Nearly 9 in 10 state-level primaries give voters no choice in candidates

Data analysis shows March 19 primary is least competitive in at least 2 decades

By Andrew Adams

CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

On March 19, voting will conclude in primary contests for hundreds of seats in the Illinois legislature and in the state's court system. But most of those contests are uncompetitive.

Statewide, 88 percent of judicial and state legislative primaries feature either a single candidate or no one running at all. This is the highest number of uncompetitive primaries for those seats in at least 20 years, according to a Capitol News Illinois analysis of data going back to 2004.

The number of primaries with no candidates running at all is similar to years past, about 33 percent. But the number of primaries with a single person running has jumped to 55 percent, from 46 percent in 2020.

John Shaw, director of the Paul Simon Public Policy Institute, said Illinois' primary participation mirrors a national trend and is partially stoked by growing political polarization and state redistricting practices. The state process for drawing legislative districts is a partisan one by law, meaning many districts have been drawn in a way that favors one party over the other.

While that's made primaries increasingly important in districts that lean heavily in favor of one party over the other, it's also helped reinforce a trend of parties choosing not to run candidates in districts that were not drawn in their favor.

"The only battle is the primary," Shaw, a former congressional reporter, told Capitol News Illinois.

Shaw said the expectation of candidates to work across the aisle has decreased in recent decades, meaning that parties lean into ideology more.

"It is not good for governance when candidates run unopposed in a primary or general election," Shaw said.

For about 65 percent of state legislative and judicial seats, only one party's primary has any candidates running, with most of those primaries featuring a single candidate.

While many of those races will likely be uncompetitive in the general election as well, the number of contested seats could grow beyond what the primaries indicate via a political appointment process. The political parties have until June 3 to select a person to run on the party's behalf in races where the primaries did not produce a winning candidate. That person would be chosen by local party officials, such as county board chairs in downstate Illinois or ward committees in Chicago.

"It's not routine, but it's not unheard of," Illinois Board of Elections spokesperson Matt Dieterich said of the process.

Long-term trends

John Jackson, a professor at the Paul Simon Institute, said the stark divisions in party control are driven by party realignment and polarization, which have resulted in fewer candidates running on politically moderate platforms.

"That started nationally, then trickled down to state, even now to local," he said.

Jackson, who works at an institute founded by and named for a conservative Democratic senator, noted this trend only emerged in the past few decades.

"There used to be moderates in the Republican party and moderates in the Democratic party," Jackson said. "They were much more heterogeneous than they are."

JOSEPH SMECK

Joseph Samuel Smeck 81, of Lena, IL passed away peacefully at home on Saturday, March 2, 2024, with his family by his side. Joe was born Dec. 16, 1942, in Lena, IL, to Joe and Dorothy (Klinger) Smeck. He attended Lena Winslow High School and moved to Chicago shortly after graduation where he attended Barber School. At the age of 22 he enlisted in the US Army where he would go on to serve his country as a First Cavalry Military Police being stationed in Germany and in the Vietnam War. When he returned home, he worked as a barber in Chicago and he met his wife Ruth Jurdzy. They got married on April 12, 1969, in Freeport, IL.

everything related to the sound inside the stadiums to driving the 18-wheel mobile trucks from city to city. He worked at about every sports event one can think of and had the opportunity to go to the Olympics games in Montreal, Atlanta, Salt Lake City and Australia. Later he transitioned to Channel 5 in Chicago and was the lead operator of the satellite truck as well as a news photographer. This led to multiple Emmy awards for his work. He retired in 2004 and dedicated his time back to Lena to live on the farm with his Charolais beef cattle.

He had a great sense of humor and was a collector of all things, he loved his bargains and bulk buying, and enjoyed his pet cats, farming and traveling. He was always on the go. His favorite saying was, "Let's take a ride" and you know you would get the full tri

Supreme Court rules states can't bar Trump from ballot based on insurrection clause

High court says only Congress can enforce 14th Amendment

By Peter Hancock
CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled last week that individual states do not have authority to disqualify candidates for federal office based on the insurrection clause of the 14th Amendment.

The unanimous ruling by the nation's high court overturned a decision by the Colorado Supreme Court. But it also had implications in Illinois and other states where Trump had been accused of taking part in an insurrection during the events surrounding the assault on the U.S. Capitol on Jan. 6, 2021.

"We conclude that states may disqualify persons holding or attempting to hold state office," the court said in an unsigned opinion. "But states have no power under the Constitution to enforce Section 3 (of the 14th Amendment) with respect to federal offices, especially the Presidency."

That clause bars anyone from holding federal or state office if they previously took an oath to defend the Constitution and then later participated in an insurrection or rebellion against the United States or gave aid and comfort to its enemies.

Enacted in the aftermath of the Civil War, it was intended to prevent former Confederates who had served in government before the war from returning to positions of power, but it has rarely been used in the nearly 150 years since the end of Reconstruction.

There was renewed interest in the amendment in the wake of events on Jan. 6, 2021, when throngs of protesters—many of them arguably summoned to action by Trump and his allies—stormed the Capitol in an effort to prevent Congress from certifying the results of the 2020 elections in which Trump was defeated for reelection by Democrat Joe Biden.

When Trump filed to run again in 2024, challenges were filed in several states. In Illinois, a group of voters filed an objection to his candidacy in the March 19 Republican primary, arguing that he was disqualified under the 14th Amendment.

The Illinois State Board of Elections dismissed the objection, partially on the grounds that it did not have authority to decide constitutional questions. But a Cook County circuit judge reversed that decision and ordered Trump removed from the Illinois primary ballot, although she put her decision on hold pending further appeals in state courts as well as the pending U.S. Supreme Court decision.

When the nation's high court issued its decision, Ron Fein, legal director of the voting rights group Free Speech for People, which organized the ballot challenge in Illinois, called the ruling "disgraceful."

"The Supreme Court couldn't exonerate Trump because the evidence of his guilt was overwhelming, so instead the Justices neutered our Constitution's built-in defense against insurrectionists and said the facts don't matter," he said in a statement.

But Trump, in remarks at his Mar-a-Lago estate that were carried on CBS News, called the decision "important" and "well crafted."

"And I think it will go a long way toward bringing our country together which our country needs," he said.

The unanimous portion of the ruling did not address several questions such as whether Trump's actions on Jan. 6 constituted an insurrection or whether Section 3 of the 14th Amendment applies to the office of president. It only held that individual states are not empowered to enforce that provision because allowing them to do so could lead to conflicting opinions and wreak havoc on national elections.

"The 'patchwork' that would likely result from state enforcement would 'sever the direct link that the Framers found so critical between the National Government and the people of the United States' as a whole," the court said, quoting from an earlier Supreme Court decision.

Although the court was unanimous in saying states do not have authority to enforce Section 3 of the 14th Amendment, it was more divided on the question of how that provision could be enforced.

A majority on the court cited Section 5 of the amendment and said only Congress could enforce that provision through "appropriate legislation." But three justices who were nominated to their seats by Democratic presidents—Sonia Sotomayor, Elena Kagan, and Ketanji Brown Jackson—wrote a concurring opinion saying it was unnecessary to address Congress' powers or duties.

"Today, the majority goes beyond the necessities of this case to limit how Section 3 can bar an oath-breaking insurrectionist from becoming President," they wrote. "Although we agree that Colorado cannot enforce Section 3, we protest the majority's effort to use this case to define the limits of federal enforcement of that provision."

A fourth justice, Amy Coney Barrett, wrote separately that the opinion should have been limited to reversing the Colorado Supreme Court decision.

Weekly connection

The babies are coming

By SCOTT CERNEK
Columnist

We've had a bunch of new births on our farm this late winter although it feels like spring the last several weeks. It all started with some baby lambs that came along in early January. Two months later my six older ewes have given me nine surviving lambs. Along with all these baby lambs, our eighth granddaughter was born in February. Then a couple days ago as we moved into the month of March my young nanny goat gave birth to a set of twins. It was her first kidding, and the baby female is very tiny about half the size of her male brother. To top it off early this morning our youngest daughter and her husband welcomed their fourth child and our sixth grandson into the world. We had been blessed to have his three older siblings with us for three of the previous five nights. You see there were some false alarms, so we got to have some extra sleepovers. It's what keeps us young, I suppose. The great thing is that all of the moms and little ones are doing wonderfully. Now I'm excited about the upcoming births of my beef cows that should kick in over the next few weeks as well. We were joking that our son-in-law now has three sons to help run their arborist business someday. There won't be a tree left standing east of the Mississippi.

They can even jump off of all four legs at once. It is quite a thing to behold. Our grandkids were over yesterday for a birthday party, and they were out mingling with the sheep. When one of the grandkids got a little too close to the baby lambs one of the mommas turned and gave her a little head butt to let her know that she better keep her distance. It kind of startled my granddaughter and she quickly moved away.

It is so amazing the instincts that God has placed inside all moms. God has put inside a mom some wonderful instincts of protection and also of comfort. When our new granddaughter was crying yesterday and I couldn't seem to help, our daughter who wasn't even her mother took the baby in her arms and just started dipping and gently walking around almost like she was doing a silent dance. Instantly, the baby just calmed right down. Dads have some of those instincts too, but I think our greatest instincts come in teaching the little ones when they get a little older how to be tough. A good balance of a mom's tenderness and dad's strength help a child develop with a good sense of who God has created them to be. It's when things get out of balance that confusion sets in. Psalm 104:24 reads, "What a wildly, wonderful world, God! You made it all, with Wisdom at your side, made earth overflow with your wonderful creations."

Speaking of these baby lambs, it is so fun to watch them racing around in a pack of nine dancing and prancing all over the pasture. Even some of last year's ewe lambs join in with the newborns running and jumping. We can look right out the windows of the house and watch them anytime we want. They are so entertaining. Sometimes they jump right up in the air about three feet off the

Letter to the editor

I have had the pleasure to serve you on the Jo Daviess County Board for many years (Thompson Township for six years and for the last three years for Elizabeth and Woodbine Townships). I have always tried to listen to what people say and then "thus you will recognize them by their fruits" (Matt. 7:20). Words are easy to say but backing your words with action speak louder than any spoken word. You have the opportunity to vote on March 19 for my replacement on the county board. Mike Dittmar is one of the candidates running on the Republican ticket for county board district #13. I have watched Mike as mayor of Elizabeth since 2009 and have seen his passion for our county and our Village. When he is able, he backs his words up with action. Elizabeth has grown and supported many businesses (Dollar General, Elizabeth Business Hub, Antique Mall and Lola's Deli), fixed internal streets and water/sewer infrastructure, secured grants for many projects like the Main St. sidewalk replacement and splash park, and increased community spirit through our local festivals and the wonderful community park for our children. These are all actions that went into place under Mike's Mayorship. If you like action behind the words, less government involvement, a more business friendly county, more community spirit, more county improvements without undue burden on us citizens, and you would like a person that will serve with the passion that

Mike has for our future, our kids, our village, our county, and our home, I hope you will join me in support for Mike Dittmar running for County Board District #13.

week, Gov. JB Pritzker said he believed Trump remaining on the ballot would be a net positive for Democrats in Illinois. "We're going to win here in Illinois and beat Donald Trump and, I think I said yesterday or the day before, I think it will help Democrats that he's on the ballot," Pritzker said. David Becker, executive director of the nonpartisan Center for Election Innovation & Research, said the decision effectively put an end to state-level challenges to Trump's candidacy based on the 14th Amendment. But he said the issue will almost certainly come up again if Trump wins the general election in November.

"The one place where I think this is likely to come up is on Jan. 6, (2025)," he said. "If Donald Trump wins, I think we can absolutely expect that there will be members of Congress who will object to his electoral votes—perhaps in many, many states—on the basis that he's not a qualified candidate, because he violated section three of the 14th Amendment."

Farm toys wanted

We need to replenish our farm toys used at Farm Fun Days this summer and thought who better to ask than our members. If you have gently used farm toys that are no longer being used, we would love to put them to good use. We would rather bring new life to old toys than buy new. If you can help us out, please drop them off at our office. Thank you in advance!

Apple River State Bank shows community spirit with mascot debit cards

When Apple River State Bank introduced its new Mascot Debit Card last year, they promised to donate money to our local schools each time our customers used it. The first annual Mascot Debit Card donations were recently given to seven area schools (Galena, River Ridge, Scales Mound, Stockton, Warren, Southwestern, and Darlington) in the amount of $2,844.

Shullsburg (WI) and South

Wayne (WI) schools will soon join the program. For anyone that hasn't requested a Mascot Debit Card, they are encouraged to contact their local bank office.

"We are excited to show Apple River State Bank's community spirit by using our new mascot debit cards," said Joel Holland, the bank's Chief Executive Officer. "Let's work together and support our local schools!"

Northwest Illinois Economic Development hosts annual meeting

Northwest Illinois Economic Development (NWILED) hosted their Annual Meeting for 2024 celebrating the organization's 15th anniversary on Thursday, Feb. 22, 2024, at Timmerman's Supper Club in East Dubuque. The sold-out event gathered about 145 stakeholders from 47 different local and regional organizations and involved a NWILED Board of Directors meeting, business spotlights, guest speaker remarks, and the organization's annual Collaboration Awards.

During the NWILED Board of Directors meeting Marisa Kappes of TBK Bank and Susan Jacobs of the Carroll County Board were elected for a three-year term, while Diane Gallagher of the Jo Daviess County Board and Tiffany Brandt of Dupaco Community Credit Union were reelected for additional three-year term. NWILED's 2024 Officers were also elected to serve on the organization's Executive Committee. David Schmit, NWILED Regional Director, closed the business portion of the program with remarks about the successes NWILED experienced in 2023 and gave a preview of the organization's planned programming for 2024. He also announced the public release of NWILED's 2023 Annual Report, which is available in both English and Spanish at www.NWILED.org.

To showcase NWILED's ongoing Made in NW Illinois business spotlight series, representatives from Carroll Industrial Molds and EVS Hobbies USA in Milledgeville and Clara Joyce Flowers of rural Stockton were invited to share details about their operations. The Illinois Finance Authority also spoke about their role in bringing their C-PACE program to the region.

The evening ended with NWILED's Collaboration Awards. The 2024 recipients were:

- Member of the Year award went to Highland Community College
- Board Member of the Year award went to Joseph Mattingley
- Community of the Year award went to Mount Carroll, Illinois

"NWILED would like to acknowledge the ongoing support members Conlon Construction, Illinois Bank and Trust, JCE Cop, and Jo Daviess County give to NWILED," said NWILED Regional Director, David Schmit. "We also appreciated the assistance Amy May Photography and Timmerman's Supper Club gave that helped make the evening successful."

Hornets hoping bats can lead the way through early learning curve

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Scales Mound-River Ridge Hornets are prepping for another challenging softball season. After going just 7-18 last year, the Hornets are hoping to build off what they did late in the season. Despite the disappointing overall record, SM-RR went 4-1 through a late five-game stretch. That came just before a regional battle against the East Dubuque Warriors, which saw the Hornets fall 12-8. Although the record wasn't pretty and the Hornets lost a good chunk of that team, they are still hoping that late run can spark something from the program.

The Hornets will look like a very different team in 2024. After losing Emily Wurster, Sophie Buck, Cora Dittmar, Garrett Pickel, Hanna Reddington, and Mickayla Bass, the Hornets have some shoes to fill. Bass leaves behind a big hole as she now plays at Sauk Valley CC.

SM-RR will have to let their returning players lead the way as the rest of the lineup gets accustomed. Senior shortstop Amie Richmond should be expected to take on one of those leadership roles. Richmond has already been a leader of the program. Last year, Richmond earned a First Team All-Conference selection as she hit .413 with a pair of homeruns. Richmond is also a problem on the basepaths with 18 stolen bags last year.

The Hornets are solid up the middle, especially behind home plate where senior Millie Boden sits. Boden was a Second Team All-Conference selection last year as she hit .357 with a team leading seventeen runs batted in. Boden also had eight doubles and two homers on the year.

Sarah Winter also returns as a promising sophomore infielder. As a freshman, Winter hit .354 and tied Boden with 17 RBI. Winter had 28 hits in her first varsity season and she is expected to build off that as a sophomore.

Additionally, the Hornets will return senior outfielder Evelyn Walters and junior infielder-pitcher Laiken Haas. Last year, Haas hit .312 with 13 RBI. She is also expected to make another jump this year. Walters provides the team with another steady, yet exciting bat. Despite hitting .270 with 17 hits last year, seven of those were for extra bases. The Hornets would probably like to see Walters be more consistent at the plate, however her bat provides a spark when the team needs it.

SM-RR head coach Kate Bingham is in her seventh season as varsity coach. When asked about the team's strengths and weaknesses this year, it's easy to see why he plans to rely on their bats early on. Defensively, the Hornets are left with a bunch of holes that need to be filled. In the box, however, the Hornets will sport another exciting lineup that can put the ball in play.

"This is going to leave some major holes defensively," Bingham said when talking about last year's graduating class. "We graduated a few key players from our field last year that will be tough to replace. As we begin our season, we will need some of our underclassmen to step up and fill those roles. If our pitchers are able to throw strikes, our defense will have a better chance of success. Amie, Evelyn, and Millie will be our leaders on the field, with Laiken carrying the weight on the pitcher's mound," Bingham explained.

That's why the Hornets plan to rely on their offensive play to carry the team through the early part of the season. Bingham is confident in the team's bats and their ability to get on base. On Richmond, Walters, and Boden, Bingham explained, "They are athletes that put in a lot of time outside of our season and I expect their bats to show it."

Bingham also expects Haas and Winter to be reliable in the box. "My hope is that our bats will keep us competitive in games until we settle in and find our groove defensively."

This year's SM-RR campaign begins on Thursday, March 14 when the Hornets travel to take on the Oregon Hawks at 4:15 p.m. SM-RR's first home game isn't scheduled until March 19 when they play host to Southwestern at 4:30 p.m. The Hornets return home the next day to face off with the Lena-Winslow Panthers at the same time.

In Illinois, that's led to stark partisan divides that also fall squarely along urban-rural lines. The city of Chicago remains the center of Democratic power in a democratically controlled state. Republicans have few primary candidates in the city and no serious challengers to most Democrats running.

Rural Illinois, meanwhile, remains almost unrepresented by the state's Democratic party in the legislature or on the bench, with few Democratic candidates filing to run on rural primary ballots.

Only one legislative seat is competitive for both Democrats and Republicans: the 76th House District. This district contains most of the city of DeKalb as well as stretches of DeKalb, LaSalle and Bureau counties. The district's current representative, Rep. Lance Yednock, D-Ottawa, is not running for reelection, and two Republicans and three Democrats are vying to replace him.

The legislative primaries that have drawn the most candidates include two four-way Democratic contests in the Chicago area. The primary for the 20th Senate District in Chicago, a seat currently held by Sen. Natalie Toro, D-Chicago, is Toro's first senate race. She was appointed to the seat last summer to fill out the remainder of former Sen. Cristina Pacione-Zayas' term after she resigned to take a position with the city of Chicago.

In the House, the south suburban 79th District also features four Democrats vying for the seat. The district has been represented by a Republican since 2016 and is currently held by Rep. Jackie Haas, R-Kankakee.

The 53rd Senate District Republican primary also drew four candidates. That seat is currently held by Sen. Tom Bennett, R-Gibson City, who is not running for reelection. He was appointed to the seat early last year after serving in the state House.

Judicial elections getting more attention, low competition

While there are primaries for 82 judicial positions across the state, about 85 percent of them feature either one or no candidate on the ballot. Just over half feature a single candidate across both major party primaries.

Part of this is due to the high number of races in Cook County, a very Democratic area which operates the second largest court system in the nation.

But the low number of interested candidates can be partially explained by shifting career goals among lawyers, according to Eizabeth Monkus, senior research attorney at the nonprofit judicial reform advocacy group Chicago Appleseed Center.

"People come into the profession with different goals than they used to," Monkus said.

Monkus noted that there are more people interested in what she called "movement lawyering," where a person furthers political and social goals through legal advocacy, rather than working as a trial lawyer or working on criminal cases.

"If you're working to change the world, judges have less power to do that than you might expect," Monkus said.

But judicial elections are important because of their impacts on a local, often personal, level, where Monkus said judges' decisions can have a "long and lasting" impact.

Monkus noted that since she began working in judicial elections over a decade ago, people are more aware of judicial elections than they used to be, despite the relatively low number of candidates in any given race. She attributed that to increased voter interest, more campaigning in high-profile races and more thorough news coverage.

The most high-stakes judicial primary this year is the battle over one of the state's Supreme Court seats from the 1st District in Cook County.

That race features Joy V. Cunningham running to keep the seat she was appointed to in 2022 against Jesse G. Reyes, an appellate court judge who also ran in 2020 in a heated seven-way primary for the seat currently held by P. Scott Neville. Reyes came in second in that race with 20.3 percent of the vote to Neville's 26.2 percent.

As with most judicial races this year, it's a one-party race at this point. No Republicans are currently running for the seat on the state's highest court.

When life changes, Let's review your goals.

Scales Mound athletes sign letters of intent to compete at the next level

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The class of 2024 is a special one for the Scales Mound School District, especially in athletics where the class recently had three athletes sign their letters of intent to play at the next level. On Wednesday, March 6 the Hornets held a signing event in their main gymnasium. That day, Anna Wentz, Annie Werner, and Thomas Hereau made clear their plans for post high school.

Wentz and Werner will both be playing volleyball at the collegiate level. Just last year, Wentz and Werner led Scales Mound volleyball to a 20-win season. Werner led the team in kills with 263 and aces with 34. She did that all while missing some time in the season. Wentz was the team's next leading scorer with 118 kills on the year. Wentz also had 307 digs and led the team with 438 serve receptions.

Over the last three years, Wentz and Werner each played a vital role in making Scales Mound Volleyball a winning program. After going 11-24 in 2021 and 13-

18 in 2022, the Hornets saw their best volleyball season in years.

Wentz and Warner's play didn't go unnoticed as they both earned the opportunity to play at the collegiate level. Wentz recently signed her letter of intent to play volleyball at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse. Just after, Werner signed her name to play volleyball at Loras College. The duo's prints will be left on the Scales Mound program for years to come.

To conclude the event, Scales Mound had one of their all-time athletes in the gym. Thomas Hereau's senior year has been loaded with excitement. After capturing his 1A Golf State Championship, Hereau went on to be named the NUIC-West's Most Valuable Basketball Player. Now, Hereau turns his focus to the next level as he signed his letter of intent to play golf at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Congratulations to these three Scales Mound seniors, all of whom changed the status of Scales Mound athletics for the better.

Orangeville-Aquin hoping for strength on baseball diamond

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

Bronco baseball is entering a new era as they begin the first year of their Orangeville-Aquin coop this season. With a pair of players coming over from Aquin and a deep returning class, the Broncos are hoping to have strength in numbers in 2024.

Orangeville-Aquin head coach Josh Fahs is excited for the new coop. Fahs, who also coaches varsity basketball, just led said basketball program through the first year of their respective coop. Now, Fahs will do it all over again as the Broncos welcome Aquin to their baseball program.

For the first year of the coop, Aquin is providing two players that Fahs is extremely excited about. Anthony Garcia and Colton Veruchi are a pair of Aquin juniors who joined the program this year. "I'm excited for the players we have joining us from Aquin. Both Anthony and Colton have good arms, should pitch some games for us, and have good speed and versatility," Fahs shared.

Garcia and Veruchi will provide the Broncos with a ton of relief in their defensive lineups. When Garcia isn't pitching, he plays shortstop and outfield. Veruchi can play second, third, outfield, and pitch.

Those two join a strong group of returning starters. The Broncos finished with a disappointing record of just 2-21 last season, but they had just two seniors on the roster in Mitch Soddy and Karsen Henneman. It was also Fahs's second year at the helm of the program.

This year, Fahs and six returning starters are back to continue building what they started last year. Junior Boden Gustafson returns for the Broncos as a pitcher-catcher-first baseman. Senior Adam Setterstrom returns as a first baseman-outfielder-catcher. Junior Zach White is back in the outfield and sophomore Kayden Pfeiffer is back as an outfielder-second baseman-shortstop. Sophomore Blake Komproood returns to play second, third, and outfield. Junior Mason Conrow also returns as a second baseman.

It's easy to see why the Broncos will rely on versatility and depth this year. Should they suffer any injuries, Fahs should have plenty of options to fix the lineup. Multiple players with experience in different positions should benefit the Broncos this year. "Compared to the last two years, we have way more players with baseball experience, versatility, and skill," Fahs explained.

The 2024 Broncos will have plenty of varsity experience, but they still have a lot of work to do if they want to turn the program around. For Fahs, that starts on the pitching mound. "Pitching should be a lot stronger this year than the last two years with more arms and stronger arms, but it will still need to be our biggest improvement for us to start winning more games," Fahs shared. "Defense will have to be much improved from the last two years to help keep us in games, as we are not going to win many slug-fests."

On top of all the experienced players, the Broncos are also bringing in a compelling class of freshmen who should get opportunities at the varsity level. "I'm also very excited for our incoming class of five freshman who have all played a good amount of baseball. Several of them should contribute at the varsity level this season," Fahs said of the class. That class includes Nathan Briggs, who can pitch and play both corners of the infield. Mathew Soddy is also expected to get opportunities as he plays second, third, and pitches. Additionally, the Broncos add senior Gavin Roth as a pitcher-catcher-third baseman.

Orangeville-Aquin's 2024 campaign is set to begin on Monday, March 18 when they travel to take on Warren-Stockton at 4:30 p.m. The Broncos' home opener is the next day when they host Milledgeville at 4:30 p.m.

Lady Broncos return loaded roster for 2024 softball season

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Orangeville-Aquin Broncos look to be one of the premier softball teams in Northwestern Illinois. After a 30-win season and losing just one player to graduation, the 2024 Broncos just might be one of the top teams in all of Illinois.

Leah Baker was the lone senior on last year's Bronco squad which finished 30-3 overall. The same Bronco team that captured another conference championship, a regional championship, and won a sectional. Baker leaves behind some big shoes to fill, but the Broncos return a plethora of talent that can handle the job.

First and foremost, the Broncos are led by their hall of fame coach Lon Scheuerell. In his 23rd season, Scheuerell's career coaching record is 487-191. This year, Scheuerell will have one of his most experienced squads as the Broncos look to make another deep run.

Leading the way on the field are a pair of seniors in Megan Holder and Meghan Carlisle. Last year, Holder was a First Team All-State Shortstop after being on Second Team in 2022. Holder has also been a First Team All-Conference selection the past two seasons. Carlisle was a Second Team All-State Catcher last season, Third Team All-Conference in 2022, and First Team All-Conference the past two seasons. Together, Holder and Carlisle hold down two of the main positions on the field.

There is no shortage of talent behind Holder and Carlisle. The Broncos also return sophomore Second Team All-Conference center fielder Anicka Kraft. Senior Second Team All-Conference first baseman Hanna Broge also returns. At second base, Junior Second Team All-Conference player Addison Wheeler is back. Senior infielder Laney Holland also returns off a Second Team All-Conference selection. Senior outfielder Isabelle Talbert returns off an Honorable Mention pick last season. In 2022, Talbert was Second Team All-Conference. Finally in the outfield, senior Ava Theisen returns.

Not only are the Broncos loaded with All-Conference talent, but they are basically the same team from last year. The expectations should be through the roof for the Broncos. Additionally, Orangeville-Aquin will have a deep group of newcomers.

Six different juniors join the varsity level in infielder Alaina Dinderman, utility Alex Schmidt, outfielder Britta Bissel, outfielder Emmory Thrusman, first baseman Olivia Schroeder, and utility Katie Fryer. They also have a trio of sophomores in infielder Kylie Wolfe, outfielder Lily Rodebaugh, and outfielder Jada Reed.

When Scheuerell was asked about this team's strengths, it was no surprise that he spoke about experience. "We are a very experienced team with eight starters returning from a team that lost in the Super-sectional last year. Our lineup should be able to score runs. Our team also has more depth this year with a strong incoming freshman and sophomore class of players that could fill in positions when necessary," Scheuerell shared.

Stephenson and Carroll County Farm Bureau news

By Victoria Hansen

The Carroll and Stephenson County Farm Bureaus are excited to announce our partnership to offer the second year of our pollinator seed sale program. Both counties are now accepting orders of one-pound bags of pollinator seed. The seed mix includes Alaska Shasta, Black-eyed Susan, Butterfly Milkweed, Candytuft, Dwarf Godetia, Dwarfed Mixed Cosmos, Gayfeather, Illinois Bundleflower, Indian Blanket, Lance-leaved Coreopsis, New England Aster, Pincushion Flower (Imperial Mix), Purple Coneflower, Purple Prairie Clover, Rocket Larkspur (Imperial Mix), Round-headed Bush Clover, Siberian Wallflower, Sweet William Pinks, Tall White Sweet Alyssum, and Zinnia 'Dahlia Flowered Mix'.

Orders will be accepted until April 8 with delivery the end of April/early May. The price for Farm Bureau members is $25/pound and $30/pound for non-members. There is a limit of 5lbs per order (roughly one-acre's worth). Seed supplies are limited, so place your orders early! To place an order call or stop by your County Farm Bureau: Carroll County 815-244-3001 or Stephenson County 815-232-3186. This program is made possible with support from Illinois Farm Bureau, Growmark, Carroll Service Company and Stephenson Service Company.

Wisconsin State Fair Bus Trip

Our Trip to the Wisconsin State Fair is less than five months away. On Aug. 8, 2024, the Carroll and Stephenson County Farm Bureaus will travel to the Wisconsin State Fair. The trip will begin with a 7 a.m. pick up at the Carroll County Farm Bureau building in Mt. Carroll and then a secondary pickup at the Freeport Walmart at 7 a.m. We will arrive at the Wisconsin State Fairgrounds around 10 a.m. and depart at 4 p.m., arriving at the Freeport Walmart around 6 p.m. and the Carroll County Farm Bureau around 6 p.m.

The cost for Farm Bureau members is $60 and non-members is $75. Trip cost includes transportation, all gratuities and water on the bus. Fair admission not included. The deadline to reserve your spot is July 19. Reserve your spot by calling either County Farm Bureau; Carroll County 815-244-3001 or Stephenson County at 815-232-3186.

Event space to rent

With graduation right around the corner, don't wait to book your event at the Carroll or Stephenson County Farm Bureau buildings. Rooms start as low as $100. Summer Saturdays and Sundays are limited. Call the Farm Bureau of your choice for availability and to learn more about the rental process. Carroll County Farm Bureau 815-244-3001 or Stephenson County Farm Bureau at 815-232-3186.

ISP Troop 1 announces monthly activity for February

Illinois State Police Troop 1 Captain Joseph Blanchette has announced enforcement figures and activity for February.

ISP Troop 1 troopers issued 1,312 citations, 1,837 written warnings, and made 29 criminal arrests during the month of February. They issued 411 citations for speeding, 39 citations for distracted driving violations and 97 citations for occupant restraint violations.

It's not often that a high school softball team can enter a season with limited questions. Most teams and coaches are trying to find their new identity as they look Troopers investigated 48 traffic crashes, assisted 277 motorists, and conducted 540 commercial motor vehicle inspections, of which 61 were placed out-of-service for safety reasons. There were 21 arrests for driving under the influence.

Troop 1, which encompasses Boone, Carroll, Jo Daviess, Lee, Ogle, Stephenson, Whiteside and Winnebago counties, investigated no fatal traffic crashes in February.

to replace a handful of players and deal with position changes. The Broncos really only have one question however, and that is, "Who can replace Leah Baker in the pitcher's circle?" Scheuerell spoke a bit about that challenge saying, "We will need to replace conference MVP last year Leah Baker in the pitcher circle. Laney Holland and Addyson Wheeler will be counted on to fill in for Baker." Holland went 8-1 from the circle last year, and Scheuerell has big expectations for her. "She will be counted on to throw a significant amount of innings," Scheuerell said of Holland. "Defensively, we will be looking for someone to step in and play third base this year since Laney will be pitching more."

Orangeville-Aquin is set to begin this year's campaign on March 14 when they play host to Polo at 4:30 p.m. No worries if you can't make it, the Broncos return home on March 16 to host Amboy at 11 a.m.

The not so skinny cook

We certainly had our share of wind and rain last week. The warm weather stayed with us which is probably why we had storms. We are approaching the middle of March and St. Patrick's Day. There are some great Irish recipes this week for you all to try. Even if you aren't Irish, you will want to try some of them. Have a great cooking week!

1 can (8 oz.) sauerkraut, rinsed and drained
1 C. sour cream
1 C. shredded Swiss cheese
¼ C. Thousand Island salad dressing
Rye rounds or crackers
In a 1½ qt. slow cooker, combine the corned beef, cream cheese, sauerkraut, sour cream, shredded Swiss, and salad dressing. Cook on low for two hours or until cheese is melted. Stir until blended. Serve with rye rounds or crackers.

Green St. Patrick's Day Jell-O

This salad is a refreshing gelatin with a little zip and a delicious creamy taste. It looks great in a trifle bowl or a pretty glass bowl.
2 C. lemon-lime soda
2 pkgs. (3 oz. each) lime Jell-O
6 oz. cream cheese, softened
2 C. lemon-lime soda, chilled
1 carton (12 oz.) Cool Whip, thawed
Microwave 2 C. soda on high until hot, one to two minutes. Place hot soda and Jell-O in a blender; cover and process until gelatin is dissolved. Add cream cheese; process until blended. Transfer to a large bowl; stir in chilled soda. Whisk in Cool Whip. Pour into a 3-quart trifle bowl or glass bowl. Refrigerate, covered, until firm, about 4 hours.

Corned Beef and Cabbage Pizza

If you are tired of the traditional corned beef and cabbage meal for St. Patrick's Day, you might want to try this nontraditional dish. You can buy corned beef in the deli by the pound and have it sliced to your desired width.

1 lb. Yukon gold potatoes (2 to 4), very thinly sliced
2 T. extra-virgin olive oil
Salt and pepper
4 C. very thinly sliced green cabbage
Flour for dusting
Prepared pizza crusts
1 C. shredded white cheddar cheese
½ C. shredded mozzarella cheese
4 oz. cooked corned beef, chopped
Fresh parsley and grated Parmesan for topping Preheat the oven to 475. Line two baking sheets with parchment paper. Toss the sliced potatoes with 1 T. olive oil and a pinch of salt and pepper. Spread the potatoes out on the pans and bake until tender, 8 to 10 minutes. When cool enough to handle, remove the potatoes and place on a plate.

Heat the remaining 1 T. olive oil in a large nonstick skillet over medium-high heat. Add the cabbage and a pinch of salt and pepper. Cook over medium-high heat, stirring occasionally, until tender but not brown, five to seven minutes. Remove from the heat. If necessary, place flour on counter and roll pizza dough to fit a pizza pan. Place pizza dough on a pizza pan. Scatter the cheddar to the edge of the dough. Top with a layer of potatoes and then top with mozzarella, cabbage, and corned beef. Bake until the crust is golden brown and the cheese is melted and bubbly, about 10 to 12 minutes. Top with parsley and parmesan; cut into wedges or pieces.

Modern Tuna Casserole in a Skillet

Our Lenten selection for the week is another version of the tuna casserole. Tuna is very economical compared to a lot of other kinds of fish. This dish has pasta, tuna, and vegetables; it is a perfect whole meal in a skillet.

3 T. butter, divided
4 medium carrots, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 medium sweet red pepper, chopped
1 C. sliced mushrooms
2 cans (5 oz. each) white tuna in water, drained and flaked
2 C. fresh baby spinach
1 C. frozen peas
3 C. uncooked spiral pasta
1 T. flour
2/3 C. chicken broth
1/3 C. half-and-half cream
½ C. shredded Parmesan cheese
¾ t. salt
¼ t. pepper
In a large skillet, heat 1 T. butter over medium-high heat. Add carrots, onion, red pepper, and mushrooms. Cook and stir until tender, eight to ten minutes. Add tuna, spinach, and peas. Cook until spinach is just wilted, two to three minutes.

Cook pasta according to package directions for al dente. Drain pasta, reserving 1 C. pasta water. Place pasta and tuna mixture in a large bowl; toss to combine. Wipe skillet clean. In the same skillet, melt remaining butter over medium heat. Stir in flour until smooth; gradually whisk in broth and cream. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; cook and stir until thickened, one to two minutes, adding reserved pasta water if needed. Stir in parmesan cheese, salt, and pepper. Pour over pasta; toss to coat.

Criminal Sexual Assault charges

The Jo Daviess County State's Attorney, Chris Allendorf, would like to inform the public of the following information. Alycia J. Deckert, 42, Scales Mound, was charged by State's Attorney's Information on March 4, 2024, in Jo Daviess County Circuit Court for the 15th Judicial Circuit with two counts of Criminal Sexual Assault and two counts of Aggravated Criminal Sexual Abuse. All of the charges are Class 1 felonies and are based on the age of the victim, as well as Deckert holding a position of trust or authority in relation to the victim.

These charges stem from an investigation by the Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Office and the Elizabeth Police Department into a report that Deckert, employed as a paraprofessional with a local school, engaged in a sexual relationship with a 17-year-old juvenile student. Deckert was taken into custody on an arrest warrant issued for the charges. She is being held in the Jo Daviess County Jail pending the outcome of a pre-trial detention hearing pursuant to the provisions of the Illinois Safe-T Act.

The Jo Daviess County Sheriff's Office is handling this ongoing investigation. The Elizabeth Police Department and the Jo Daviess County State's Attorney's Office are providing assistance. The State's Attorney would like to remind the public that all persons charged are presumed innocent until proven guilty in court.

Domestic violence incident leads to weapons arrest

On March 7, 2024, Freeport Police Officers responded to a call for service involving an incident of Domestic Violence between a male and female in the 800 block of W. Avon Street. During the course of the investigation, Officer learned the 33-year-old suspect and resident of Freeport, Marquis Chatman, physically injured the female victim and threatened her with a firearm. Officers were able to find Chatman inside of the residence and discovered an unloaded semi-automatic pistol in close proximity to where he was located. Chatman was taken into custody without incident.

A felony charge of Unlawful Use of a Weapon by a Felon and a misdemeanor charge of Domestic Battery were approved for Chatman by the Stephenson County State's Attorney. Chatman was transported to the Stephenson County Jail where he is being held pending the outcome of a detention hearing. The public is reminded that the defendant is presumed innocent and is entitled to a fair trial, at which the government has the burden of proving guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

Irish Cream Chocolate Bundt Cake

As most of my readers know, I love Bundt Cakes. I am not a real cake lover, but Bundt cakes are the exception. This beautiful cake is moist and delicious. It is beautiful on a cake stand or a fancy plate.

- 2 1/3 C. flour
- 1/4 C. unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1 1/4 t. baking powder
- 1/2 t. baking soda
- 1 1/4 C. butter, softened
- 2 1/2 C. sugar

- 5 eggs
- 2 t. vanilla
- 3/4 C. brewed coffee, cooled
- 1/2 C. sour cream
- 1 1/4 C. heavy cream
- 1/3 C. powdered sugar
- 1/2 C. Bailey's Irish Cream liqueur
- Green concentrated food coloring
- 1/3 C. chocolate chips

Preheat oven to 350. Butter and flour a 12 C. Bundt pan. In a mixing bowl, mix flour, cocoa, baking powder, 1 t. salt and baking soda. Set aside. In a mixing bowl, beat the butter and sugar until creamy, two to three minutes. On low, beat in eggs, one at a time; add vanilla and beat. Beat in coffee and sour cream. Add flour mixture slowly and combine with butter mixture until all the flour has been combined. Transfer to Bundt pan. Bake until pick inserted comes out with moist crumbs, about 50 minutes. Let cool 20 minutes. Transfer from pan to a baking rack; let cool.

Beat 1 C. cream and powdered sugar to stiff peaks.

Fold in 1/4 C. liqueur; tint mixture green. Cover and chill. Transfer cake to serving plate or cake stand. Insert toothpicks all around the side of the cake 1 inch below the top. Using toothpicks as a guide, cut off in one piece the top; reserve. Insert toothpicks into cut cake top 1/2 inch from inside and outside edges. Using picks as a guide, vertically cut 1/4 inch deep ring into cake. Cut ring in chunks, leaving about 1 inch of cake in the bottom layer; scoop out. Reserve chunks for another use. Spoon whipped cream into cake tunnel. Replace top. Cover and chill at least 1 hour. In a microwave safe bowl, microwave chips, remaining cream and remaining liqueur in 15 second intervals, stirring until smooth. Let cool slightly; spoon over cake.

Mint Baileys Bars

If you aren't into cake and want something simpler for your St. Patrick's Day dessert, this bar recipe is tasty and unique. Enjoy these bars that put some jazz in traditional brownies. You can buy the different chocolate chips at most grocery stores.

- 3/4 C. butter, cubed
- 1 C. 6 oz. chocolate chips
- 3/4 C. sugar
- 2 eggs, plus 1 egg yolk, room temperature
- 1 t. vanilla
- 1 C. flour
- 1/3 C. baking cocoa
- 1/2 t. salt
- 1 C. mint baking chips
- Topping
- 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
- 2 C. sugar
- 1/4 C. Baileys Irish cream liqueur
- 1 egg plus 1 egg white, room temperature

Preheat oven to 350. Line an 8-inch baking pan with parchment paper, letting ends extend up sides. Spray with cooking spray. In a large microwave-safe bowl, microwave butter and chocolate chips on high until butter is melted, about 60 seconds. Stir until chocolate is melted. Whisk in sugar. Cool slightly.

Whisk in eggs and yolk, one at a time and add vanilla until blended. Stir in flour, baking cocoa and salt; fold in mint chips. Spread into prepared pan.

Topping: in a large bowl, beat cream cheese and sugar until smooth. Beat in Baileys. Add egg and egg white; beat on low speed just until blended. Pour over brownie layer. Bake until center is almost set, 45 to 50 minutes. Cool one hour on a wire rack. Refrigerate at least three hours or overnight. Lifting with parchment, remove brownies from pan. Cut into 1-inch squares.

Final Thoughts

I can't believe that we are getting close to Easter. St. Patrick's Day is almost here, and I have hardly had my decorations up before it is time for bunnies!

There are still some Lenten Luncheons at the Evangelical Free Church on Wednesdays. On March 13 Gone Fishin' will be performing and on March 20 Steve Sheffey will play his trumpet and sing. They are at noon at the church. If you have questions, contact Barb Wire at 815-757-4267.

Spring baseball training is in full force, and baseball season begins before Easter. Time is going fast. The spring flowers have started to bloom because of this warm weather. I hope they are hardy enough to stand up to what probably will be a cold spell in April or even May. We have a lot of corned beef and cabbage meals in restaurants around our area if you don't want to make your own. Check them out because they usually give you enough to have some the next day! Support your local restaurants and grocery stores.

We are looking for Easter recipes because it is really early this year, so send some favorites our way. If you find some recipes to share, you can contact us in person, by mail at From Lena's Kitchens, The Shopper's Guide at 240 W. Main St. or email us at scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com.
