Panthers stretch winning streak to 23

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

Oct. 22, 2021, seems like a long time ago; six hundred and ninety-eight days to be exact. That's the last time the Lena-Winslow Panthers lost a football game. This Friday, Sept. 22 will be 700 days exactly since their last loss, a 28-14 defeat to Forrester in the final week of the 2021 regular season.

After beating Dakota in week three, the Panthers pushed their winning streak to 23 consecutive games which is a current Illinois High School Football record. For Head Coach Ric Arand, this is just what he expects from the 2023 Panthers.

While many on the outside had doubts about the Panthers replacing nearly their entire starting roster, the Panthers have answered every question there is to ask. Most recently, Le-Win dominated their way to a 52-8 victory over the Dakota Indians. Gage Dunker had himself a day, rushing for 153 yards and a trio of scores on just nine carries. Dunker averaged 17 yards-per-carry in a rushing attack that has proven itself time and time again. It was Cobryn Lynch who got the running game going, however. Just a few minutes into the first quarter, Lynch broke free for a 53-yard rushing touchdown, giving the Panthers their first lead of the day. Le-Win didn't look back.

After a 20-point second quarter, the Panthers took a 36-0 lead into the halftime break. They put the finishing touches on in the second half, as they moved to 4-0 on the season. Alec Schlichting got the special teams involved early on, when he took a punt back for a 52-yard touchdown return. In the third, Dunker had his biggest run of the day, taking it 58 yards to paydirt. In the end, it was Weston Lartz who scored the Panthers' final touchdown of week four. All in all, Le-Win put up 274 yards on the ground, to go along with six rushing touchdowns.

KRISTIE FLYNN

Kristie Kay Kendall-Flynn passed away on Wednesday, Sept. 13, 2023, with family by her side. Kristie was born to Charles and Zoella Kendall on May 15, 1943. She was raised in Marshalltown, Iowa where she spent time roller-skating, babysitting her sister Connie's kids, and growing up with the "much shorter" Kathie and C.D. Kendall (i.e., Tom Selleck clone). Upon graduating from Marshalltown High School, she got the job of her dreams as a flight attendant for American Airlines based out of Los Angeles.

One day in June she opened the door of her apartment and instantly fell in love with a blonde haired midwestern boy named Mick Flynn. They dated only 3 months and were married in 1965, eventually settling in Marshalltown where they raised their family. Their home at 109 North 17th Street was filled with love, laughter, their kids, friends and various animals. She then became a Dental Assistant and worked there for several years. She loved watching Lawrence Welk, The Love Boat and Fantasy Island. When the soap opera, All My Children was tragically canceled, she found comfort in the daily drama of General Hospital which she watched faithfully until her passing. For the last seven years she has enjoyed line dancing in Monroe. She and Mick have spent endless hours working with the church doing various ministries. They also loved playing cards together in the Four Seasons Room and drafting their teams for Fantasy Football.

Her love for God, her husband, and others is unrivaled. Kristie lived for her family and traveled wherever was needed to see them. She is survived by her loving husband Mick Flynn of Lena, her son Shawn (Wendy L.) Flynn of Colorado, her daughter Holly (Brent) Chrisman of Lena and her daughter Wendy S. (Michael) Arnold of Massachusetts. She is also survived by her younger sister Kathie (Delwin) Perry and their three children, Shannon, Traci and Jody, and her younger brother C.D. (Dot) Kendall and their two children, Chad and Jamie. Her love and strength will be missed by her eight grandkids, Layton, Dylan, and Kendall Flynn; Ty and Kade Chrisman; and Aiden, Bradie and Sammie Arnold. Additionally, she will be missed by her three great grandkids, Josie, Brighton, and Brody Flynn. Kristie is preceded by her parents Charles (Zoella) Kendall and her older sister Connie (Don) Lyman.

It must be noted that Kristie was a faithful friend and all of us who knew her were blessed. We will desperately miss her love, servant's heart, sense of humor, dancing at get-togethers, yodeling, caramel brownies and peanut butter balls.

In lieu of flowers, a memorial fund has been established in Kristie's name. Visitation will be held Friday, Sept. 22, 2023, from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Evangelical Free Church of Lena. A funeral service will be held Saturday, Sept. 23, 2023, at 11 a.m. at Evangelical Free Church of Lena. A private family burial and luncheon will be held following the service.

The family would like to give a special thanks to their extended families, friends, church family, Lena-Winslow Schools and community for their many prayers and tremendous support. In addition, the family would like to thank the doctors, staff, and hospice team at the FHN Memorial Hospital for the excellent care given to Kristie and her family during her last days with us.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.leamonfh.com.

Implementing the Pretrial Fairness Act

Editor's note: The opinions expressed here are those of the author.

By Amanda Pyron
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, THE NETWORK

In mid-September, Illinois will move one step further in the pursuit of justice by exchanging risk for wealth as a determinant of safety when making pretrial release decisions.

As someone with 25 years of experience as an advocate for survivors, most spent working in our federal criminal legal system that has long operated without money bail, I know risk-based decision making can keep survivors of gender-based violence and the public safe.

Since the Pretrial Fairness Act was passed in 2021, opponents have used fearmongering and misinformation to derail its success. Over recent months, it has become clear that some public officials are still not ready for this new system, nor are they doing enough to prepare for these changes.

We routinely saw survivors used as pawns during the political debate over this bill, and sadly that continues. Misinformation continues to come from state's attorneys themselves or their allies in law enforcement who oppose the law. In a recent story published by WGLT, McLean County State's Attorney Erika Reynolds falsely claimed that some people charged with domestic violence couldn't be jailed under the new law.

In fact, all people charged with domestic violence, both as a misdemeanor or felony, can be held in jail pretrial when there are public safety concerns. No one charged

Slices of life

Life is tenuous

The more years I accumulate on this earth, the more I realize life is tenuous.

It is short. It is fleeting. It is fragile. It is ethereal. It is delicate. It is beyond beautiful.

It can be abrupt and unexpected. Unanticipated, not to mention amazing.

Unpredictable at its best. You never know what will come next.

And that is part of the magic, as well as the reality - or perhaps the fear.

Life is a miracle—for each of us. Every moment of every day.

Imagine this. Fathom. Understand. Consider. Contemplate it. Seriously contemplate it - for more than just a second or two.

Our eyes peer out into the world, refracting light rays and transforming them into images which become electrical impulses that are carried to the brain. Our ears convert sound waves into a format the brain interprets and understands as meaningful sounds. Our tongues differentiate between sweet, sour, salty, bitter and savory tastes. Our noses can detect one trillion (with a T) different distinct scents. Our fingers are packed with thousands of nerve endings, allowing us to interpret the size, shape and texture of objects.

We don't often think about (or appreciate) our five senses. They just are.

Our hearts beat without us ever giving any conscious thought to the process. Our lungs take in air and separate oxygen from carbon dioxide, using the former and expelling the latter.

Our blood circulates said oxygen throughout our limbs, organs and skin. Our liver and kidneys remove toxins. Our skin regenerates without a thought. Every cell in our body does the same. Our body temperature regulates itself. Fingernails, toenails and hair all grow without any effort on our part.

We breathe. We blink. We heal. We digest food. We poop. All without having to consciously will any of it into being.

We are alive because this amazing system works to keep us afloat without any conscious effort on our part. It's like that pink bunny: it just keeps going.

One wrong turn—one system out of whack—and the whole body is off kilter. One domino down and they all could fall.

Tenuous.

But beautiful. And predictable.

Yet not.

Life is anything but predictable. You think you know what lies ahead. You plan it all out because it seems so simple and obvious—clear as a bell. Clear as hell. How else could it be?

But life is seldom obvious. That would be too easy.

It is obscure. Uncertain. Often unknown and unsure. Vague at best.

But wonderful and wonder-filled. The obscurity keeps us guessing. The uncertainty makes it more beautiful. The unknown and unsure make it exciting. Even vagueness creates wonder and wonderment.

If life were predictable, if it were promised and secure it wouldn't be as valuable. It wouldn't be as precious.

And the more you notice - really notice and become aware of the miracles right within you - the more you appreciate it all. Your sight, hearing, sense of taste, touch and smell.

Your beating heart. Your breath. The beautiful, tenuous truth of life.

All of it.

Local Master Gardener volunteers recognized at state conference

Three Master Gardener volunteers from Stephenson County were recognized for their volunteer efforts at the State Master Gardener Conference held in Peoria, IL, on Sept. 7 and 8. Mary Blair, Bernard Lischwe, and Deb Schwartz received the Outstanding State Master Gardener Award, recognizing their dedication to the volunteer program.

The Outstanding State Master Gardener Award was established to honor the best Master Gardener volunteers in Illinois. This award is presented to 2% of the membership annually. Award winners must have completed 160 hours of volunteer service, participated in multiple volunteer projects, collaborated with other volunteers and community organizations on projects, and exhibited leadership qualities.

Mary Blair trained as a Master Gardener in 2017. Mary contributes to the community in many ways beyond the Master Gardener program, and she brings this sense of community pride, involvement, and connectedness to the Master Gardener program. She contributes to the program in countless ways and is always one of the first to step up to help. Bernard Lischwe has been a mainstay of the Master Gardener program since 2007. Always willing to help with a project or activity. He has been essential to the Master Gardener Helpline for several years, helping answer client calls. He is very involved in the community, and his connections help the Master Gardener program to develop new partnerships and projects.

Mary Blair

Deb Schwartz

Debbie Schwartz is very active in the community and serves on the board of the Freeport Park District. In her years of volunteering with the Master Gardener program, she has always enjoyed projects that connect her with people, like information tables where she can get out and talk with others about gardens. Her service with the park board has connected the Master Gardener program with the park district, positively impacting both.

"Mary, Bernard, and Deb combine their love of gardening and their heart for volunteering to impact their community positively," stated Nikki Keltner, Program Coordinator. "They are all dedicated volunteers that embody the Master Gardener mission of helping others learn to grow."

University of Illinois Extension Master Gardeners are volunteers who complete training on horticulture topics led by University of Illinois Extension Educators. After completing training Master Gardeners volunteer in the community by offering educational programs, demonstration gardens, a horticulture helpline, newspaper articles, and more, completing their mission of "Helping Others Learn to Grow." If you want to become a Master Gardener, call the University of Illinois Extension at 815-235-4125.

Freeport City Council to vote on proposed 1% sales tax increase

On Monday, September 18, 2023, the Freeport City Council will take a vote on the increase of the home-rule sales tax to fund city road projects. If passed, the 1 percent sales tax increase will help secure a sustainable local funding source to improve the 139 miles of road within the City of Freeport.

A combination of factors, including long-standing underinvestment in transportation, natural wear, changing weather patterns, and a gradual decline in the revenue generated in the Motor Fuel Tax has led City leaders to discuss alternative funding sources for a sustainable road program.

Revenue from the proposed 1 percent sales tax increase is estimated to yield $3.5 million on an annual basis. Tax revenue will be dedicated by ordinance to the following key areas for a successful road program:

- Roadway repairs and reconstruction
- Paving materials
- Curb
- Gutter
- ADA sidewalk ramps
- Public Works staff wages
- Contracted work related to road improvements
- Utility improvements related to roadway repairs and reconstruction

· Debt service for financing roadway repairs and reconstruction

If passed, the permanent, dedicated street funding will address many local streets with reconstruction contracted bid work and the City paving crew's in-house operations. Three-fourths of the sales tax revenue will be allocated towards paving materials, contracted paving work, and public work supplemental wage increases. One-fourth of the funding will be allocated towards utility improvements related to roadway repairs and reconstruction.

Currently, it is estimated 60 percent of local streets in Freeport are in need of major roadway renovations and reconstruction efforts. The project anticipates road construction work in all wards of Freeport. Transparency, efficiency, and advance planning is key to communicating the annual street program for design and construction efforts each season. This funding outline below will increase or decrease depending on the amount of actual sales tax revenue received annually.

The sales tax increase will not impact the following sales:

- Food to be consumed

off-premise from where it is sold

- Prescription and non-prescription medications
- Insulin and diabetic related testing materials such as urine testing materials, syringes, and needles
- Medical appliances

· Vehicles

If approved on Monday night's City Council Meeting, the City will begin receiving funds from the increased sales tax in April 2024 for the kick-off of the 2024 road construction season.

with an offense of domestic violence will be released without a hearing. Notice to survivors, along with an offer to petition for a domestic violence order of protection, is required before an initial hearing. These are all powers given to states' attorneys to keep survivors safe and informed of all their options at each stage of their case.

The Pretrial Fairness Act is being implemented this week after years of advocacy by organizations combatting gender-based violence. Our community specifically drafted provisions in the law to require notice from states' attorneys to victims ahead of the initial hearings, when that hearing was previously exempted from the list of hearings requiring victim notification by states attorneys.

We also drafted language to ensure offenses like sex crimes, trafficking and domestic violence are on the list of offenses that require police, prosecutors and judges to take extra time with these cases. With more time, survivor safety will be at the forefront of every decision, rather than having cases moved as quickly as possible.

We also worked to ensure that all states' attorneys must file a petition to detain a defendant for any violation of protective order, knowing the potential lethality and safety issues at play when a protective order is violated. These are the critical provisions that, coupled with the end of wealth-based incarceration, will create a more survivor-centered pretrial system.

The time has come to ensure our court actors understand the law and will fully implement this law to protect survivors. Any failure to implement—including notice to survivors of initial hearings, provision of a protective order when requested, or completion of a risk assessment when needed—will put individual survivors and communities at greater risk for repeated harm. By reducing pretrial jailing for most offenses, court actors can finally turn their attention to where it should be: on higher level offenses like domestic violence and sexual assault that affect public safety and survivors.

When our elected officials and law enforcement perpetuate misinformation about the law, they put survivors at risk by misstating their rights under this new system. Survivors deserve to know how exactly their county state's attorney and local law enforcement will enforce the new law, and ensure it upholds public safety for all people. It is imperative we set aside political differences and implement the law correctly so all survivors across Illinois can get the rights and opportunities afforded to them under the SAFE-T Act.

Illinois should be proud to be the first state in the country to abolish money bail, and center survivor-centered practices into its pretrial system. We call on states' attorneys and law enforcement to join us to prepare our communities and survivors for this new and improved system.

Amanda Pyron is executive director of The Network, an anti-gender-based-violence organization in Chicago that helped draft and pass the Pretrial Fairness Act.

Correction Wolves fall to Dakota, Stephan remains optimistic

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Pearl City Wolves recently went 2-8 through a ten-game stretch of their 2023 volleyball season. On Thursday, Sept. 14 the Wolves were hopeful to turn the corner and get a win when they faced off with the Dakota Indians. Dakota has gone through their own struggles in the 2023 season. Before their meeting with the Wolves, the Indians held an overall record of just 2-13. Meanwhile, the Wolves came in at 5-12.

The Indians wound up being a solid matchup for the Wolves. It was a fairly even game throughout the first set. Things started out with a 3-3 tie. After Dakota went up 7-3, the Wolves quickly cut the lead down to one. The Wolves took their first lead midway through the set when they went up 12-11. It looked like the Wolves took control when they went up 19-15, but a six-point run allowed Dakota to regain the lead. Ultimately, the first set took some extra time to decide a winner. The Wolves fell just short as Dakota captured a 29-27 victory.

The second set featured much of the same. Pearl City jumped out to an early 8-3 lead however, an eight-point run later in the set allowed Dakota to make things interesting again. By then, Dakota stole all the momentum, and a late five-point run helped the Indians seal the deal on a 2-0 sweep with a 25-22 victory in set two.

Following the loss, the Wolves and their head coach, Tammy Stephan, saw their record fall to 5-13. Stephan took the time to discuss the current state of the team, an up-and-coming junior, and to do some self-reflection. "I'm not one bit upset with how these girls have played our last two games," Stephan said. Just two days before the Dakota loss, Pearl City suffered a tough loss against the Aquin Bulldogs. "It's not always the end result that is the difference maker, it's the growth from those games that is going to make the difference in the future," Stephan added.

The Pearl City coach is already starting to see some of the growth she is hoping to see from the 2023 squad. Following the loss to Dakota, Stephan explained, "Even though the final result didn't end like we wanted, I still feel like these girls came ready to play and some really great things are happening."

Specifically, Stephan mentioned Pearl City junior Tomiya Stultz who has really come on strong lately for the Wolves. It's taken some time for Stultz and her teammates to get here, however. "Stultz is really starting to find her place on the court, and she is going to be a key role in the future," Stephan shared. This is all part of a long journey for Stultz and her head coach. Stephan explained, "At the beginning of the season, I wasn't sure she even liked me, or anyone, because she never showed much emotion, interest, or made eye contact. But I can say with complete confidence that she is making huge strides and I look forward to how she is going to grow even more and if she keeps working hard, you are going to see her name in a lot of stats." In the loss against Aquin, Stultz put up two kills and one block, showing potential around the net. "She is a great kid, and it just took some time to get to know her and let her know we believed in her. Once that barrier was broken, she took it in her own hands to prove what she can do," Stephan added.

Stephan isn't just looking at the team for improvement. As a first-year coach, Stephan is also learning as she goes. "A couple things I personally need to work on is just finding who plays well together. There are a couple spots I'm not quite sure who should fill, so I really need someone to step up and own those roles. Once we get to that point, I don't think we will just play with teams anymore, we could be on the winning end," Stephan shared.

For the most part, Stephan understands the team is still building towards a better future. "We are still very young and need to work through some mental toughness," Stephan said, adding, "We are rebuilding, and if they can just trust me and work hard, great things are going to come, sooner rather than later."

On Wednesday, Sept. 20 the Wolves travel to face off with the Pecatonica Indians at 7 p.m.

Prior to the week four matchup, Arand shared his thoughts on the 2023 season and how this team of new faces has stepped up. "Each team is so different, but I think this team really developed their identity this summer and continue to become better, day in and day out," the Le-Win coach shared.

Arand credits that to the hard work and leadership his coaching staff puts in. "I think, first of all, that our position coaches have done a really good job of throwing a lot at our guys in terms of teaching fundamentals and trying to accelerate the learning process," Arand shared. The coaches can only do so much, however, and one thing that remains consistent about Le-Win athletes is the hard work and dedication each class seems to bring. Arand explained, "This group of kids has been a part of a lot of success in the past two seasons, and I think all those extra practices have really helped them out coming into this season. We are still making mistakes, but I think we have gradually gotten better in each of the first three weeks." The Panthers continued to show their improvement when they put on another clinic in week four.

When asked if any individual Panther was taking the step up this year, Arand had one key player come to mind. "No real surprises from my standpoint, but right now the guy that really stands out as having become a really good player for us on both sides of the ball, in addition to becoming a good leader, is Nick Tippet, senior running back and defensive back." Tippet is one of those guys that can lead by example and with his play.

The Panthers will look to keep the streak alive this Friday when they travel to Decatur to face off with the St. Teresa Bulldogs. St. Teresa is off to an 0-4 start in 2023.

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

We have had beautiful weather and a little rain this past week. I have had several leaves in the yard, so I think fall is inching its way into our lives. This week we continue to feature some great recipes for the season and some for all seasons. Have a great week cooking!

Easy Baked Mozzarella Bites

These easy appetizers use the Pillsbury dough sheets. If you can't find the sheets, you can use the crescents and pull the perforations together to form a sheet.

1 can refrigerated (8 oz.) Crescent Dough Sheet

8 mozzarella sticks, unwrapped and cut crosswise into thirds

3 T. butter melted
2/3 C. Italian style Panko breadcrumbs

Heat oven to 375. Unroll dough sheets; press into rectangle 12 x 8 inches. Using a pizza cutter, cut rectangle into 6 rows by 4 rows to make 24 (2 inch) squares. Place mozzarella stick in center of each rectangle; bring dough up and around cheese sticks; press edges to seal. Place melted butter in a small bowl. Place breadcrumbs in another small bowl. Dip each stick into butter; shake off excess. Roll in breadcrumbs to coat. Place about 1 inch apart on ungreased large cookie sheet. Bake 11 to 13 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm. Serve with warm marinara sauce or ranch dressing. You can also use other cheese other than mozzarella.

Candy Bar Apple Salad

Apples are for sale all over the place. A good eating apple is a tasty treat but add it to Snickers Candy Bars and it is even better!

1 1/2 C. cold 2% milk
1 pkg. (3.4 oz.) instant vanilla pudding mix

1 carton (8 oz.) Cool Whip, thawed

4 large apples, chopped (about 6 C.)

4 Snickers candy bars (1.86 oz. each), cut into 1/2 inch pieces

In a large bowl, whisk milk and pudding mix for 2 minutes. Let stand until soft set, about 2 minutes. Fold in Cool Whip. Fold in apples and candy bars. Refrigerate for at least 30 minutes before serving.

Cheesy Summer Squash Casserole

Another way to use up the summer squash is this cheesy and crunchy casserole. It makes a great fall side dish for a cool night.

2 small yellow summer squash, sliced

1/4 C. chopped onion
1/2 t. salt, divided

1 egg
1/4 C. mayonnaise

2 t. sugar
Pepper to taste

1/4 C. shredded cheddar cheese

2 T. crushed cornflakes
1 1/2 t. butter, melted

In a small saucepan, combine squash, onion and 1/4 t. salt. Cover with water. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer, uncovered, until squash is crisp-tender, about 2 minutes. Drain. In a small bowl, whisk the egg, mayo, sugar, pepper and 1/4 t. salt, until blended. Stir in cheese and squash mixture. Transfer to a greased 2 cup baking dish. Toss the cornflakes and butter; sprinkle over the top. Bake, uncovered at 350 until golden brown and bubbly, 25 to 30 minutes.

Chicken with Mushroom Sauce

This main course comes together quickly for a week-night meal. Enjoy it with noodles or rice.

2 t. cornstarch
1/2 C. milk

4 boneless skinless chicken breast halves (4 oz.) each

1 T. olive oil
1 T. butter

1/2 lb. sliced fresh mushrooms

1/2 medium onion, thinly sliced

1/4 C. chicken broth
1/2 t. salt

1/8 t. pepper

Mix cornstarch and milk until smooth. Pound chicken with a meat mallet to 1/4 inch thickness. In a large nonstick skillet, heat oil over medium heat; cook chicken until no longer pink, 5 to 6 minutes per side. Remove from pan. In the same pan, heat butter over medium-high heat; sauté mushrooms and onion until tender. Stir in chicken broth, salt, and pepper; bring to a boil. Stir cornstarch mixture and add to pan. Return to a boil; cook and stir until thickened, 1 to 2 minutes. Return chicken to pan; heat through.

Slow Cooker Pizza Casserole

Put this together in the morning, and you will have dinner when you get home. It will feed kids and adults alike. It is also a great dish to take to a potluck.

3 lbs. ground beef
1/2 C. chopped onion

1 jar (24 oz.) pasta sauce

2 jars (4 1/2 oz. each) sliced mushrooms, drained

1 t. salt
1/2 t. garlic powder

1/2 t. dried oregano
Dash of pepper

1 pkg. (16 oz.) wide egg noodles, cooked and drained

2 pkg. (3 1/2 oz.) sliced pepperoni

2 C. shredded cheddar cheese

2 C. shredded mozzarella cheese

In a Dutch oven, brown beef and onion over medium heat until meat is no longer pink; crumble beef and drain. Add the spaghetti sauce, mushrooms, salt, garlic powder, oregano, and pepper. Heat through.

Spoon half the mixture into a 5-quart slow cooker. Top with half the noodles, pepperoni, and cheese. Repeat layers. Cover and cook on low for 4 to 5 hours or until cheese is melted.

Slow Cooker Peach Crumble

Since I seem to be into slow cookers this week, this dessert is a great one to have at the end of the meal. Serve it with ice cream.

1 T. butter, softened
6 large ripe peaches, peeled and sliced (about 6 C.)

2 T. brown sugar
1 T. lemon juice

1 T. vanilla
2 T. coconut rum, optional

Topping:
1 C. flour

3/4 C. brown sugar
1 1/2 t. baking powder

1 t. cinnamon
1/2 t. baking soda
1/8 t. salt
1 C. old fashioned oats
6 T. cold butter, cubed
Grease a 6-quart oval slow cooker with 1 T. softened butter. Toss peaches with brown sugar, lemon juice, vanilla and if desired, rum. Spread evenly in slow cooker. Whisk together the 6 topping ingredients in a mixing bowl; stir in oats. Cut in butter until crumbly; sprinkle over peaches. Cook, covered, on low until peaches are tender, 3 to 4 hours. Serve warm with ice cream or whipped cream.

Final Thoughts

All the reports I received from the Lena Fall Festival were of record crowds and record fund raising. Thank you to all who worked so hard and for all of you who came and supported our town. Warren is gearing up for Pumpkin Festival and Elizabeth for their craft fair. The fall brings lots of opportunities to socialize, have fun, and buy once a year treats. Homecomings are also being celebrated. I can't believe that we have had three football games already, and volleyball seems to be charging ahead.

We are seeing beautiful apples in the store and in the orchards. I also had some wonderful peaches. One of my church friends has had a bumper crop of pears, and he shares them on Sundays. Don't you love it when there is great produce at a reasonable price? Send any recipes for the great fruits and vegetables of the season. If you have some recipes you would like to share, you can contact us in person, by mail at From Lena's Kitchens, The Shopper's Guide at 240 W. Main St. or email us at scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.

Illinois House Speaker's staff could test limits of Workers' Rights Amendment

Labor expert says it could be a hard legal argument to make

By Peter Hancock
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

Efforts to form a union by staff in House Speaker Emanuel "Chris" Welch's office could provide an early and unexpected test of the new Workers' Rights Amendment to the Illinois Constitution. Brady Burden, a staffer in the speaker's office who is part of the organizing committee of the Illinois Legislative Staff Association, said efforts to unionize have thus far been stymied by a provision in state law that specifically exempts the General Assembly from the Illinois Public Labor Relations Act.

But there is no such exemption in the Workers' Rights Amendment, approved by voters less than a year ago. That addition to the state's constitution provides, in part, that all employees have a "fundamental right" to organize and engage in collective bargaining over wages, hours and working conditions.

But at least one expert in Illinois labor law says relying on that amendment may be more difficult legally for the workers than it might first appear.

"Anytime this (constitutional amendment) is going to be litigated, if ever, it's going to require some degree of interpretation. It just will because it's just not clear," said Michael LeRoy, a professor at the University of Illinois College of Law and the School of Labor and Employment Relations. "It's not exactly clear what this means."

According to Burden, efforts to form a union began last year but they did not go public with their campaign until May. He said well over half of the 38 employees who would be part of the bargaining unit—analysts, researchers and people who work with legislators—have signed a petition calling to form a union, which would be enough for automatic recognition by most other public employers.

Among the issues they'd like to negotiate, Burden said, are wages and hours. He said the starting salary for Democratic House staffers is around $43,000 annually, which he said is significantly lower than comparable jobs in the Senate or even for House Republican staff. He also said they would like better compensation for overtime.

Legislative staff jobs are exempt from wage and hour laws, so those workers do not receive the standard time-and-a-half when they work more than 40 hours in a week—which they do routinely during legislative sessions. Instead, Burden said, they receive roughly one hour of comp time for every three hours of overtime they work.

But because current law specifically exempts the General Assembly from the definition of a "public employer," Burden said they are asking Welch to recognize their union voluntarily.

Welch's office, however, has said he prefers they hold an election because recognizing the union voluntarily would deny staff the chance to weigh in on which organization they'd like to represent them. Burden said that can't be done because of the exemption in current state law, leaving them with the options of voluntary recognition or a lawsuit. "It's in the Constitution. We have a right to organize," Burden said. "The only issue that we need, is that the speaker recognize the union."

LeRoy, however, said the Worker's Rights Amendment is actually vague on that issue because it's written in prospective terms, referring to future enactments by the state or local governments.

He said that although the first sentence of the amendment says employees have a fundamental right to organize, the next sentence says, "No law shall be passed that interferes with, negates, or diminishes" collective bargaining rights. "They use the term 'shall be.' That's future tense," he said. "It doesn't reach back. It doesn't say any law that has been enacted that interferes with collective bargaining is hereby nullified. It doesn't say that."

LeRoy said the purpose of the amendment was to prevent the enactment of so-called "right-to-work" laws at either the state or local level. Those are laws that say employers cannot require someone to be a member of a union as a condition of employment. "This constitutional amendment really grew out of the experience with (former Republican) Gov. Bruce Rauner, who really wanted to make Illinois a right-to-work state," he said. "That was a Democratic reaction to, or response to, (Rauner)."

LeRoy said that from a legal standpoint, he believes the Workers' Rights Amendment is not a convincing argument for those trying to form a union. But he added, "Politically, it is very convincing." "I mean, in effect, this is really calling out the Democratic-controlled General Assembly as a group of hypocrites," he said. "You're legislating for thee, not me. And I think in the court of public opinion, that's where this battle can be waged with a better chance of success."

Early mornings are the best

There isn't a better time of day than the mornings, if you ask me. My mornings start by making the rounds to serve up an early breakfast for all my animals around the farm. I'm quite sure that all farm animals are early risers, and they are always enthusiastic for breakfast, but the chickens are the earliest risers of all. My rooster is the guardian of my twenty or so hens and he starts crowing about four o'clock each day. I can hear him from our bedroom window the mornings that I am awake. When I go outside at about six the entire flock is up and ready to eat. I have four small feeders set up in the chicken yard and I fill each of them with a mixture of layer feed, shelled corn and a small scoop of oyster crumbles to keep their eggshells hard. They dive right into the feed and while they are eating, I clean and refill their water containers. Then I head down to the shed to load up hay in a small wagon that I pull behind my ATV for my sheep, ponies and beef cows and calves. I have three different pastures that these animals stay on and now that we are at the end of the growing season these pastures have slowed down their production significantly. So, I have started to feed a little a little hay to supplement their diet.

I start with the sheep and throw a chunk or two of hay on the grass for them to eat. They always come running over with a happy bleeet and baaaaa. This past year my five ewes gave me ten new lambs. Five were rams and five were ewe lambs. I butchered the rams and kept the ewe lambs giving me ten ewes all together. I think that's going to have to be my limit so next year I may have a few lambs to sell. They are sure fun to watch in the summer as they grow from little babies to big strong animals. I didn't know if I would like lamb chops and lamb steaks, but we grilled some up the other night and they were delicious.

After I finish feeding and talking to the sheep, I drive over and throw a couple chunks of hay to the ponies who dance and bob their heads up and down in anticipation as I get close. It seems that all the animals are always hungry, but then again so am I so that stands to reason. Now that I have taken care of the small animals it's time to head down the lane to the beef pasture and give them some feed and hay as well. We've learned over the years that feeding your cattle out on the pasture each day is a great way to keep them tamed down. I scratch their heads and pat them on the neck as they eat. The calves are always a little curious and like to sniff around me as I sit on the ATV and watch them eat at the bunk. This is my favorite time of the day for sure. When I get back to the house I sit down with a cup of coffee and read my Bible and morning devotions. God is sure good. In Psalm 31:19 we read, Oh how abundant is your goodness, which you have stored up for those who fear you, which you have prepared for those who take refuge in you, in the sight of the sons of men! Until next week, God bless!

Jo Daviess County 4-H to host Information Night

Illinois 4-H is the flagship youth program for the University of Illinois Extension and the largest out-of-school youth organization in Illinois. 4-H youth development programs in Jo Daviess County challenge youth to "learn by doing" with fun, hands-on activities. Kids can learn, practice, and demonstrate new skills while exploring the interests that are important to them. That could be anything from learning how to cook, build a robot, show livestock, or care for the environment. Members can explore these topics through 4-H experiences such as community clubs, special interest clubs, workshops, and more.

"You don't have to be a farmer or even come from an agriculture background to be in 4-H," says Angela Miller, 4-H Program Coordinator. "Illinois 4-H has over 100 projects for kids to choose from in the areas of animal science, career and leadership, civic engagement, creative arts, environment, food systems and healthy living, and STEM."

Families interested in learning more about 4-H are invited to attend a 4-H Information Night on Sunday, Oct. 1, at 4 p.m. at the Jo Daviess County Extension Office at 204 Vine Street, Elizabeth, IL. This event will be geared toward families that have heard about 4-H but want to learn more or know they want to join but still have many questions. "4-H has a lot to offer, so there is a lot to talk about," says Miller. "This will be an opportunity for families to ask me any questions they may have about the 4-H program in general and Jo Daviess County 4-H. I always love having an opportunity to talk about 4-H and what a great program it is!"

Families interested in attending the Information Night must RSVP by calling the Jo Daviess County Extension office at 815-858-2273 or by registering online at <https://go.illinois.edu/4-HInformationNight>. Illinois 4-H members range in age from 5 to 18, and we welcome everyone from all backgrounds and interests wherever you live.

Periodontal disease

Many parents are overscheduled, overburdened, overwhelmed and sleep deprived on a regular basis. This is compounded in those who are also taking care of elderly parents. While I understand the temptation to skip oral care for a few more minutes of sleep, there are several reasons why this may have a negative impact on your oral and overall health.

First and foremost, in order to be able to take care of others, you must maintain your own health. Think of it like when you are flying in a plane and the flight attendant tells you to put on your oxygen mask before you put it on your child. If you pass out from lack of oxygen, your child will not get the assistance they need. Having poor oral health makes it exceedingly difficult for you to retain the overall health and stamina needed to take care of your loved ones. Your daily oral hygiene routine keeps you healthy by removing bacteria and acids that can lead to inflammation and disease.

Plaque that is allowed

By
DR. STEPHEN PETRAS
Illinois Licensed
General Dentist

to remain in the mouth will begin to absorb the minerals found in saliva, transforming it from a soft, easily removable form into a hard substance called calculus. Once calculus is allowed to form, it cannot be removed by brushing and flossing. Unfortunately, it also forms a base for further plaque accumulation. This can cause your gums to become inflamed and pull away from your teeth, creating pockets where food and bacteria can become trapped, and your toothbrush and floss cannot reach. This inflammation of the gums, or gingivitis, is the first stage of periodontal disease. Left untreated, gingivitis can quickly lead to periodontitis, destruction of the tissues and bone that hold your teeth in place, and tooth loss. It also can lead to some very serious systemic conditions. Multiple research studies have implicated the oral bacteria in periodontal disease with autoimmune diseases, cardiovascular disease, respiratory disease, premature birth, low birth weight babies and hypertension. This is why one of the things that your dentist does during a routine dental exam is to screen you for periodontal disease. He or she will measure and record the space between each tooth and the gum line to map out your pocket depths. This record will be used in conjunction with your dental x-rays to both diagnose and plan treatment as needed. It will also be used to compare your progress at later exams.

The bacteria that cause periodontitis have been shown to enter the bloodstream and trigger inflammation in the blood vessels throughout your body including the heart and brain. Inflammation of the delicate lining of the blood vessels has been shown to trigger the formation of atherosclerosis and the narrowing of blood vessels which can lead to strokes. In turn, strokes and cardiac disease can suppress the immune system, which increases your chance of infection. Repeated exposure to bacteria in the blood has a cumulative effect that increases the progression of atherosclerosis, further inflammation, and clot formation. The American Stroke Association reports that large artery strokes involving intracranial atherosclerosis were twice as common in people with periodontal disease. In addition, people with periodontal disease were three times as likely to have a stroke involving blood vessels in the back of the brain.

It is always better to avoid disease rather than treat it. If your dentist diagnoses mild gum disease, called gingivitis, early and no structural damage exists below the gumline, a professional cleaning and a commitment to an effective daily removal of plaque through brushing and flossing should return your oral health.

If your dental exam shows large, deep pockets between your teeth and damage to the supporting structures, scaling and root cleaning may be prescribed. Scaling involves the removal of all the plaque and calculus down to the bottom of the pocket. Planing refers to smoothing off the root surfaces after they have been cleaned, so that the gingival tissues can heal and reattach to the tooth. Depending on the severity of each individual case, the procedure may need to be broken down into four sessions. Your dentist may also decide to use a laser to remove the inflamed tissue, apply a slow releasing antibiotic, use an ultrasonic scaler, prescribe antibiotics and/or a short-term antibiotic rinse. In severe cases, scaling and root planing may need to be followed up by periodontal surgery.

Pocket formation happens over time and the healing process will also require time. The amount will depend on the extent of damage that occurred before dental intervention. The most critical factor in healing is patient compliance. Maintaining the benefits of scaling and root planing depends on an excellent daily oral hygiene routine and ongoing periodontal maintenance visits.
