooner while saving money," Schaible said in the release. "Dual credit marks the beginning of a college transcript for many area high school students."

To see a complete list of participating schools, go to highland.edu/dual-credit.

For more information, contact Schaible at sam.schaible@highland.edu or 815-599-3512.

Topping

1 t. sugar
¼ t. cinnamon
1 egg
1 T. water
2 T. caramel cream topping, warmed

In a large bowl, combine flour, sugar, and salt; cut in the butter until crumbly. Gradually add water and vanilla, tossing with a fork until dough forms a ball. Cover and refrigerate until easy to handle, about 20 minutes.

Preheat oven to 400. On a lightly floured surface, roll the dough into a 10-inch circle. Transfer to a parchment-lined baking sheet. Combine the filling ingredients, spoon over the crust to within 2 inches of edges. Fold up edges of crust over filling, leaving the center uncovered. Combine the sugar and cinnamon, sprinkle over filling. Whisk egg and water; brush over crust. Bake until crust is golden and the filling is bubbly, 25 to 30 minutes. Using parchment, slide tart onto a wire rack. Drizzle tart with the caramel topping. Serve warm.

Final thoughts

As I write this column, it is dark and dreary outside. It has been like this for a lot of days. I am dreading going out because I will probably get wet. I guess I shouldn't really complain because for the most part we have had a lot of sunny days. This past week has been typical fall weather, and that is what we are in.

I am grateful we haven't had storms or fires; northwest Illinois isn't too bad a place to live right now. This next week we are to be getting some warmer weather. I am sure those kids in school are grateful for the cooler weather. I remember what it was like to have beastly hot days.

I made some creamy chicken wild rice soup yesterday, and it was a great meal during this cold and rainy weather. It makes a ton, so I plan on sharing. The cooler weather does seem to make you want to do some things. I hope you have a great week. Stay healthy and safe.

If you have found any fall recipes you think we would like, contact us in person, by mail at From Lena's Kitchens, Shopper's Guide, 213 S. Center St., Lena, IL 61048 or email us at scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.

New food science course measures up

Students in the food science class at Stockton High School participate in the "rainbow" lab activity to help them become familiar with measuring equipment and reading measurements. Students also have been learning about kitchen cleaning procedures and planting vegetables that they will be preparing later in the semester. The food science class is new this year, thanks to the purchase of new equipment made possible by the school district and Stockton FFA alumni.

To help support Stockton FFA Alumni, residents are invited to the group's drive-thru pork chop dinner from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 23, in the front of the Stockton High School parking lot. Tickets should be reserved in advance by contacting Hannah Brudi at hannah.brudi@stocktonschools.com or an FFA alumni member.

30 counties at warning level; state COVID-19 positivity rate at 3.9 percent

By Jerry Nowicki
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

The state reported another 2,145 cases of COVID-19 on Friday, Sept. 11, as 56,661 tests were completed over the previous 24 hours, increasing the seven-day average positivity rate to 3.9 percent.

The Illinois Department of Public Health also announced another 32 virus-related deaths in people in their 50s through 90s. That brought the total number of deaths to 8,273 since the pandemic first reached Illinois, while there have been 257,788 confirmed cases among more than 4.6 million tests completed. The recovery rate is 96 percent for those 42 days removed from a positive diagnosis, according to IDPH.

There were 30 counties at a warning level for COVID-19 spread as of Sept. 11, according to IDPH, and two areas that have seen increased restrictions due to COVID-19 saw their positivity rate remain roughly flat.

Region 7, including Will and Kankakee counties, has a 7.5 percent positivity rate as of Sept. 8, which was level from the day prior. In Region 4, including the Metro East area on the Missouri border, the positivity rate was 10 percent.

The regions' positivity rates must decrease to 6.5 percent before added mitigations — which include closing of bars and restaurants to indoor eating and drinking — can be rolled back.

Gov. JB Pritzker, at an unrelated news conference Sept. 11, took questions on mitigation efforts and their potential impact on mental health, drug overdoses and suicide.

"There's a mental health component to that as well. Not to mention that we've also stepped up our efforts in providing social services, human services to people," Pritzker said of the state's mitigation efforts at the Chicago news conference.

On Sept. 10, IDPH Director Dr. Ngozi Ezike said in a news conference there was "no conclusive data" that suicide rates have increased due to COVID-19, but she noted, "issues such as job loss, financial strain and social isolation are all risk factors for suicide."

She urged anyone in an emergency situation regarding suicide to call the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline at 1-800-273-8255.

"We're looking at every aspect of how this is affecting our families and trying to deal with those," Pritzker said Friday. "There are people who might say, 'Well why don't you just lift the mitigations because that will lift some mental health challenges that people are having' — again, you're trying to balance here the health care that has been so damaged by this pandemic, and clearly the consequences from people not being able to do what they normally do in their lives."

The governor once again blamed a lack of a national strategy for making it difficult for states to mitigate spread.

He said Iowa, which had a positivity rate near 14 percent, and Missouri, with a rate near 12 percent, are among neighboring states with much higher positivity rates.

"They're on our border and people are crossing that border all the time, both ways, and I'm not telling people that they shouldn't do that, I'm just saying that has an impact on what we do as a state. But if you had a federal focus on a strategy for all of the states, you wouldn't have this problem of relatively lower positivity rate in the state of Illinois and then having to deal with all the much higher positivity rates in all the surrounding states."

While a vaccine could "change the trajectory," according to the governor, he said the economy will be unable to recover without a national strategy.

Hospitalizations for the virus in Illinois remain slightly above their pandemic lows. At the end of Thursday, there were 1,619 persons reported hospitalized with COVID-19, leaving about 37 percent of beds available statewide.

There were 359 intensive care unit beds in use by COVID-19 patients while roughly 42 percent were available. COVID-19 patients were using 155 ventilators, with roughly 78 percent available.

The counties at a warning level include Bond, Bureau, Cass, Clinton, Coles, Crawford, DeKalb, DuPage, Effingham, Greene, Grundy, Hancock, Henderson, Jackson, Jasper, Jersey, Lawrence, Madison, McLean, Monroe, Morgan, Pulaski, Schuyler, Shelby, Stark, St. Clair, Tazewell, Vermilion, Washington and Williamson.

A county enters a warning level when two or more risk indicators measuring the amount of COVID-19 increase, including cases per 100,000 residents, hospital bed usage, test positivity rate and number of deaths among others.

No need to get out of the car or go out of your way — just drive through for your flu shot!

This year, it's more important than ever to get a flu shot. The COVID-19 pandemic has been pushing our country's healthcare system to its limits since March, and shows no real signs of stopping. Add the effects of a typical flu season and you get some pretty scary numbers that could overwhelm hospitals and healthcare systems across the country.

Adults under 65 will receive a $30 quadrivalent vaccine and those 65 and over can get a $65 high-dose vaccine. Pay by cash, check, or credit card and you can use your receipt for reimbursement from your insurance carrier. If you are covered by Medicare Part B or a Medicare HMO accepted by FHN, there will be no out-of-pocket charge (please present Medicare card*). Of course, you can still get a flu shot from your provider (cost may vary from drive-thru prices).

- If your last flu shot was before June 1 2020, you need a new one for the coming flu season.
- Kids 18 and under cannot be vaccinated at the drive-through clinics. FHN provider offices will have appropriate dosages for children.
- All persons in vehicles attending a clinic must arrive wearing a face covering; those receiving a shot will be given a 2-ply reusable fabric FHN mask after their shot for future use.

* Persons covered by a Medicare HMO accepted by FHN MUST present the Medicare HMO card instead of the Medicare card for billing. No other insurance coverage can be accepted at the drive-through clinics.

We're here, for you.

in cases in those counties are college parties, weddings, large gatherings, bars and clubs, long-term care facilities and other congregate settings, travel to neighboring states, and spread among members of the same household who are not isolating at home, according to IDPH.

"In some counties, local law enforcement and states' attorneys are not enforcing important mitigation measures like social distancing and the wearing of face coverings," IDPH said in a news release. "Additionally, some people refuse to participate in contact tracing and are not providing information on close contacts or answering the phone."

Disaster prep is key for families affected by Alzheimer's

September is National Preparedness Month and officials at the Alzheimer's Association Illinois Chapter are offering suggestions for preparing and dealing with emergencies such as natural disasters.

"Emergency situations, such as tornadoes, hurricanes, heat waves and blizzards, can significantly impact everyone's safety, but they can be especially upsetting and confusing for individuals living with Alzheimer's and other dementias," according to a news release from the association.

Plan ahead

- Find out residential facility disaster plans. If the individual lives in a residential facility, learn about its disaster/evacuation plans. Find out who is responsible for evacuating the person in the event of an emergency.

Take specific needs into account. For example, if the person with Alzheimer's or other dementia uses a walker or portable oxygen, be sure your emergency evacuation plans accommodate these needs.

- Identify those who will help you. Are there friends or relatives you can stay with if you have to evacuate? If the person receives routine health procedures at a clinic or with home health, who are the backup service providers? Have contact information easily accessible.

- Learn how to get prescriptions and care. Purchase extra medication to have a supply on hand. Download Medicare's Getting Care and Drugs in a Disaster Area. It explains how Medicare beneficiaries have special rights to get out-of-network care if they live in an area where the president has declared a disaster.

- Make sure medical records are accessible. It's important to have access to health records, especially in the case of an emergency. There are now many options for storing personal health records, including online services that make it possible to access records from anywhere in the world. Regardless of how you choose to store personal health information, make sure there are people other than the primary caregiver who have access to or copies of the patient's medical history, medications, physician information and family contacts.

Prepare an emergency kit

Consider preparing an emergency kit in a watertight container and store it in an easily accessible location. Use waterproof bags to protect medications and paperwork and, if possible, store a backup of important documents in a secure electronic file. Items you may wish to include are:

- Copies of important documents, such as legal papers, a list of medications and dosages, insurance information and Social Security cards
- Supplies of medication (or, at least, a list of medications and dosages)
- Several sets of extra clothing
- Incontinence products
- A spare pair of eyeglasses, if needed
- A recent picture of the patient

- Physician's name, address and phone numbers, including cell phone

- Bottled water
- Flashlight with extra batteries
- Favorite items or foods
- The phone number for the Alzheimer's association 24/7 Helpline: 800-272-3900

During an evacuation

Even in the early stage of Alzheimer's, changes in routine, traveling and new environments may increase the risk for wandering and agitation. Stay alert for unexpected reactions that may result from these changes.

When appropriate, share the diagnosis with others, such as hotel or shelter staff, family members and airline attendants, so they can better assist.

Try to stay together or with a group; it only takes a moment to get lost. Do not leave the person with dementia alone.

Do your best to remain calm, as this may help establish a positive tone.

Help is available

The American Red Cross website offers information about preparing for an emergency and where to find shelter and supplies in a disaster.

Ready.gov has information about what to do before, during and after a disaster.

The Alzheimer's Association 24/7 Helpline is available around the clock, 365 days a year at 800-272-3900.

Keep your dentist in the know about all medications, supplements

In addition to the hygienists, dental assistants and office staff, your dentist requires one more team member in order to assure quality, safe dental care. That person is you.

Your dentist will take a complete dental and medical history as part of your patient record. This should be updated at each appointment. You need to be an active partner in your health care by keeping him or her informed about any changes in your health status, medications, supplements or allergies that have developed since your last visit.

Do not decide on your own that any medical information does not relate to your dental health care. The fact is everything that you put in your body, from vitamins to herbal medications to prescription drugs, causes a specific reaction. The problem is this desired reaction can interfere with medications your dentist may administer or prescribe and cause an undesirable reaction. If your dentist does not know what medications or supplements you are taking, he or she will not know how to protect you from these interactions. These reactions can be serious, even life threatening. They are also avoidable.

For example, you may not be aware that popular supplements like ginkgo biloba and vitamin E can affect blood clotting. If you were to take these along with aspirin or ibuprofen, which acts as a blood thinner, the effect is compounded, and your blood may not clot readily. Some anti-anxiety supplements, such as St. John's Wort or Kava Kava, may seem innocuous, but they can enhance, or cause a stronger effect, of the anesthesia that you might receive during a dental procedure. Some herbal supplements and diet pills have a diuretic effect. Without adequate saliva to neutralize plaque acids, tooth decay can increase dramatically. If taken in conjunction with prescription diuretics, the combined effect can escalate from dehydration and loss of potassium in the body to an altered heart rhythm. In this state dental anesthesia could be deadly.

It is also imperative that you are forthright with your dentist about whether you are taking birth control pills or Viagra. One of the most common side effects of oral contraceptives is gingivitis and some medications may interfere with the birth control efficacy, so alternative methods of birth control may be temporarily required. There are several concerns with Viagra. Should a medical emergency involving chest pain occur, the treatment changes dramatically if the patient is taking Viagra. When chest pain is thought to be from a heart attack, emergency personnel will generally treat it with nitrates, such as nitroglycerin. Patients who are taking Viagra must not be given nitrates. Viagra has vasodilating effects and if these properties are compounded by the vasodilating effects of the nitrates, the result could be a severe drop in blood pressure, which could cause a heart attack or cardiac arrest. If your dentist prescribes antibiotics, he will need to work closely with your physician to prescribe a safe antibiotic that will not alter your Viagra blood levels.

Some medical conditions or medications require that your dentist avoid certain anesthetics.

It is imperative that you give a complete medical history. This information must legally be kept confidential and withholding information could lead to serious complications.
