Apples are just the beginning

Family-owned orchards grow market for local products

By Katelyn Black
CORRESPONDENT

As colder weather sets in, orchards all around the area are kicking their fall festivities into full swing.

Those festivities are getting underway for the first time at Orchard Landing in Hanover, where there's a new on-farm apple market.

According to Karen Greiner, one of the owners at Orchard Landing, the dream for the orchard itself started back in 2015. That year, Karen, her husband, Nathan, and their two sons began planting the first 400 trees and sold the resulting apples at a roadside stand in the corner of their airplane hangar.

Now, 1,000 trees later, that roadside stand is about to become the Apple Barn.

The barn will include a retail store, cider press and kitchen for making cider donuts. On top of selling apples and baked goods, Orchard Landing has honey made on-site, jams, jellies, pumpkins and a landing strip right on-site that is often used by local pilots.

For Greiner, owning the orchard with her family has been nothing short of rewarding.

"It's very rewarding to grow food for yourself and others. It has also been very enjoyable working as a family over the years," she said. "We have taught our sons a lot about hard work, and we have all learned about apple farming along the way."

"Our repeat customers also make it rewarding. It supports the whole idea that we are providing something that people want and enjoy when they come back every year or every weekend."

The grand opening for the Apple Barn is set for Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 10 and Oct. 11. The Greiner family is asking that everyone wear masks in the store and practice social distancing.

Not too far from Orchard Landing is Dittmar Farms & Orchard in Elizabeth.

1854 and ran as a dairy farm until the mid-1990s. Now, the family still farms, but they're focused on growing things like field corn, alfalfa, pumpkins and apples.

The Dittmar family officially opened their pumpkin patch in 2014, and the orchard followed a few years later.

Unfortunately, according to the Dittmar Farms & Orchard website, all the apples grown for this year have been picked already. They plan to grow more next season to meet the increasing demand.

Still, there are lots of other things for visitors to enjoy, such as homemade baked goods, the pumpkin patch and the new Arrowhead Treehouse.

This tree house can be rented out by up to six people. It includes amenities such as heat and air conditioning, water and Wi-Fi. According to the Dittmar Farms & Orchard website, the tree house is the perfect spot for families to enjoy the land in a safe and isolated way.

And for Dittmar Farms & Orchard President Michael Dittmar, getting to show off the beauty of the land surrounding his orchard is the most rewarding part.

Positive test rates spur changes for bars, restaurants, gatherings

COVID-19 mitigation measures are back in effect for the nine-county region including Jo Daviess and Stephenson counties after a seven-day infection positivity rate of 8 percent or above for three consecutive days.

Officials from the Illinois Department of Public Health noted the resurgence in a Sept. 29 announcement and the increased restrictions went into effect Oct. 3.

The increased mitigation means that bars and restaurants are not allowed to offer indoor service. Establishments can offer outdoor service only, and only until 11 p.m.

Social events are limited to 25 people or 25 percent of overall room capacity.

Party bus operations must cease, and gaming establishments must close at 11 p.m., and are limited to 25 percent capacity.

These mitigations do not currently apply to schools.

"The concerning uptick in Region 1's positivity — jumping more than two percentage points in two weeks even as the majority of Illinois continues to see downward trends — demands increased efforts to stop the spread in our northwestern counties," Gov. JB Pritzker said in a news release.

Elizabeth undergoes sewer, water improvements

Village also looks to add splash pad in Terrapin Park

By Tony Carton
CORRESPONDENT

The village of Elizabeth has recently received a series of loans and grants that will allow continued growth and safety for its residents. Most notably, a $98,000 loan and a $136,000 grant toward construction of a new sewer main, lining and utility hole covers will bring the village into future compliance with state health and safety requirements.

"Ninety-five percent of the village sewer system goes through a 100-year-old 6-foot by 6-foot mine-shaft underneath Highway 20," Elizabeth Mayor Michael Dittmar said. "It is 90 feet down and inside that mine shaft is an old clay tube."

Two or three years ago, folks started noticing when heavy trucks drove on Locust Street there were sinkholes all in a straight line.

"What we think happened is that that cave that was mined a hundred years ago is starting to collapse," Dittmar said. "Well, it just takes one rock falling through a sinkhole to break that hundred-year-old clay tile pipe."

He said you can actually go through the tunnel.

"Several people here in town have gone in, but I wouldn't go through it," Dittmar said. "You have to wear a gas mask because of the sewer gas."

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

If you were like me last weekend, you had to make a decision of what to try to save and what was going to fade away to the large compost pit in the sky. I really didn't save much. I have two beautiful hibiscus that someone can adopt if they want to. I guess that the frost really propels us into fall. Our fall cooking has begun in earnest.

Watermelon Rind and Cucumber Relish

Some of the best relish is made at the end of the growing season. This relish uses the throwaway part of a watermelon and the last of the pickling cucumbers. Enjoy this relish that can be used as a condiment for most meats and as a topping for vegetables.

- 1½ C. watermelon rind, peeled and cubed
 - 1 lb. pickling cucumber, peeled, seeded and chopped
 - 1½ C. apple cider vinegar
 - 1½ C. sugar divided
 - ½ C. distilled water
 - 2 fresh bay leaves
 - 2½ t. dry mustard
 - 1½ t. ground ginger
 - 1 t. ground coriander
 - ½ t. salt
 - ¼ t. turmeric
 - 1½ t. powdered pectin (Sure-Jell)
- In the work bowl of a food processor, pulse watermelon rind until finely chopped. Remove rind. Repeat procedure with cucumber. In a large stockpot, bring vinegar, 1¼ C. sugar, ½ C. distilled water and bay leaves to a boil over medium heat. Add watermelon rind. Stir in dry mustard, ginger, coriander, and salt; cook until rind is mostly tender, about 20 minutes. Add cucumber and turmeric; cook for 10 minutes.

In a small bowl, whisk together pectin and remaining ¼ C. sugar. Stir pectin mixture into relish, and cook for one minute. Remove from heat. Transfer relish to 5 small sterilized glass jars, leaving ½ inch of space from top of jars. Wipe rims with a clean cloth and secure lids and bands. Let jars cool to room temperature; refrigerate for up to three months.

Roasted Veggie Stuffed Potatoes

If you are looking at a different way to top plain baked potatoes, this tasty vegetable topping makes for a whole meal. You can quickly assemble it, but it does require some baking time. It is a great vegetarian recipe. I suppose you could substitute some other vegetables for the squash and peppers.

- 4 baking potatoes (about 6 oz. each)
 - ½ of a yellow squash or medium zucchini, cut into ¾ inch pieces
 - ½ medium red pepper, cut into ¾ inch pieces
 - ½ medium onion, cut into ½ inch wedges
 - 1 t. oil
 - ½ t. dried oregano, crushed
 - Dash of salt
 - Dash of pepper
 - ¼ C. sour cream
 - ¼ C. crumbled feta cheese
 - 2 T. pine nuts, toasted
- Scrub potatoes and pat dry. Prick each with a fork and wrap in foil. Place potatoes in 4 qt. slow cooker. Cover and cook on low for four hours or on high for two hours.

In a medium bowl, combine the squash, peppers, onion, olive oil, oregano, salt and pepper. Transfer to a piece of heavy foil. Bring up two opposite edges of foil; seal with a double fold. Fold in remaining ends to completely enclose, leaving space for steam to build. Add to slow cooker. Cover and cook on low for four hours or on high for two hours.

Unwrap potatoes and cut in half lengthwise, cutting to but not through the bottoms. Fluff potatoes with a fork. Carefully open vegetable packet to release steam. Top potatoes with sour cream and vegetables and sprinkle with cheese and pine nuts.

Slow Cooker Sesame Chicken

You can put this meal together very easily in the morning and pull supper together quickly after work. I think I have mentioned before that I always use low-sodium soy sauce. Enjoy this tasty chicken slow cooker recipe.

- 1½ lb. boneless, skinless chicken breasts, cut into ¾ inch pieces
- ½ C. honey
- ¼ C. chopped onion
- ¼ C. soy sauce
- 1 T. tomato paste or 2 T. ketchup
- 4 t. cornstarch
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- ½ t. crushed red pepper
- 2 C. water
- 1 C. uncooked rice
- 2 t. sesame seeds

Chopped green onion
Spread chicken in bottom of a 4-quart slow cooker that has been sprayed with cooking spray. In a bowl, stir together honey, onion, soy sauce, tomato paste or ketchup, cornstarch, garlic and crushed red pepper. Pour over chicken. Cook, covered on low, for 2.5 to three hours.

In a saucepan, bring water with rice to a boil; cover. Reduce heat to low and cook for 20 minutes. Stir chicken and sauce mixture; sprinkle with sesame seeds. Serve over warm rice and garnish with green onions.

Pork and Apple Meatballs

October is always pork appreciation month. Apples have always been a traditional complement to pork. Who hasn't served applesauce with pork roast or chops? This tasty meatball recipe blends the two together. You can serve these as a main entree if you make them a bit bigger or use them for an appetizer. Kraft makes a very reasonably priced sesame dressing.

- 1 lb. lean ground pork
 - 1 C. panko bread crumbs
 - 1 C. finely chopped apples
 - 2 finely chopped green onions
 - 1 T. Worcestershire
 - 1 beaten egg
 - ¾ C. Toasted Sesame Dressing
 - 2 T. Grey Poupon mustard
- Preheat oven to 375. Cover rimmed baking sheet with foil; spray with cooking spray. Mix pork with panko crumbs and chopped apples. Add green onions and carefully mix in. Mix in Worcestershire and beaten egg just until blended. Shape into 24 meatballs using about 1 T. meat mixture for each meatball. Place on prepared baking sheet. Bake 20 minutes or until done (160). About five minutes before meatballs are done, in a large skillet, bring sesame dressing and mustard to boil, stirring frequently. Add meatballs to dressing mixture and cook three minutes or until sauce is slightly thickened, stirring occasionally to evenly coat all sides of meatballs with dressing mixture.

Apple-Oat Muffins with Pecan Streusel

These muffins are a good way to use your extra apples. They make a great brunch addition or even a dessert muffin after a nice meal.

- Streusel Topping
- ½ C. flour
- 1/3 C. finely chopped toasted pecans
- 3 T. brown sugar
- 3 T. butter, softened
- ¼ t. salt

Muffins

- 1½ C. flour
 - ¾ C. sugar
 - ½ C. rolled oats
 - 2 t. baking powder
 - ¼ t. cinnamon
 - ¼ t. salt
 - 1 (8 oz.) bottle vanilla-flavored nutrition drink (Ensure)
 - 1 egg
 - 2/3 C. chopped apple
- Preheat the oven to 375. Line a 12 C. muffin tin with liners. In a small bowl, combine flour, pecans, brown sugar, butter and salt together. Rub together until crumbly. Set aside. In a medium bowl, whisk flour, sugar, rolled oats, baking powder, cinnamon and salt. In a separate bowl, whisk Ensure and egg. Stir into dry ingredients just until combined. Fold in chopped apple. Divide batter evenly among prepared muffin cups. Top with streusel. Bake 20 minutes or until muffins spring back when touched lightly in center. Cool in pan for five minutes. Transfer to a wire rack and cool completely.

Carol's Pumpkin Bars

Every year someone always asks me for my pumpkin bar recipe. It was always a favorite for October and November birthdays at school. This recipe was from my mom's good friend and co-worker at the bank, Carol. She has been gone a long time, but every time I make these, I think of her. I always try to give credit to anyone who gives me a really good recipe. I try not to take credit for good things other people have given to me; therefore, I always give this recipe away as "Carol's Pumpkin Bars."

Now to the really hard part of anything pumpkin this year. Did you know that pumpkin has replaced toilet paper as the "can't get COVID item" this fall? Every store you go to is out of pumpkin. I have several great stock boys at Sullivans, and I asked one of them if they had any pumpkin. He said no, and he said they have been blindsided because they didn't know there would be a shortage. Illinois is the pumpkin capital of the world. Shouldn't we be able to get pumpkin? So, if you have pumpkin and want pumpkin pie for Thanksgiving, keep that one can

Girl Scouts in northern Illinois recently kicked off their fall product program with online sales of nuts, candies and magazines. The program teaches girls to navigate the virtual marketplace and set up a website.

Each entrepreneur customizes her site by:

- Showing her goal and what she wants to earn
- Writing a description to explain to customers how funds earned will be used
- Adding her preferred image
- Providing ways customers can safely connect to her products using her website, emails, text, social media, QR code or printable business cards
- Creating her own personalized virtual avatar

Customers can order items through girls' individual websites. Each customer can order, pay, and receive direct shipments of items with girls receiving full credit for the purchase.

Girl Scouts are currently offering the fall products virtually and may choose to sell in-person with parent permission and following all Girl Scout health and safety rules through Oct. 24.

To be connected to a local Girl Scout's small business, call Girl Scouts of Northern Illinois' product program hotline at 847-214-9295, e-mail orders to cookies4you@girlscoutsni.org, or visit www.girlscoutsni.org/buynutscandymags.

Girl Scouts of Northern Illinois serves 16 counties, including Jo Daviess and Stephenson counties. For more information, go online to girlscoutsni.org or call 844-476-4463.

Webinar examines dollar store impact on rural Illinois communities

The University of Illinois Extension is co-hosting a free online webinar that will examine the impact of dollar stores on rural Illinois communities. The session is intended "to provide local officials, economic development professionals and plan commissions a comprehensive look at both positive and negative impacts dollar store development can have on rural economies," according to a news release.

The webinar is set for noon on Thursday, Oct. 8. Registration is required by going online to go.illinois.edu/DollarStoreImpact.

"Against the decline of retail in rural areas, the Dollar General chain has expanded significantly," said Nancy Ouedraogo, Illinois Extension community and economic development specialist. "Before approving new rural development of dollar stores, we encourage local decision-makers to inspect the whole-community impact dollar stores could have on a healthy local business sector."

Presenters Adee Athiyaman and Chris Merrett will describe the expansion of dollar stores in Illinois, provide a market profile of communities that host Dollar General stores, explore the profile of consumers who shop at these kinds of stores and examine positive and negative impacts these stores have on rural Illinois communities.

Athiyaman is a professor of public policy and economic development at Western Illinois University.

Merrett is director of the Illinois Institute for Rural Affairs at Western Illinois University and serves on the board of directors at Rural Partners of Illinois. Rural Partners is a member-driven forum that links individuals, businesses, organizations, and communities with public and private resources to maximize the potential of rural Illinois.

Program clarifies signs of Alzheimer's

On Saturday, Oct. 10, the Alzheimer's Association Illinois Chapter will deliver the "10 Warning Signs of Alzheimer's" educational program online and by phone at several times throughout the day. Two of the programs also will be available in Spanish.

The warning signs of Alzheimer's disease are often dismissed as normal age-related memory changes. Participants can join the program to learn more about memory loss, dementia and the resources available through the Alzheimer's Association. Experts also will address commonly held misconceptions about Alzheimer's.

The program will teach people how to recognize the warning signs in themselves and others and why early detection matters.

To register for the free program, call 800-272-3900 or go online to https://www.alz.org/illinois/helping-you/education/know_the_10_signs.

Enough, already: No one needs a lecture over masks

I wear a mask when out in public because that is what I (and we) are asked to do. The experts tell us that masks help stop the spread of COVID-19 and I usually follow the advice of experts; they often know more than I do.

I have my opinions on masks, but I'll try not to share them here. I am not anti-mask, or non-anti-mask. I am opposed to polarized opinions about masks.

Let's be straight. We all believe what we believe. We have opinions. That's OK.

I read the online posts about masks,

By JILL PERTLER

Contributor

and quite frankly, I think both sides have good arguments.

For the mask wearers:

You care about others. You want to protect the vulnerable. You listen to the experts and believe what they say. You do what you have to because it is what is asked of you. You want to stop COVID, so you wear a mask.

For those who choose a non-mask appearance:

You don't always believe the information you receive from the media. You feel you live in an area where you can social distance safely without affecting others. You don't want anyone to get sick, but you feel you can keep yourself and others safe without a mask.

Everyone believes they have their own valid points. Please read that sentence a second time to let it sink in. Everyone is imbedded in his or her own belief system.

You. Me. Us. We are all living out our own truths.

Can we leave it at that? Please?

Like I alluded to earlier, I am in the middle of the road. I'm not super this or super that regarding masks. I do what I need to do to protect myself and others. One day that may look one way and on another day (and in other circumstances) it may look another.

I'm doing what I need to do.

You are doing what you need to do.

My needs may differ from yours and vice versa, but I think we can agree on one thing: No one wants to be lectured. Especially on social media. We didn't enjoy lectures from our parents when we were teenagers, so why would we want to subject ourselves to them now?

Quick answer: We don't. None of us.

So here goes. I'm sorry if I am about to offend anyone. It is not my intention.

Please quit lecturing. You who believe masks are the weapon of a controlling government, I hear your pain. You who believe masks save lives, I hear your quest. But I do not want to be lectured on the subject from either of your well-intended, strongly felt sides.

Lectures were meant for college. We paid for them then, but don't want them for free now. Social media is full of cut-and-pasted long (long!) posts regarding masks. These posts are filled with quotes from experts. They are meant to sway your opinion regarding this subject.

By and large, they fail. Pro mask wearers will not change their opinion based on an anti-mask post and vice versa. Please quit copy and pasting ideas written by others. If you want to create a post filled with your own words (much like I did with this column), I welcome your thoughts. But don't simply rely on the words (and ideas) of others — no matter how eloquent.

And please, if it sounds like a lecture, it probably is.

With that, I apologize for this column. I'm lecturing against lectures while I likely lecture; I acknowledge that. My intention is not to sway you to one side or another. You can keep your side and your mask or lack thereof.

My intention is to bring us together. Because beyond masks, beyond lectures, beyond COVID, beyond our own personal beliefs and opinions, we all need to come together now more than ever before. Let's support each other, not tear one another down. Our country was built on differing beliefs and opinions.

Let's not lose sight of that. Take care everyone. Stay safe.

Farm to School month promotes local, healthy eating

By Justin Carter
CENTER FOR RURAL AFFAIRS

Fall is here and once again, folks across the nation are focusing on local food for our school districts. October is Farm to School Month, which provides a chance for teachers and administrators to inspire and educate students on where their food comes from.

This seems all the more important in 2020 as the pandemic has shown that our food systems are not always stable. Supply chain disruptions can result in shortages and increases in food prices. Our schools can be a part of positive change by making local food purchases and expanding on-campus cultivation to benefit agriculture education and provide fresh food to cafeterias.

During the month of October, schools can kick off their farm to school activities by participating in a crunch-off. For example, the Mountain Plains region of Nebraska, Colorado, Montana, Wyoming, Kansas, Missouri, North Dakota and South Dakota compete in a crunch-off to see which can get the most crunches into local foods. Apples have been the most popular food for students to crunch into. The crunch-off is not just for in-person classes; families participating in online learning are also encouraged to take part.

Now is the time to connect with local schools to promote healthy eating and locally produced foods. You can learn more by going online to the Center for Rural Affairs website at cra.org/f2s.

Justin Carter is a project associate for the Center for Rural Affairs.

FHN opens acute respiratory clinic

Patient isolation and rapid services are key, officials say

FHN has opened an acute respiratory clinic designed to speed up the diagnosis and treatment of respiratory illnesses such as the flu and COVID-19 this fall and winter.

"The ARC at FHN is set up exclusively for patients with acute respiratory symptoms such as those resulting from influenza, COVID-19, or respiratory syncytial virus (RSV); patients with chronic, ongoing respiratory conditions should consult their traditional providers," according to an FHN news release.

The special clinic allows for FHN to keep patients with respiratory symptoms separate from other patients, the release said.

"The isolated location and design of the clinic and its processes will limit the exposure of patients, the public and our staff to patients with symptomatic respiratory droplets," said Kathryn J. Martinez, executive vice president and COO/chief nursing officer. "During an appointment at the ARC, the provider will provide a quick physical assessment, which can then be followed up with a flu test or a COVID-19 test as needed.

"Without leaving the clinic, the provider can order medications, do blood work if needed for these conditions, and then direct follow-up care for the patient's FHN primary care provider."

The special clinic is located on the east side of the lower level of FHN Specialty Care – Harlem Avenue, 25 N. Harlem Ave., Freeport, and will be open for appointments seven days a week.

The clinic has three separate treatment rooms and a limited-space waiting room area. Staff members will wear full-isolation personal protective equipment and all patients must wear a mask and adhere to social distancing requirements at the ARC.

If ARC patients need a COVID-19 test, they will receive it outdoors at a covered area.

ARC patients must have an FHN primary care provider and can make appointments to be seen at the ARC through that provider or by calling 815-599-7672 or 815-599-7673.

FHN is a regional health care system with 19 locations in five counties in northwest Illinois. Go online to fhn.org for more information.

While growing up, the family lived on farms in the Menominee, Zwingle and Belmont areas. He graduated from Belmont High School in 1973, married his high school sweetheart, Vickie Greene, and together had three children.

Dave wore many hats during his life, including farmer, auto body repair, security, law enforcement, carpenter and antique tractor restoration. He studied criminology at the University of Wisconsin-Platteville and while working security at Galena Territories. Sheriff Specht offered him a job with the Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Department. He completed training at the Illinois State Police Academy in Springfield. During his 15 years with Jo Daviess County, he worked in patrol and as a detective, corporal, administrative sergeant and chief deputy. He also served on numerous county committees and task forces with other agencies. When entreated, Dave would regale family with stories and memories from his law enforcement days. In the 1990s he returned to farming, later taking a job with Terra Ag and subsequently F/S-Stephenson Service Co. While at F/S he did nearly every job in the company — applications, structures, LP, fuel oil, Lena plant manager; his final position was compliance and safety officer until his health necessitated his retirement in 2015.

He gracefully navigated seven years of colon cancer, abandoning unpleasant traditional treatments that could not offer a cure, enjoying his last five years on his own terms.

Dave was the strong, silent type, more of a doer than a talker, who liked cooking and taking care of family, friends and co-workers. He was a "fixer of things" and he loved being outdoors, as well as antique vehicles, especially muscle cars, antique tractors, motorcycling, auctions and animals.

He would be seen driving around the area in his pick-up with his white German shepherd, Andre, in the back. He loved karaoke, saying it was the most fun you could have without taking your clothes off. Karaoke is how he met Joyce, his beloved wife and love goddess. He especially loved his family and grandchildren.

He is survived by his wife of 18 years, Joyce (Hobb/Wirtjes) of Lena; three children, Richelle (Ron) DeCuir of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Seth (Allyson) Roling of Shannon, Illinois, Keshia (Shaun) Bennett of Stockton Illinois, and their mother, Vickie (Greene) Nash; three step-children, Brandon (Marsha)

Wirtjes of Rockford. MSG Ryan (Amanda) Wirtjes of Fayetteville, North Carolina, and Hannah (Rich) Hagedorn of Monroe Wisconsin; 11 grandchildren, Abrielle and Zachary DeCuir, Layla, Zoey and Jackson

Roling, Alexis and Blake Bennett and Eliza, Oliver, Kyler and Jaxsen Wirtjes; a brother, Richard Roling of Shullsburg, Wisconsin; sisters, Juanita Roling of Milwaukee, Pam (William) Shomler of Slinger, Wisconsin, and numerous nieces and nephews, several claiming to be "his favorite."

He was predeceased by his parents; brother, Donald; sisters, Shirley (Anthony) Hughes, Pat Olson and Donna (David) Seng; and nephews, Mark Hughes and Karl Olson.

Visitation was held Friday, Oct. 2, at Leamon Funeral Home in Lena, Illinois. Funeral services were held Saturday, Oct. 3, at Leamon Funeral Home. Father Mike Morrissey officiated the services.

Private family burial will be at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery in Galena, Illinois.

A special thanks to friends, neighbors, F/S and the F/S family for their acts of kindness and generosity during his illness and Father Michael and Monroe Clinic Hospice. There are no words to express our gratefulness to our family for their presence, devotion and unwavering support.

A memorial has been established in Dave's memory.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.leamonfh.com.

Get to the bottom of mouth breathing

As humans, we are meant to breathe through our noses. Breathing through your nose, or nasal breathing, filters impurities, assists in nitrous oxide production, adds warmth and moisture to inhaled air and increases the flow of air to the lower airways in the lungs. All of these serve to enhance the lungs' ability to absorb oxygen. Nose breathing provides optimal position of the tongue and lips to promote facial development, bone growth, chewing, swallowing and clear speech.

If you are a parent of a child who habitually breathes through their mouth, rather than their nose, then the following information is crucial for your child's health. Signs that your child may be mouth breathing include sleeping with their mouth open, drooling on their pillow, snoring, dysfunctional sleep, constantly having their head forward and mouth hanging open and air hunger when they eat, as demonstrated by noisy breathing and gasping. Your child may also be excessively tired or inattentive throughout the day. Conversely, dysfunctional sleep patterns may lead to hyperactivity and impulsive or antagonistic behaviors. Therefore, it is critical to report signs and symptoms of mouth breathing to your child's physician.

The first and most crucial step is to find out why your child is mouth breathing. It does not make sense to treat symptoms without diagnosing and treating the cause. Early diagnosis and intervention are crucial for healthy craniofacial growth and the formation of optimal airway structure. Chronic mouth breathing during your child's formative years can lead to a number of negative compensatory physiological changes, which can set up a domino effect of lifetime respiratory problems, craniofacial deformities and orofacial disorders. These include an abnormally long face, recessed chin and jawline, dysfunctional bite, overcrowded teeth, pain in the temporomandibular joint, headaches, facial pain, postural problems and swallowing and sleep and speech disorders. Early diagnosis and prevention of irreversible damage will require a collaborative effort between a number of health providers which may include any or all of the following: pediatrician, dentist, ear, nose and throat physician, allergist and a medical speech-language pathologist.

Some of the underlying health conditions that can lead to mouth breathing include: chronic inflammation of the inner lining of the nose that lasts for more than four weeks, deviated septum, infected and swollen tonsils and adenoids, congestion from allergies, an over-reactive immune system or having a congenitally small mouths and/or narrow palate. Treatment of the underlying cause and intervention to return to optimal function and nasal breathing will depend on the extent of damage.

While this column has focused primarily on children, you should be aware that mouth breathing can negatively affect the health and well-being of adults. If you or a family member experience any of the signs or symptoms of mouth breathing, report these to your health care provider. Diagnosis, treatment and prevention of damage from a compromised airway will greatly enhance your health and quality of life.

Distracted driving can be deadly

Talking, texting and other behaviors contribute to lack of focus

October is National Distracted Driving Awareness Month and nationwide, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration reports that nearly 3,000 people are killed in crashes involving a distracted driver, contributing to the 36,560 lives lost to crashes on U.S. roadways in 2018.

"Anything that diverts attention from driving — eating and drinking, adjusting the navigation, or picking your next podcast can result in a fatal injury," Nick Jarmusz, director of public affairs for AAA — The Auto Club Group, said in a news release. "Looking away from the road for just two seconds doubles the risk of a crash."

In 2018, there were 2,839 people killed in motor vehicle crashes involving distracted drivers, and of those killed in crashes involving a distracted driver, over 17 percent (495) were between the ages of 25 and 35. Additionally, there were 400 pedestrians and 76 cyclists killed in distraction-related crashes.

"In regards to hands-free capabilities, motorists need to understand it is not risk-free," Jarmusz said. "Even with your eyes on the road and your hands on the wheel, you are not safe unless your mind focuses on the drive."

Here are AAA's top tips to avoid distractions while driving:

- Prepare for your drive. Set vehicle systems like GPS, seats, mirrors, climate controls and sound systems before hitting the road. Decide on your route and check traffic conditions ahead of time. Finish dressing and personal grooming at home — before you get on the road.

- Don't drive intoxicated or "intoxicated." The consequences of alcohol-impaired driving and texting while driving could be the same: Put aside electronic distractions and never use text messaging, email, video games or internet functions, including those built into the vehicle, while driving. Stow your smartphone away, turn it to airplane mode, or activate call/text blocking features.

- Stay focused. Do not let anything divert your attention. Be sure to actively scan the road, use your mirrors, and watch out for pedestrians and cyclists. If you have passengers, enlist their help as a "designated texter." Ask them to answer your calls, respond to texts and program the navigation.

Some state laws specifically forbid driving "composing or sending an electronic text message or an electronic mail message" and talking on a hand-held cell phone while driving in a construction zone. And cell phone use of any kind — even hands free — is prohibited for teens drivers, except to report an emergency.

All of these are primary enforcement laws, which means law enforcement officers may stop motorists suspected of these offenses.

Sobering statistics

- Looking away from the road for just two seconds doubles the risk of a crash.

- Five seconds of reading an email or text is like driving across a football field while blindfolded.

- Mental distractions last longer than you think and can cause a dangerous crash or fatality. Mental distraction can last up to 27 seconds after dialing, texting or changing the radio station.

- New teen drivers are three times as likely as adults to be involved in a deadly crash.

Fellow Democrat to challenge Madigan as speaker, House GOP pushes for subpoenas

By Jerry Nowicki
 CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS
 The longest-serving state legislative speaker in U.S. history will have a challenger from his own party in January.

The Oct. 1 announcement that Rep. Stephanie Kifowit, D-Oswego, would challenge Chicago Democrat Michael Madigan as Illinois House Speaker came just an hour before Republicans called a news conference to lay out their next steps in a noncriminal legislative probe of Madigan.

Kifowit's challenge to the speaker, who has held the position for all but two years since 1983, comes months after utility giant Commonwealth Edison admitted in a court agreement to handing out jobs and contracts worth $1.3 million to close Madigan associates in an effort to curry his favor for legislation that benefitted the company.

After the ComEd news broke in July, Kifowit and a handful of others in the House Democratic caucus called on the speaker to resign his leadership position in the House. But Madigan reportedly called caucus members and said the "candid conversations" produced "positive feedback" which demonstrated "continued support for me and my leadership roles."

At the beginning of each two-year General Assembly, the House chooses its speaker. A candidate would need a motion and a second to be considered by the body, and the speaker is elected by a majority vote of the 118-member House.

Madigan's support for the position has been near-unanimous in his party through the years, and when the speaker received a lone present vote in each of the 2017 and 2019 re-election processes, the events made headlines for their rarity.

If House Democrats maintain a supermajority after November elections, Madigan could lose votes from more than 10 Democrats and still have the necessary threshold to get re-elected.

"Based on my values, I was compelled on July 30 of this year to write a letter to Speaker Madigan stating that the right thing for him to do is to step down as speaker for compromising the integrity of the office and undermining the public trust," Kifowit said in a news release. "The response from Michael Madigan was to double down and has remained. It is clear to me that he doesn't hold the same values that I do and falls short of what the public expects from an elected official."

Kifowit's comments echoed those of House Republicans who launched a Special Investigating Committee in late August to probe the speaker's ComEd ties. While Madigan has not been criminally charged and has denied wrongdoing, the House Republicans are seeking to prove through the committee that the speaker has participated in "conduct unbecoming to a legislator or which constitutes a breach of public trust."

Others in Madigan's party — including the three Democrats named by Majority Leader Greg Harris, D-Chicago, to the investigating committee — have proven to still be supportive. Reps. Emanuel "Chris" Welch of Hillside, Elizabeth Hernandez of Cicero and Natalie Manley of Joliet have pushed back on claims that Madigan's conduct was inappropriate.

Welch also resisted a Republican motion to subpoena various players in the ComEd scandal — including Madigan — calling the move premature and "out of order" as he had not seen the subpoenas Republicans were requesting. Madigan has declined to testify before the committee voluntarily, and the first substantive committee hearing heard testimony

Contact tracing prompts move to remote learning

Students in the River Ridge Community Unit School District #210 moved to remote learning last week after “multiple staff members and a number of students” were under quarantine for COVID-19 contact tracing, according to an announcement on the district website.

Officials plan to return to in-person learning on Tuesday, Oct. 13.

Stockton looks to fill school board vacancy

Stockton Community Unit School District #206 has a vacant seat on school board. The seat must be filled by a district resident who does not live in Township 27 North Range 4 East due to statutes that limit the number of members who can serve on the board from a specific township.

Those who are interested in the board position should send a letter of interest and any relevant credentials to: Superintendent James Bunting, Stockton CUSD #206, 540 N. Rush St., Stockton, IL 61085 by Friday, Oct. 9.

Board members will interview prospective candidates on the evenings of Tuesday, Oct. 13, and Wednesday, Oct. 14. The Board will then install the new member at its regular meeting on Monday, Oct. 19.

For more information, contact Bunting at 815-947-3391 or james.bunting@stocktonschools.com.

Local student gains entry into teacher program

Emily Raab of Warren has been accepted into the Teacher Education Program at Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa.

Raab had to demonstrate effective reflective components in teaching and complete several other requirements to be considered for the program. Admission to the program allows students to begin professional education courses in their field.

Raffle benefits nature foundation

A 50/50 raffle will be held Oct. 31 at Eagle Nature Foundation in Apple River. The winner does not have to be present to win.

Raffle tickets cost $5 each and are available by mail by sending a check to ENF, 300 E. Hickory St., Apple River, IL 61001. As of Oct. 3, the kitty was $1,240, but will be larger the more tickets that people buy, so the winner will receive at least $620.

The raffle is normally held during Fall Eagle Fest, which was canceled this year.

For more information, call 815-594-2306.

“I think just sharing it with visitors (has been the most rewarding part). We have a great story. We have a 20-minute hay ride that goes down through the valley and we just kind of give a tour of our family and what we do here,” Dittmar said. “People love it, and the best part is our hay ride and sharing what we have with everyone else.”

Dittmar Farm & Orchard is not requiring masks during most activities, however, the hay rides will be limited to 10 people and all riders are required to wear masks. There also will be added safety measures around the orchard, including 6-foot distancing marks and glass coverings at the concessions stand.

According to the Local Foods and Small Farms Educator at the University of Illinois Extension, Grant McCarty, According to Grant McCarty of the University of Illinois Extension, orchards like Orchard Landing and the Dittmar Farms & Orchard are more than just the source of a fun family weekend.

“They are helping to educate people who did not grow up farming or have no connection with agriculture through the use of apples, pumpkins and other agricultural crops,” said McCarty, local foods and small farms educator at the extension. “So not only are they enriching the agricultural base in Jo Daviess County, but they are providing an essential need in education to consumers.”

“One of the other great things is that it allows for family farms to bring in additional generations of their family that can be a part of this business. Not only are they growing the crops, but family members are involved in marketing, creating value-added products, managing the day-to-day operations, and finding other opportunities within that business.”

Putting woodworking skills to work

Students in the agriculture power and technology class at Stockton High School started their first woodworking project last week after completing all necessary safety tests. Some equipment covered in the safety tests that students will be using this year include the table saw, band saw, jigsaw, sander, arc welder, gas welder and inert gas welder. Their first woodworking project is Adirondack chairs.

• Improvements

We have cameras in there and can see that the line is cracked, but there's no blockage or leaks yet, but it's only a matter of time. Obviously, it's a hundred years old and it's time to do something about it."

He said the village applied for a U.S. Department of Agriculture grant and received it.

"It's about a $700,000 grant and we have about $300,000, so it is a million-dollar project and we're hoping to start a little bit on it this fall," Dittmar said. "It's deep and it's not easy to find a company that will put in man-holes at that 90-foot depth. The company that we've contracted will use a steel pipe and they're going to 'pipe burst' it. They will shove a steel pipe down there and break everything and then they'll drill in there and fill in the gaps with sand. It should last another hundred years."

He said Sharon and Dan Pepin wrote the grant for the project.

"Sharon and Dan have always done an amazing job for us through their Community Funding & Planning Services organization," Dittmar said.

The village also received a grant for a splash pad and received an Illinois Environmental Protection Agency grant for a water project.

"At one time our Terrapin Park was just an old parking lot," said Dittmar. "We wanted to make it into a park and a place for our community to hold events, so we went and applied for a splash pad grant for a recreational facility from the Department of Natural Resources and we got it.

"It's a 50 percent grant and it's a $300,000 project, so the village will have to pay a hundred and fifty thousand. We will be starting construction this spring on that project. The Pepins and their Community Funding & Planning Services wrote that grant for us as well."

He also provided details on the upcoming water project that is financed by yet another grant.

"Catlin Street is our oldest water line and we will be putting in all new water lines on that street," Dittmar said. "It is a $1.4 million project and we received that grant through the IEPA. That will probably come towards the end of next year."

Dan Pepin, a community planner and grant writer at Community Funding & Planning Services, said his organization works closely with the village of Elizabeth.

"We know their list of wants and needs on the projects the village would like to complete," Pepin said. "And, when funding becomes available through state or federal agencies, we let the village know funding cycles are out there for a project they would like to complete and then we start moving forward if the village has the funding available to pay their part. So, together we can move a project to completion."

He said successful completion of the sewage system, splash pad and water projects are a real step forward for the village of Elizabeth.

"With regards to the sewer project, which is a USDA loan and grant, it is a very necessary project," Pepin said. "Something like 95 percent of the town's sewage flows through the Locust Street mine shaft/tunnel. If it were to collapse, there would be a very serious state of emergency in the village of Elizabeth."

Pepin said the water project is a timely effort.

"We're coming up to the time in every single community's water system where age is showing," Pepin said. "Water meters, water mains and other water-related services need to be replaced in order to continue providing the best fire protection and also the best service of water for all the residents."

He said the splash pad is a 50/50 grant through the Department of Natural Resources.

"That's a great project that Mayor Dittmar had asked us to see if there was funding available," said Pepin. "It turned out you can get funding through the IDNR for that, so we applied and were fortunate enough to be asked to present down in Springfield, and from that presentation, we were able to be awarded."

He said the village is doing all the right things to move itself forward.

"I feel like if they're not growing in leaps and bounds, they are putting themselves in the best position to grow in leaps and bounds," Pepin said. "They are making the improvements that are needed to keep their town competitive and bring in businesses that will help them grow."

2020 LIST OF ASSESSMENTS

NOTICE TO JO DAVIESS COUNTY

TAXPAYERS: ASSESSED VALUES FOR 2020

Valuation date (35 ILCS 200/9-95): January 1, 2020
Required level of assessment (35 ILCS 200/9-145): 33.33%
Valuation based on sales from (35 ILCS 200/1-155): 2017-2019

Publication is hereby made for equalized assessed valuations for real property in the following townships in accordance with 35 ILCS 200/12-10.

Questions about these valuations should be directed to: Sandy Davis (Apple River and Thompson Townships) PO Box 172 Mt. Carroll IL 61063 815.821.1540

Sandy Davis (Berreman, Derinda, Pleasant Valley, Stockton and Wards Grove Townships) PO Box 172 Mt. Carroll IL 61063 815.821.1540

Farmland: Pursuant to 35 ILCS 200/10-115, the farmland assessments for the 2020 assessment year have increased by 10% of the preceding year's median cropped soil productivity index as certified by the Illinois Department of Revenue with data provided by the Farmland Assessment Technical Advisory Board resulting in a $32.01 per acre increase for each soil productivity index.

Equalization Factor: A factor of 1.0631 has been applied to the following class of property in Thompson Township: Residential (Class 40) Non-Farm Land 1.0631 Non-Farm Improvements 1.0631

All other Property: Property in these Townships, other than farmland and coal, is to be assessed at a 33.33% median level of assessment, based on the fair cash value of the property. You may check the accuracy of your assessment by dividing your assessment by the median level of assessment. The resulting value should equal the estimated fair cash value of your property. If the resulting value is greater than the estimated fair cash value of your property, you may be over-assessed. If the resulting value is less than the fair cash value of your property, you may be under-assessed. You may appeal your assessment to the Board of Review.

If you believe your property's fair cash value is incorrect or that the equalized assessed valuation is not uniform with other comparable properties in the same neighborhood, the following steps should be taken: 1. Contact your township assessor to review the assessment. 2. If not satisfied with the assessor review, taxpayers may file a complaint with the Jo Daviess County Board of Review. For complaint forms, instructions, and the Rules and Procedures of the Board of Review, call (815) 777-1016 or visit www.jodaviess.org for more information. 3. The final filing deadline for your township is 30 days from this publication date. After this date, the Board of Review is prohibited by law from accepting assessment complaints for properties in these townships. The filing deadline is November 6, 2020.

Your property may be eligible for homestead exemptions, which can reduce your property's taxable assessment. For more information on homestead exemptions, call (815) 777-1016 or visit www.jodaviess.org. Your property tax bill will be calculated as follows: Final Equalized Assessed Value - Exemptions = Taxable Assessment;

Taxable Assessment x Current Tax Rate = Total Tax

Bill. All equalized assessed valuations are subject to further equalization and revision by the Jo Daviess County Board of Review as well as equalization by the Illinois Department of Revenue. A complete list of assessments for these townships for the current assessment year, except for those assessments that were changed solely by equalization is as follows: from a ComEd official who joined the company after the alleged bribery scheme.

While Welch has said he is taking GOP subpoena requests under advisement, in a virtual news conference Oct. 1, Republicans on the investigating committee charged that Welch "seemed intent on raising obstacles to proceeding with subpoenas."

The three GOP committee members said they had prepared 10 subpoenas for Welch's perusal ahead of the next hearing — for which Welch has not set a date — citing authority in the Illinois Constitution.

Rep Tom Demmer, of Dixon, a deputy minority leader in the House and minority spokesperson on the committee, said the GOP members would also like to see documents referenced in testimony at the previous hearing by ComEd Executive Vice President of Compliance and Audit David Glockner.

Rep. Deanne Mazzochi, R-Elmhurst, said the testimony of Glockner showed disparities between Madigan's accounts of limited involvement in his alleged recommendation of Juan Ochoa to the ComEd board of directors and what actually occurred, according to ComEd. Glockner testified before the committee that he is "aware of an email" from an office manager in Madigan's district office to former ComEd CEO Anne Pramaggiore with a note saying "Speaker Madigan asked me to send this to you."

"So right now our committee is looking at a profound disparity between what the speaker has said, and what ComEd has testified to under oath," Mazzochi said. "And there's many other things that we need to confirm or deny that relates to Speaker

Madigan and his knowledge, his authority or lack thereof, and it needs to be done in person, and under oath."

Madigan, Pramaggiore and Ochoa all appear on the Republican subpoena list, along with others indirectly referenced in the ComEd court document.

Asked about Kifowit's candidacy, the GOP members said she should be applauded for her "courage" and "desire to see Illinois improved," but they said they also expect others fed up with Madigan to throw their hat into the ring for the speakership.

Mazzochi said this would be a "great opportunity" for Kifowit to show leadership.

"Get your members together, show that you actually have enough of a force that can join with Republicans to say, all right, we've got 71 votes, we're overruling Chris Welch's decision to not issue subpoenas. Let's go. Let's bring everything forward so we can get this process moving again," she said.

The Republican also said having a new speaker will not mean much if House rules are not amended to give more power to rank-and-file members and less to those in leadership.

"Unless and until I see from the Democrats a full commitment as well that they are going to actually revise the rules so that we can truly have bipartisan legislation come forward, I have concerns about that because what I don't want to do is change the figurehead and then not change the underlying political structure," Mazzochi said.

Kifowit gave initial support to empowering rank-and-file members in a news conference announcing her candidacy Oct. 1 in Chicago.

"Members will no longer be marginalized, intimidated, bullied, coerced, subject to microaggressions, gaslighted, you name it," she said. "Representatives should not be subject to that, and they won't be when I am speaker."

you may have leftover and cherish it! (I know you could make it from scratch, but I really like Libby's!) Enjoy this pumpkin bar recipe if you are lucky enough to have a can of pumpkin.

- 2 C. flour
- 2 t. baking powder
- 1 t. baking soda
- ¼ t. salt
- 2 t. cinnamon
- 1 t. pumpkin pie spice
- 2 C. sugar
- 1 C. salad oil
- 4 eggs
- 16 oz. can of pumpkin
- 1 C. pecans (optional)

Frosting

- 1 stick unsalted butter
- 8 oz. cream cheese, softened
- 3½ C. powdered sugar
- 1 t. of vanilla

Preheat the oven to 350. In a mixing bowl, mix ingredients together on medium speed in order and blend well. Bake in a jelly roll pan that has been sprayed with cooking spray for 25 minutes at 350. For frosting: Cream together the butter and cream cheese; carefully add the powdered sugar and mix until blended; add the vanilla and mix again. Frost when cool. I think they are better if they have been refrigerated for a while. (If you have any left, refrigerate the rest.)

Final thoughts

It is hard to believe we already are heading to the middle of October. I still have one or two Halloween things to put out. I try not to put those decorations out until the first of October. I have no new decorations because there have been no craft fairs this year. I have more money because I haven't been anywhere to spend any. That is a plus for the virus — one of the few! We have gone a step backward in our fight for normalcy. If it is possible for you, I hope we all support our local businesses as some of them are going to outdoor dining and carryout only. I have heard of people whom I know who have tested positive, and I am trying to be careful not to be one of those statistics. Stay safe and well and have a good week.

If you have found any fall recipes you think we would like, contact us in person, by mail at From Lena's Kitchens, Shopper's Guide, 213 S. Center St., Lena, IL 61048 or email us at scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.
