Three McHenry High School alumni honored during homecoming

As part of the annual homecoming tradition at McHenry High School, three graduates were honored Oct. 1 as Distinguished Graduates for their contributions to their profession and larger community.

Dr. Michael Thornton and Robert A. Jessup are 2021 Distinguished Graduates, and Bill Hobson is the 2020 Distinguished Graduate, delayed due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

All three received plaques and were honored during the Friday homecoming football game at McCracken Field in McHenry. They were also honored during a special MCHS Alumni Association event to celebrate the new alumni association.

Distinguished Graduates are nominated in the spring, and a committee through the McHenry High School Educational Foundation selects recipients. Photos and plaques of all Distinguished Graduates are displayed at McHenry High School buildings.

"We're pleased to add these three Distinguished Graduates to our long list of McHenry High School graduates who have excelled in their careers and service to their communities," said Carl Vallianatos, assistant superintendent for learning and innovation for McHenry Community High School District 156. "We are very proud of their accomplishments."

Read on to see more about why each Distinguished Graduate was selected. To see all of the Distinguished Graduates, and learn more about the program, visit the District 156 website.

Bill Hobson

Bill Hobson graduated from the former West Campus in 1992 and went on to Northern Illinois University. In his professional career in McHenry, he has served as assistant city administrator and director of parks and recreation, and he helped plan and develop the McHenry Recreation Center and the McHenry Riverwalk. Hobson has spent many hours, both for his career and as a volunteer, helping with community events and service organizations.

Dr. Michael Thornton

Dr. Michael Thornton graduated from the former West Campus in 1974, and went on to receive a bachelor's degree in biology from Wheaton College. He earned his medical degree from the University of Illinois in 1982. As a medical doctor, Thornton worked as a family practice physician in Sycamore and served as a medical director for the DeKalb County Hospital as well as the DeKalb County Health Department, and the chief of staff of Kishwaukee Hospital in 1997.

He was the 2010 recipient of the Acclaimed Physician Award from the Kishwaukee Health System. He has been on numerous mission trips to provide medical care in other parts of the world and volunteered as the sideline doctor for Sycamore High School for 29 years. He's delivered more than 800 babies in the DeKalb/Sycamore area.

Robert A. Jessup

Robert A. Jessup graduated from the former East Campus in 1987 and studied business at Valparaiso University. Jessup joined the family business, Jessup Manufacturing, in 1993. He bought the company in 2001 and under his leadership, the company grew from its humble beginnings with one employee in 1956 to more than 115 employees in 195,000 square feet of manufacturing space.

Once the maker of welts and bindings for leather gloves, Jessup has now become a global manufacturer, specializing in adhesive coated films. In addition, the company stresses the importance of community service with Rob Jessup serving on a variety of professional organizations and community development groups.

Historic homecoming features outdoor dance

McHenry High School's first fall homecoming week in nearly two years did not disappoint.

Record numbers of students participated in the week of activities that included dress-up days, a parade and rally, Powder Puff football games, Friday night football and the first-ever outdoor dance at Peterson Park in McHenry.

"The spirit and energy I felt all week made for a truly special week in this school community," said Dr. Jeff Prickett, MCHS principal.

More than 1,500 students attended the school's first-ever outdoor homecoming dance Saturday. On Friday, McCracken Field was filled with students, families and community members to watch a Warrior 49-13 victory over Dundee-Crown.

Friday's game also included a special event for the newly formed MCHS Alumni Association and recognition for three Distinguished Graduates: Bill Hobson, Dr. Michael Thornton and Robert A. Jessup (see related story above).

Leah Pelletier, biomedical science educator and advisor to the school's student council that hosted homecoming, credits high school staff, the city of McHenry and students for the success of homecoming week. The effort was even more challenging due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

With a construction theme, the student council led preparations for the week of events. McHenry High School just wrapped up two years of busy construction with the addition of the Center for Science, Technology and Industry at Upper Campus.

"I am so proud of all the hard work that our student council members put in for this week of events," Pelletier said. "They were flexible throughout the entire planning process and always kept a positive and optimistic attitude."

Senior Sarah Doherty, president of the student council, said students are glad to be doing things together again.

"We had more participation than we had imagined which made the week even more enjoyable," Doherty said. "The dance was so much fun and I think everyone now prefers having it outside."

Pelletier also thanked Campus Beats for the work on homecoming, particularly the dance.

The last fall homecoming for McHenry High School was in 2019. The school hosted a spring homecoming in April to coincide with rescheduled football games.

Drug Take Back Day Oct. 23

Northwestern Medicine, including for the first time Northwestern Medicine Huntley Hospital, will participate in National Prescription Drug Take Back Day by hosting six collection sites from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 23. Community members can safely dispose of their unused medications at drive-up sites. Unused or expired prescription medications are a public safety issue, leading to potential accidental poisoning, misuse and overdose.

According to the Drug Enforcement Agency, the non-medical use of prescription drugs ranks second only to marijuana as the most common form of drug abuse in America. The 2019 National Survey on Drug Use and Health found the majority of misused prescription drugs were obtained from family and friends, often from the home medicine cabinet.

A Northwestern Medicine drive-up collection site in McHenry County includes Northwestern Medicine Huntley Hospital, Medical Office Building #2, 10370 Haligus Road, Huntley.

Event staff will wear masks and follow physical distancing protocols. Please wear a mask in your vehicle when interacting

Aggravated vehicular hijacking and aggravated battery arrests made

Illinois State Police (ISP) District 15 Investigations arrested and charged Mark X.

Malone, a 43-year-old male of Rockford with one count of Aggravated Battery (Class 3 Felony) and Juwan M. Williams, a 19-year-old male also of Rockford with two counts of Aggravated Battery and one count of Vehicular Hijacking (Class 1 Felony).

On July 3, 2021, at approximately 6:58 a.m., ISP District 15 Patrol Troopers responded to a reported aggravated vehicular hijacking and hit-and-run traffic crash at the Belvidere Oasis on Interstate 90 westbound at milepost 24.2 in Boone County. Upon the Troopers' arrival, they learned the victim was battered and the suspects took his vehicle. The victim, a 60-year-old male of Elgin sustained minor injuries. As the suspects fled the area in the victim's vehicle, they were involved in a hit-and-run traffic crash with an unoccupied parked vehicle. There were no injuries reported.

A thorough investigation ensued, and ISP District 15 Agents were able to identify Malone and Williams as the suspects. On Aug. 20, the Boone County State's Attorney's Office approved one count of Aggravated Battery against Malone and Williams, and arrest warrants were granted for both suspects. On Sept. 1, ISP Agents took Williams into custody without incident. On Sept. 14, a Boone County Grand Jury indicted Williams on an additional count of Aggravated Battery and one count of Vehicular Hijacking (Class 1 Felony). On Oct. 6, Malone was taken into custody by ISP Agents without incident. Malone and Williams were both transported to the Boone County Jail where they remain in custody. Bond was set at $100,000, 10 percent to apply for Malone and Williams. No further information is available at this time.

encourages us to pray for our family, friend and community. The signs will be changed every couple months to include new pertinent/varied topics and scriptures.

The beautiful church property, located just off Belvidere Road between 2nd and 6th streets, has a paved sidewalk and flowering prairie garden which is already being used regularly.

DIRECTOR OF IDA PUBLIC LIBRARY

Remember that old parlor game where players tried to relate any actor to one particular actor? You know ... that skinny dancing guy? It was based on the six degrees of separation concept that asserts that any two people on Earth are only six or fewer links apart. Well, in this Bizarre Belvidere article, the connection is going to be between General Allen C. Fuller and six historical sites in town. So, join me as we play Six Degrees to Allen Fuller.

First, a little background on General Allen C. Fuller. Fuller was born in 1823 in Farmington, Connecticut, the second son in a family of six sons and three daughters. His father, Lucius, heard of the riches to be had in the west so moved the family to Illinois in 1846. Lucius Fuller settled his family in Belvidere while Allen Fuller was finishing his law studies. Once settled in Belvidere Lucius became one of the early postmasters and served as a county judge. By late 1846, Allen Fuller had completed his law studies and was admitted to the Supreme Court.

In November of 1846, he followed his family to Belvidere and set up law practice. Allen C. Fuller would remain in Belvidere for the rest of his life and serve as Adjutant General in the Civil War. He would sit on the boards of Belvidere's largest companies, organize two local banks, serve in the House of Representatives, be chosen as Speaker of the House, and serve two terms in the Senate, introducing railroad reform bills and setting up state charitable organizations. An influential figure throughout Illinois, General Allen C. Fuller also has connection to many of Belvidere's historical buildings. Let's take a look at six of them, which you likely see every day as you drive about Belvidere.

1. First and most prominent

is the Boone County Courthouse at 601 North Main St. Built in 1855, our courthouse is the second oldest in the state of Illinois. The courthouses of surrounding cities at that time were primarily wood structures. One dissatisfied critic stated that Rockford's courthouse looked like a saloon, Woodstock's like an old country barn, with Geneva's the worst of all.

Determined to present a more solid and professional looking structure, the Building Committee of the Boone County Board hired a builder named John Higby to construct it. Higby put in a solid foundation and brick walls up to four feet, but began to grumble that the cost of the project was too much for what he was paid and walked away from the contract. With a partial building in place and an already substantial outlay of cash, it was too late for the board to abandon the building. "Al" Fuller, an upcoming young lawyer/banker, was appointed by the board to oversee the rest of the construction. With his systematic attention to detail, Fuller had the courthouse completed by the end of the year, providing Belvidere with one of the best-looking courthouses west of Chicago. Additional costs were incurred, but Fuller accounted for every dollar and the total cost of our 166-year-old courthouse was $25,000.

2. Second is the City Hall building, today known at the south side of the Belvidere Fire Station, 123 S. State St.. Built in 1884, Belvidere's historic City Hall cost around $10,000 for its construction with the building lot donated by Samuel Longcor. General Fuller, however, donated large sums of money to furnish the second-floor interior, which consisted of city chambers, an engineer's office, and the original Ida Public Library, established with another donation of $5,000 from Fuller. These furnishings included wine-colored plush curtains throughout the building, polished wood floors, stained glass windows, hand-carved walnut tables and shelves in both quarters, plus ornate chandeliers. It is interesting to note, however, that for all its grandeur, the city hall building was not connected to sewer services nor did it have furnace heat until 1897. In addition, a third story addition to the building was proposed in 1899 to expand the library but was deemed too costly and impractical. A new fire station was built next door in 1917 in matching style and the two buildings were eventually joined to form the Belvidere Fire Station.

3. The next four degrees of General Allen Fuller were sadly established after his passing. At his death, General Fuller's estate was estimated at one million dollars. In today's moneys that would amount to a staggering $32 million. Most of his estate went to his only surviving child, Katherine (Kitty) Fuller Rhinehart. However, Fuller carefully planned out his vision of Belvidere's future and left funds to many organizations in town, which were earmarked for that vision. One of those lucky recipients was Perry School on West Perry St. General Fuller was a big believer in education, especially early education, and often lamented the lack of early learning for children.

His will contained the gift of $5,000, or $162,000 in today's dollars, to Perry School for the establishment of a kindergarten. An annex was added to the side of the historic structure for the kindergarten and in July of 1905 the Allen C. Fuller Kindergarten of Perry School held its grand opening. For many years, the kindergarten classes of Perry School paid annual visits to Belvidere Cemetery to lay flowers on his grave in a show of gratitude.

4. Now a wealthy heiress, Katherine was determined to follow in her father's philanthropic footsteps by contributing to the expansion of the Ida Public Library. The library itself, established in the city hall with a donation from Fuller and named after his deceased daughter, was running out of space. Belvidere was growing rapidly and the general public flocked to the free public library in an age when television, computers, cellphones, and Google were not yet invented.

As previously mentioned, the city had thought about adding a third story but determined such an addition may not be safe. A new plan had been devised to add on to the side of the city hall. Recall that the fire station had not yet been built by this time and the land next door was available. However, recent flooding of the unpredictable Kishwaukee River had brought an influx of water into the ground floor of city hall, an event that would be damaging to a library located on the ground floor of an expansion. Katherine Rhinehart, hearing of the plans, quickly offered to give the city $20,000 for a new library building, provided she could choose the lot. Katherine had already selected and purchased a lot on North State St. for her own family home and in her persistent way of looking out for her family, wanted the library to be closer to the soon to be constructed home. Katherine purchased the abandoned stone home of Simon Bassett at 320 N. State, just a couple of blocks kitty corner from her new lot. However, the county suddenly billed the estate thousands of dollars in back taxes for her father's agricultural properties, so an incensed Katherine withdrew the cash offer but still contributed the lot to the building project.

The library board, with Katherine as chair of the finance committee, appealed to the Andrew Carnegie Foundation for the funds and the current home of Ida Public Library opened its doors in 1912. Katherine Rhinehart remained on the board of the library until her death in 1927, serving on the finance committee, selecting books for the library, and donating annual funds for library operations. Today, the original front portion of the library is almost exactly the same as the day it was built to Carnegie specifications. A massive, framed portrait of Ida Fuller Hovey, originally donated by General Fuller to the city hall library location at its 1885 grand opening, still hangs on the library's north wall.

5. Next up is the stately home Katherine Rhinehart built at 605 North State St. in 1906. Katherine suffered a great deal of family loss in her life; her brother Frank died when she was 7, her mother Nancy when she was 14, brother Will died when she was 20, her sister Ida in 1883 just when Katherine's first son was born, and that baby son, Allen, died at the age of 3. Katherine was understandably obsessed with keeping her remaining two children close after these tragic family losses. She wanted to create a cultured and safe environment for Ida and Frank, especially since they were now in the teenage years typically filled with desires to flee home and see the world.

The magnificent mansion she built provided a large and comfortable library, a grand staircase for theatrical adventures, and a magnificent third floor gallery for dances, plays, and all manner of guest rooms to accommodate the friends of her teenaged children. Although son Frank eventually married and moved a couple of houses down, daughter Ida remained at home until Katherine's death in 1927. Afterwards, perhaps resentful of the years spent tied to her mother's apron strings or perhaps from loneliness, Ida married Reverend John Scambler and sold the home along with most of its contents to Hugh Funderburg, another great contributor to Belvidere's progress. Today, thanks to a generous donation by the Funderburg descendants, the stately home, now forever known as The Funderburg Home, is owned by the Boone County Historical Museum and will soon be open for public tours.

6. Last on the degrees list is the massive Apollo Theater at 104 N. State St. Katherine's son, Frank, developed a love of the theater and acting in school, starring in many school productions and professing a desire to work in big city theaters after college. By 1917, the Derthick Opera House on N. State had caught fire and burned to the ground. Determined to keep Frank close to home, Katherine purchased and cleared the Opera House lot.

She formed the Belvidere Company, with son Frank in charge, to oversee the building of a brand-new structure named the Apollo Theater. Katherine continued to contribute funds to the Belvidere Company while son Frank managed the theater and starred in various productions. The theater flourished, drawing large crowds, until Frank's untimely death at age 38 in 1926. After Katherine died in 1927, the theater passed into various managements, ownerships, and stockholders over the years. Today, the Apollo still operates as a concert venue. The original interior curtains and furnishings are long gone, but the beautiful brick exterior is nearly the same as the day it was built.

These are just six degrees in which General Allen Fuller influenced the development of our community. His reach extended far and wide and includes the establishment of the very first Boone County Fair, the co-founding of the University of Illinois at Urbana, the construction of many of the brick storefronts still remaining in downtown Belvidere, and of course, his courageous leadership of our troops in the Civil War. Fuller's influence reminds us that one person can make a difference in their community, a difference that can stretch through generations.

I hope you enjoyed this historic Belvidere version of the Six Degrees game. Although much of Belvidere's history has changed and some buildings have not withstood the test of time, it's marvelous to see we have not lost all of our golden days of yesteryear. We are all winners in the preservation game.

It's finally fall and Halloween is fast approaching. This is a favorite time of year for Ida Public Library staff and we have lots of fun activities this month. First, we received a generous donation of pumpkins from TJ Farms! Patrons can stop in for a free pumpkin to decorate and drop off for our pumpkin contest. Pumpkins are available downstairs in the children's department while supplies last and must be back to the library by Oct. 29. Pumpkins can be picked up that night.

Next, we have a fun and spooky choose your own adventure walk in our empty lot. Follow the numbered signs to choose your own spooky path. The walk is decorated with straw bales from another of our generous farming partners, the Aves family. We also decorated with corn stalks from the BHS Performing Arts sale. Be sure to check it out during the entire month of October.

Our front door will soon be decorated for Halloween. The creative team at Ida is working hard to develop a somewhat spooky arrangement that will present a perfect photo opportunity for your fall pictures. Once it is finished, feel free to stop by the front steps on State Street and take your family photos.

Last but oh not least, we are Back with Trunk or Treat. We had to cancel this popular event last year due to Covid19 and the Belvidere Chamber graciously took up the mantle with a drive through event at Manley's. This year, we are holding our Trunk or Treat event in the library parking lot on Friday, Oct. 29, from 4 to 7 p.m. It will be a bit scaled back with fewer cards and no food trucks or activities, but it should be a scary good time anyway. Dress up in your favorite costume to make the rounds. The library will be closed but restrooms will be open with limited capacity at a time but no masks required. We can't wait to see everyone! As L.M. Montgomery, the author of Anne of Green Gables, once said: "We are so glad we live in a world where there are Octobers!"

According to the Centers for Disease Control, 136 people die every day from an opioid overdose. Roughly 21 to 29 percent of patients prescribed opioids for chronic pain misuse them. At Northwestern Medicine, efforts have been made to reduce the number of opioids providers prescribe, while also offering safe disposal options for patients, particularly after surgeries.

National Drug Take Back

Day is a safe, convenient and responsible way to dispose of unused opioids and other prescription medications. If you throw unused medications in the trash, they can be retrieved and abused, or illegally sold. If you flush them, they can contaminate the water supply.

Thunder falls as Bucs rolled

By Christopher Johnson
REPORTER

Two in a row is a streak, but the one Belvidere North is riding right now is definitely not what they want to see continuing.

In the week seven game of the 2021 fall regular season Belvidere North fell to the Harlem Huskies. It came one week after NIC-10 leader Hononegah knocked them down a notch.

On Friday night, with the game played in favorable territory, Harlem came in with a lot of momentum working for them. At 5-1 entering the game, one more win guaranteed their placement up the upcoming field of champions in waiting.

Harlem struck at a two-to-one clip over their host Blue Thunder and ended running through the first period of play with a 13-7 edge.

They would only add to that advantage as the second period played out to completion. Big plays led to multiple scores and the visiting Huskies entered the break in front 27-7, and looking to knock the Blue Thunder out of silver contention.

The third quarter was quiet, neither team established a drive that culminated with additions to the nightly scorecard.

In the fourth, Belvidere North got on the board for the second time and made it a two-possession game. The extra point kick made it a 27-14 match.

Time expired with the Harlem Huskies moving into sole possession of second place in the NIC-10 and standing one game behind Hononegah and one game ahead of the best of the field.

Belvidere North will look at picking up its sixth win of the season this week. Statistics seem to indicate an opportunity for the Blue Thunder to once again rumble and drop the Vikings at dock.

Rockford Guilford will host the Week Eight game and does look to allow the Belvidere North Blue Thunder to punch their post-season ticket.

The regular season closes on the road at Freeport, Belvidere North would have the potential to host an opening round game, if the qualified 8-1 and 9-0 inclusion field don't cover all host opportunities.

Belvidere ran into the same team that sent District neighbor Belvidere North to its first loss of the season.

Hononegah had no trouble expressing its will in a 51-8 decision in Rockton in a game that was over before the first half horn sounded.

Hononegah moved to 7-0 with the dismantling of the Bucs defensive design. The Indians remain in first place, alone, with two weeks to go in the NIC-10 season.

The Bucs closing schedule starts on the road against Harlem, which improved to 6-1 in the win over Belvidere North.

Slowing the Harlem hustle will be something the Bucs defense will have to focus on doing, if they want to stay in range of an upset bid.

Harlem has allowed just over ten points a game and covers that conference leading statistic with the top ranked offense in the league, averaging 35 points a night.

Things come to a close at home and Belvidere gets a chance to close the season on a positive note, with a victory over the team standing right in front of them in the standings, blocking the Bucs view of the leadership council.

Guilford, which opened Week Eight with a 2-5 mark, held onto a one game lead over Belvidere and two over basement-sitter Rockford Jefferson.
