Broncos pick up dominant road victory over Lena-Winslow

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Orangeville Broncos look like they haven't skipped a beat after graduating perhaps the program's best player of all time in Whitney Sullivan. Despite that, they have gotten off to a 7-1 start to the 2024-2025 girls basketball season.

Their two most recent victories are truly impressive as they picked up wins over the River Ridge-Scales Mound (RR-SM) Wildcats and the Lena-Winslow Panthers. These are two solid programs that were next in line to fall to the Broncos, who have established a six-game winning streak.

On Dec. 3, Orangeville's defense stood out as they forced 20 turnovers against RR-SM. Laney Cahoon wasted little time in getting the offense going as she dropped nine points in the opening quarter. That includes going three for four at the foul line. RR-SM immediately faced a deficit as the Broncos took a 12-7 lead into the second quarter. Laiken Haas gave her best effort to spark some momentum for the Wildcats as she rattled off eight points in the quarter. Despite that, RR-

SM put up just 10 points as a team in the quarter.

Meanwhile, the shots continued to fall for Cahoon. A pair of second quarter three-pointers helped to extend the lead. Nadalee Doyle also hit her second three-pointer of the game. By halftime, Orangeville held a 25-17 lead. The Wildcats always hung around but never quite erased the deficit. Haas caught fire in the fourth quarter, but it was too late.

Haas finished the game with 19 points as the Wildcats fell to Orangeville by a final score of 49-39. Campbell Hereau was the only other Wildcat in double figures with 10 points. Orangeville was led by Cahoon, who finished the game with 26 points. Doyle added 16 in the victory. The duo scored 85 percent of Orangeville's points.

Two days later, the Broncos hit the road to face off with the Lena-Winslow Panthers for the first time this season. Le-Win came into the matchup with an overall record of 3-3. They were 1-2 over their last three games played.

Around the Northern Hills

By ANNETTE EGGERS
Jo Daviess County Farm Bureau

What would Christmas be like without our country's strong agricultural base? The first thought that comes to mind is all the great food that we celebrate holidays with, but without agriculture, Christmas would be different in many ways. Agricultural products touch our daily lives in every way, and that's never more evident than Christmas.

Most of us don't have a place to cut out own Christmas tree. The Christmas tree, if you have a traditional Christmas tree, goes back to a Christmas tree farmer. We can also connect the dots between agriculture and the great food that we enjoy during the holidays. If you get a ham or a turkey, it goes back to the farmer raising the turkeys or the hogs. When you bake, whether it be bread or cookies, the ingredients have an agricultural base and come from a farmer.

Ag producers also deserve a lot of credit for many of the gifts we give and receive at Christmas. The belt, boots, or shoes that you get as a gift come from the leather of a beef farmer. Clothing gifts come from the farmer that raises cotton. Even some toys have roots in agriculture. So, whether it's that Christmas day turkey your family is enjoying or the gifts we share with one another during this special time, it all relates back to agriculture. While you're giving thanks this holiday season, don't forget to thank our farmers.

Back-to-back wins for the Blackhawks

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Stockton Blackhawks improved to 4-4 when they picked up victories over Lena-Winslow and Pearl City last week. The Lady Blackhawks got off to a bit of a slow start in the 2024-2025 girls basketball season. After losing three out of their first four, the Blackhawks eventually saw their record drop to 2-4.

That early season record should have been taken with a grain of salt. Two of their four losses came against an Orangeville Bronco squad that is now 7-1. They lost those points by a combined six points. Additionally, they lost to Winnebago by just six and fell to an undefeated Stillman Valley squad.

The Blackhawks got their season back on track when they picked up a couple of much needed wins last week. On Dec. 6 the Blackhawks returned home to play host to the Panthers. At the time, Stockton was fresh off a 37-32 loss to the Broncos, and the Panthers were 3-3 themselves.

Things were tight in the first quarter. The Blackhawks had four different players score in the opening quarter, led by Taylor Haas with four. Ireland Mensendike, Madie Mammoser, and Emma Eisfeller each added first quarter baskets for Stockton.

After taking just a one-point advantage into the second quarter, Stockton would begin to expand their lead. Katelyn Winters hit a pair of baskets and Dylann Broshous added her first of the night as the Blackhawks combined for 12 in the quarter. They held Le-Win to just six second quarter points, allowing Stockton to take a 22-15 lead into the break.

It was Le-Win who came out strong in the second half. The Panthers were looking to erase the deficit as they rattled off 15 points in the third quarter. Stockton struggled to get much of anything to fall outside of three-pointers from Winters and Mammoser. Those proved to be crucial as Stockton's lead dwindled to just two points heading into the final quarter.

It was Stockton's defense that stepped up big when they needed it most. Le-Win, battling through injuries, has struggled through the second half of games in the early parts of this season. Orangeville recently held the Panthers scoreless in the second half. Against Stockton, the Panthers put up just six points in the fourth quarter.

Those six points came by way of a pair of three-pointers. After allowing a huge comeback in the third quarter, Stockton regained the momentum with some lockdown defense. Offensively, they also hit some big free throws to insure the win. Kaydra Wright went three for four at the line in the fourth, which were her only three points of the game. They proved to be vital, as the Blackhawks won by a score of 41-36. Stockton was led by Winters, who finished with 11 points. Mammoser added nine in the victory.

Stockton continued to trend in the right direction when they traveled to take on the Pearl City Wolves on Saturday, Dec. 7. That afternoon, the Blackhawks improved to 500 as they picked up a comfortable win over a struggling Pearl City squad.

Farm Bureau Young Leader Hay Drive is a success

The Illinois Farm Bureau District 2 County Farm Bureau Young Leader Committees from Carroll, Ogle, Stephenson, Jo Daviess and Winnebago-Boone Counties held a Hay Donation Drive from farmers in the northwest region of the state in efforts to send forage to North Carolina to assist livestock producers in the area who were affected by Hurricane Helene earlier this fall.

The event coordinated donations to two drop points within the area, the Ogle

County Fairgrounds and the Stephenson County Fairgrounds for producers to drop off their hay to be loaded onto six semis to be sent to North Carolina. Overall, the donation efforts collected 145 round bales, 27 large square bales and 280 small square bales from area farmers to be sent to North Carolina. This project would not have been possible without the outpouring of support from the local communities.

The District 2 Farm Bureau Young Leader committees would like to extend our sincerest gratitude to Frank-fother Trucking Inc, for their supply of trucks and drivers, Carroll Service Company and Stephenson Service Company for their in-kind donation of fuel,

Helm Group for their donation of operators and machines to load/unload bales and Polo Co-op for their monetary support to the cause. We would also like to thank the individuals who donated money to the cause through each respective county farm bureau office. And last but certainly not least, we would also like to thank the more than 20 farmers in the region who selflessly donated forage to this project to assist producers in need.

OPINION

Slices of life

Don't be afraid of the 'C' word

By JILL PERTLER
Columnist

My journey through grief has been a public one, laid out for you here on these pages. Many of you have walked with me through the healing process, and for that I'm thankful.

It's funny (in a not so funny way) the things that help us heal. For me, much of the healing process has been lead by creativity – quite literally.

During the last four years, I've given myself lots of grace. Some of that grace involved the power to tap into my creative juices in whatever way felt right at the moment. In that, I became a Jill of all trades (or artistic endeavors).

I poured paint onto canvas, wax into candle forms and lye into liquid to make soap. I sculpted with cement, plaster, clay and stones. I twisted and tied rope, pool noodles and chicken wire. I built tables, trays, shelves and lamps. I embellished with glass, glitter and gold. Plus I've gathered heaps of random craft supplies, but that's another article.

Some of my projects look good, most didn't. Many were failures, but within the mix I was healing and learning.

Somewhere along the way, a kind friend asked if I might be able to share some of my hobbies with others. And in that, the student became the teacher.

What a gift that has been. Helping others tap into their own creative spirit is invigorating, rewarding and fun. But within these instructive endeavors, I've found that not everyone finds solace in creativity. In fact, there are those who believe they were born without the creative gene. They've even told me so. More than once.

"I'm not creative." I'd like to challenge that. We are all creative; I'll even take that one step further: we are all artistic.

Some people embrace and excel at these qualities more than others, but practicing creativity benefits every single one of us – much like exercise, a healthy diet, kindness and gratitude do.

Some people love exercising. They couldn't live without it and in many instances they are very good at it. I am not one of these people, but that doesn't mean the habit of exercising doesn't bring me great benefits.

The same goes for creativity. It does for the brain what exercise does for the body.

Creativity helps you think outside the box. Just yesterday, I took two perfectly good cardboard boxes and made a kitty bed with them. This task required math computations, spatial skills, textile manipulation and a whole lot of duct tape.

Creativity reduces stress. When you are focused on art, you cannot focus on the negativity in your life, even if it does involve an upcoming car repair. Creating art makes you forget about the everyday – even if just for a moment in time and that moment is priceless.

Creativity can boost communication. "Do you think this looks more turquoise, teal, or green?" Will solicit responses on numerous levels.

Creativity promotes flexibility and can increase your adaptability to change. When you want to paint your background color in turquoise, but only teal is available, you learn to make it work – or make an extra trip to the craft store.

Creativity can give your life purpose and meaning. If the meaning of life isn't defined by a magnetic succulent garden "planted" vertically on your refrigerator, I don't know what the meaning of life might be.

Finally, creativity can help you, me – all of us – live a longer and healthier life. It's true! If you purchase more craft materials, the gods of the universe understand you must use them all before you leave this earth.

Therefore, the acquisition

Those cows are sure smart

One of the coolest things about milking a barn full of 96 cows was that every cow was trained to know their own stanchion and to walk in the correct one each time they came in the barn. In the summer we got the cows in and hooked up two times a day, once in the morning after a night out under the stars, and again for the evening milking. In the winter the cows stayed in the barn all night, so they only had to come in and find their stall once a day. It really was a

By SCOTT CERNEK
Columnist

remarkable thing to behold how some of them would come in the door and turn up the first aisle and find their stanchion and some would walk right past to the second aisle and then turn and walk to wherever their stanchion

was. They knew just what they were doing.

We made every cow wear a chain or a strap with its number clearly identifying it so the workers could easily see who each cow was as it looked for its stanchion. To this day I look back in amazement at how smart those cows were to find the same stanchion each and every time they came into the barn. It usually only took three or four days to train a new cow or heifer to find the correct aisle and then find its place. It was almost always necessary to have two people getting the cows in because there were always a couple, new heifers in training on any given day. Occasionally, a sneaky cow would come in and try to quickly steal some of its neighbor's grain out of the manger next to her own. These cows were sneaky and quick and tried to get away with the deed before a human would come running and lock them up by the strap. We had forty-eight tie stalls facing each other in the middle of the barn and then twenty-four on each side of the barn which were stanchions that could be locked up twelve at a time with the pull of a lever. If everything was clicking, getting the cows in usually took about seven or eight minutes, but it could take twenty or thirty if there were five or six in training at the same time. Yes, cows are very smart.

One of my church men was trying to tell me that pigs are even smarter than cows, but I don't think I'm buying that. Although I have heard of people having pot belly pigs for pets and training them to use a litter box. Horses seem to be quite smart too. Once I was helping one of our Iowa beef farming friends round up and separate their beef cattle. The horse I was riding was so smart that it practically did all the work. It would turn on a dime at just the exact moment to separate the cow and calf, getting each of them to the right places they needed to be. Dogs can be trained to do amazing things as well. I was watching a sheep dog in a video the other day and it was actually running on the tops of sheep in a loading shoot to keep them moving along and into the trailer. I'm sure each of us have a memory of one of our pets that showed great intelligence. It's amazing how much brain power God has programmed in the animal kingdom.

Here's the difference between man and animals. The Bible says man is created in the image of God. The word image means that like God man has the ability to think and reason at a high level. Man chooses right and wrong and has been given free will to do so. Like God,

Applications now open for CFNIL winter scholarship cycle

Opening day for the Community Foundation of Northern Illinois (CFNIL) winter/main scholarship applications was Dec. 1. CFNIL is the region's largest private scholarship provider, with over 125 unique scholarships totaling over $550,000 to be awarded this year. There are three application cycles (fall, winter/main, and spring), each with its own application and timeline. Each cycle's application is accessed via CFNIL's online application portal at www.grantinterface.com/Home/Logon?urlkey=cfnil-scholarship.

The winter/main cycle accepts applications from Dec. 1 through Feb. 1. This is the primary cycle and includes over 125 scholarships. All applications must be submitted through CFNIL's online application portal. Students answer questions about their academics, background, and extracurricular activities. From these answers, applicants will be automatically matched to all scholarships for which they are eligible. Details about every scholarship and the application process may be found at cfnil.org/scholarships.

Each of CFNIL's scholarships was established by individuals or organizations that recognize the importance of helping students achieve their educational goals, now and in perpetuity. The donors selected the criteria for each scholarship, based on their interests and the community's need.

CFNIL scholarships are primarily for students in Boone, Ogle, Stephenson and Winnebago counties, and each scholarship has unique criteria. There are scholarships for graduating high school seniors, non-traditional students, students with financial need, student athletes, students of color, and students pursuing careers in teaching, STEM, business, fire science, healthcare, and many, many more. Some scholarships are renewable for up to four years. The diversity of scholarship offerings reflects the diversity of CFNIL's donors and the communities of northern Illinois.

Applications are read and scored by committees of volunteers who use a "blind" review process and make award recommendations to CFNIL's Board of Trustees. Scholarship recipients are announced in late April. Awards are sent directly to the school the recipient will be attending. Scholarship seekers should visit cfnil.org/scholarships to learn more and apply.

It's almost like creativity is the answer to many of the problems you've been facing. It's a release and an outlet that provides respite from the everyday problems of the everyday world.

Plus, at the end of it all, you might find yourself with a brightly painted canvas or

I, personally, give a thumbs up to that. (Just don't look at my thumbs, they're most likely all full of paint.)

Panthers start 1-0 in Blakely era

By Trenten Scheidegger
CORRESPONDENT

The Lena-Winslow Panthers came out on top of their season opener where they faced off with the River Ridge Wildcats. It was the season opener for both teams and a battle of first-year head coaches.

Mark Blakely is in his first year at the helm of Le-Win, while Jacob Green took over the River Ridge program. Green's Wildcats went 2-2 through their first four games of the season. They had bounced back from an 0-2 start with back-to-back wins over Orangeville and Polo. They fell below 500 once again when they dropped their game against the Panthers.

Despite River Ridge being at home and having a four-game head start on Le-Win, it was the Panthers who came out ready to play. Le-Win put up 13 points in the first quarter, while holding River Ridge to just five. Aiden Wild and Miles Mahon combined for eight points as the Panthers took the early lead.

Both offenses picked up the intensity in the second quarter. River Ridge began to find success from inside as they put up 15 points in the quarter. They were just three for eight from the free throw line in the second. Meanwhile, the Panthers didn't miss a beat. They didn't just maintain their lead, but they expanded it as Jaylen Rakowska and Koby Kearns caught fire. Rakowska hit his second three-pointer of the evening. Kearns put up seven points as the duo combined for 12 in the quarter, leading the Panthers to a 33-20 halftime break.

Le-Win continued to find success from all over the floor in the second half. Coming out of the break, Mahon sunk his first three-pointer of the season. Wild had a successful two for two trip to the line. Michael Mowery scored four points from inside. The Panthers looked like a team in mid-season form.

River Ridge managed to slightly close the gap as they put up 15 points in the third. Still, the Panthers would take a 45-35 lead into the final quarter. That 10-point advantage wound up proving to be the difference as the Panthers went on to win by a final score of 59-49. Mahon helped the Panthers cruise their way to victory with a 10-point fourth quarter performance. He finished the game with seventeen points, which led all scorers.

Kearns added 12 points in the victory, and Wild was the third Panther to finish in double figures with 10 points. Rakowska added eight in the victory. River Ridge was led by Damon Dittmar, who finished with 15 points.

On Dec. 13 the Panthers hit the road as they look to take on the Dakota Indians at 7 p.m. Dakota is off to a 4-1 start to the season as they look like a much-improved team.

Stockton immediately jumped out to a 13-4 advantage in the first quarter. Mammoser and Eisfeller each combined for eight points while Winters added an early three-pointer. Six different Blackhawks scored in the second quarter as Stockton combined for 16 points. Kacy Wright led the way with five points in the quarter, including an early three-pointer. Broshous added four as the Blackhawks took a big 29-10 lead into the break.

They were able to coast to victory from there as they went on to win by a score of 50-25. Mammoser led the way in scoring with 12 points, while Broshous was next up with nine. Kacy and Winters both finished with seven points in the victory.

On Wednesday, Dec. 11, the Blackhawks play host to the Morrison Mustangs at 7:15 p.m. They return home on Dec. 16 to play host to the Dakota Indians at 7:30 p.m.

we also feel and express emotions as well. Animals can be pretty smart, but they do not have souls that need to be saved from sin. The Bible says that even though man is sinful and that our natural ways are at odds with God, He died for us anyway. It's hard to believe that He could love us so much that He died to pay the penalty that we were supposed to pay so that when we believe in the Lord Jesus and receive Him as Savior and Lord of our lives, God pronounces that we are not guilty. He then gives us eternal life so we can live with Him in His glory forever. What an awesome gift! Until next week, God bless.

Those struggles continued for the Panthers when they took on the Broncos on Dec. 5. That day, the Panthers had 29 turnovers as a team. They finished the game with just 14 points as they were held scoreless in the second half. Ava Vlasin led the Panthers with five points. Orangeville was led by Laney Cahoon, who finished with 12 points. Kaylynn O'Haver and Alyse Cahoon were next up with 11 points each. Doyle added nine points in the victory.

On Dec. 12 the Panthers return home to play host to the Rockford Lutheran Crusaders. The Broncos return home on Dec. 14 to play host to the Warren Warriors.

Stephenson County Farm Bureau news

By Victoria Hansen

'Tis the season for Christmas Trees. It's that time of year when families are in search for that perfect evergreen tree to display in their homes for the Christmas season. I love driving through our county and seeing the lighted trees through the windows. But how much do you or I even know about Christmas trees? Keeping that in mind, I would like to share a few of my favorite facts about these wonderful trees.

There are approximately 350 million Christmas trees growing on U.S. farms. Christmas trees are grown and harvested in all 50 states. Top Christmas tree producing states are Oregon, North Carolina, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Washington, New York and Virginia. The first Christmas tree retail lot in the United States was started by Mark Carr in New York, in 1851. From 1887-1933 a fishing schooner called the "Christmas Ship" would tie up at the Clark Street Bridge in Chicago and sell spruce trees from Michigan to Chicagoans. I hope you will share these facts with your families while you pick out your perfect tree.

Carroll County annual meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Carroll County Farm Bureau will take place on Thursday, Dec. 19 at 11 a.m. at the Farm Bureau office located at 811 South Clay Street, Mount Carroll, IL. A light lunch was provided. If you have questions, please call our office at 815-244-3001.

Beneficial ownership information reporting

Effective Jan. 1, 2024, Federal law – the Corporate Transparency Act (CTA) – requires certain entities, including many farming operations and other small businesses, to report information about ownership to the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN). The CTA was originally passed to combat money laundering and organized crime funding, through numerous actions, including Beneficial Ownership Information (BOI) filing to FinCEN.

This filing requirement may affect nearly 5,000 farming operations in Illinois, including many family farms and partnerships. However, less than 11% of eligible businesses nationwide have filed their BOI. Those who don't report BOI to FinCEN by the Jan. 1, 2025, deadline* or who fail to update information in the future could face civil ($591 per day of violation)¹ and criminal penalties (up to two years imprisonment and a fine of up to $10,000).

IFB Young Leaders donate 41,527 pounds of food during Harvest for All Campaign

Recognizing tremendous need in their communities, Illinois Farm Bureau Young Leaders proudly raised more than $94,000 and donated a total of 41,527 lbs. of food and 501 volunteer hours during the annual Illinois Harvest for All campaign. "The IFB Young leaders continue to demonstrate remarkable commitment to fighting food insecurity in our communities," said Perry Harlow, IFB Young Leader Program Coordinator. "With these great accomplishments, our Young Leaders are making a tangible difference in the lives of Illinois families who struggle with hunger." He added, "These numbers reflect not just charitable giving, but the deep-rooted values of compassion and community support that are defined by the Young Leader's mission."

Each year, IFB Young Leaders through their local county Farm Bureaus support food banks with innovative food drives and donation campaigns to alleviate hunger. IFB is recognizing the CFB Young Leaders committees with outstanding programs and donation contributions.

FHN OB team presents PBA-OB program at national perinatal event

FHN's Perinatal Health-care team is sharing the impact of its Post-Birth Alert Orange Bracelet Program (PBA-OB) with the nation's perinatal care leaders. The leadership team recently presented at the Synova Perinatal Leadership Forum in Florida, a premier event for perinatal care leaders, highlighting the program's inno-native approach to reducing maternal mortality and improving postpartum care. The FHN Post-Birth Alert Orange Bracelet Program, one of the first of its kind in the nation, is focused on giving every new mother an orange bracelet to wear as an alert to potential medical complications. Alert bands are worn six to twelve weeks after delivery of their baby. The patient and her support person also receive focused education, utilizing the AWHONN (Association of Women's Health, Obstetric and Neonatal Nurses) Post-Birth Warning Signs guidelines, linking the importance of the Post-Birth Alert orange band and recognizing when to seek immediate care. Women in the first six to 12 weeks after giving birth face heightened risks of life-threatening complications, including hypertensive disorders, venous thromboembolism (blood clots), sepsis, cardiomyopathy, perinatal death, and substance use disorder. Recognizing these dangers, FHN developed the Post-Birth Alert Orange Bracelet Program, which includes all education, to empower EMS personnel and families to act quickly in emergencies and identify the orange post-birth alert band.

Region 1 EMS covers Jo Daviess, Stephenson, Winnebago, Boone, Carroll, Whiteside, Ogle, Lee and Dekalb counties. As a provider of curriculum and ongoing education, FHN created Post-Birth Alert education materials that are now an integral part of Region 1 EMS's on-boarding and annual competency training, ensuring that emergency personnel are equipped to identify and respond effectively to postpartum complications.

"If a woman has a medical emergency and isn't able to communicate, the bracelet will alert providers and emergency personnel of her postpartum status," said FHN OB Service Line Perinatal Educator Keri Schubert, BSN, RNC-MNN, C-EFM. "That fast identification can be crucial in saving that woman's life." Linn Carter, MSN, APN, NEA-BC, Director of Women's Health Services, has already seen the orange bracelet identification in action. "Within 10 weeks of implementing our program, our first post-partum mom, experiencing severe high blood pressures was identified and treated within 22 minutes of arrival to the emergency department due to being identified by the orange bracelet." The FHN Post-Birth Alert Orange Bracelet Program team has information available on postpartum risks, as well as program materials for EMS and medical professionals. Visit fhn.org/PBA-OB for more information.

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

After Thanksgiving, the weather really hit us with winter. The wind was whipping again, and the temperature plunged. It did warm up a little for the Christmas parade which was a great way to welcome Santa to town. This week's recipes feature some holiday dishes as well as some more Christmas cookies. Have a great week cooking!

Cranberry Cream Cheese Spread

This appetizer is super easy because it has such a few ingredients. It is different from the savory appetizers but would be great for any holiday party. Try the cranberry, apricot, and orange combination.

1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese
 1/2 C. dried cranberries, chopped
 1/2 C. chopped dried apricots
 1 t. grated orange zest
 Crackers

In a large bowl, beat the cream cheese, cranberries, apricots and orange zest until blended. Chill at least 1 hour before serving. Serve in a glass bowl with butter crackers.

Grape Salad

Vicki from our home Rock Valley Publishing sent this grape salad favorite that is perfect for any holiday meal. It is one that has been around before with different kinds of dressings. It is easy to make and delicious.

3 lbs. red and green seedless grapes
 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
 1 C. sour cream
 1/2 C. sugar
 2 t. vanilla

In a large bowl, mix the cream cheese and sour cream together until blended. Add the sugar and vanilla and blend with sour cream mixture. Stir in grapes. Refrigerate for at least 2 hours. You can cut the grapes in half to give them more surface for the dressing. Place in a pretty glass bowl for serving

Turkey Corn Chowder

To warm you up on these cold days, this hearty soup can use up some of that turkey you put in the freezer from Thanksgiving.

1 lb. thick sliced bacon strips, chopped
 3 celery ribs, sliced
 1 medium onion, chopped
 1 medium carrot, chopped
 1/2 C. chopped red onion
 1 bay leaf
 1/2 C. flour
 1 carton (32 oz.) chicken stock
 1 can cream of chicken soup
 1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
 1/2 C. 2% milk
 3/4 C. heavy whipping cream
 2 1/2 C. frozen corn
 2 1/2 C. cubed cooked turkey
 2 C. refrigerated shredded hash brown potatoes
 3/4 C. turkey gravy
 1 T. dried parsley
 Green onions and hard-boiled eggs for garnish

In a Dutch oven, cook bacon over medium heat until crisp, stirring occasionally. Remove with a slotted spoon. Drain on paper towels. Discard drippings, reserving 1/4 C. in pan. Add celery, onion, carrot, red onion, and bay leaf to pan; cook and stir over medium-high heat until vegetables are tender, 8 to 10 minutes. Stir in flour until blended; gradually whisk in stock. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly; cook and stir 2 minutes. Add soup, cream cheese, milk, and cream; mix well. Stir in corn, turkey, hash browns, gravy, parsley, and 3/4 C. reserved bacon; reduce heat. Cook, covered, for 20 minutes, stirring chowder occasionally. Discard bay leaf. Serve with remaining bacon. Garnish with green onion and chopped boiled eggs for garnish.

Chocolate Crinkle Cookies

I love these chocolate crinkle cookies. They go great with coffee, tea, or cold milk. They are a great addition to a cookie tray because they are pretty!

2 C. semisweet chocolate chips, divided
 2 T. butter, softened
 1 C. sugar
 2 large egg whites, room temperature
 1 1/2 t. vanilla
 1 1/2 C. flour
 1 1/2 t. baking powder

1/4 t. salt
 1/4 C. water
 1/2 C. powdered sugar
 In a microwave, melt 1 C. chocolate chips. Stir until smooth. Beat butter and sugar until crumbly. Let stand 2 minutes. Add egg whites and vanilla. Beat well. Stir in melted chocolate. In a large bowl, mix together flour, baking powder, and salt. Gradually add to butter mixture alternately with water. Stir in remaining 1 C. chocolate chips. Refrigerate, covered, until easy to handle, about 2 hours. Preheat oven to 350. Shape dough into 1-inch balls. Roll in powdered sugar; place 2 inches apart on baking sheets coated with cooking spray. Bake until set 10 to 12 minutes. Remove from pans to wire racks to cool completely.

French Christmas Cookies

These are unusual cookies in that they have a graham cracker consistency and look great in little foil cups. They have a great taste and make just the right size so that you can eat them along with other cookies.

1/2 C. butter, softened
 1 C. packed brown sugar
 1 C. 2% milk
 2 3/4 C. graham cracker crumbs
 2 C. finely chopped pecans
 2 C. milk chocolate chips
 Topping
 1/2 C. milk chocolate chips, melted

Preheat oven to 375. In a large bowl, cream butter and brown sugar until light and

Crohn's disease and Colitis awareness week

Inflammatory bowel diseases (IBDs, Crohn's Disease and Ulcerative Colitis) are chronic and relapsing/remitting disorders of the gastrointestinal tract. Of the more than ten million people in the world living with IBDs, approximately 1.6 million reside in the United States. There is no known cure for IBDs, so it is imperative for patients with these diseases to understand the mechanisms that contribute to the development of IBDs and how to control the symptoms. Therefore, the first week in December has been designated as Crohn's Disease and Colitis Awareness Week.

While Ulcerative Colitis (UC) primarily affects the lining of the large intestine (colon), Crohn's disease (CD) can involve any part of the GI tract, from the oral cavity to the anus. So, it should come as no surprise that poor oral health can contribute to exacerbation of IBD symptoms and IBD damage, flare-ups, and the medications used to control them can contribute to poor oral health.

To develop a cure for any disease you must fully understand the interplay of environmental and genetic factors that cause it. IBDs are not just caused by a genetic pre-disposition, but environmental and immune factors contribute to the development and severity of these two autoimmune diseases. In addition, inflammatory responses vary from patient to patient as well as over the duration of time an individual has the disease. Numerous medical research studies are being conducted around the world to try to understand why some people with IBDs oral symptoms and others have do not and if changes in oral inflammation and bacteria imbalances happen before or after similar changes in the gut.

What we do know is that patients with IBDs have a decrease of bacteria with anti-inflammatory capacities and an increase of bacteria with inflammatory capacities compared to healthy individuals. Further, in both patients who have periodontal disease and those with IBDs, this harmful bacterium triggers an excessive inflammatory response in their immune system, which in turn initiates tissue damage either in the bowel or at the tooth supporting structures.

In patients with oral disease, harmful oral bacteria can enter the bloodstream and induce the development of IBD via several mechanisms. These include destruction of the intestinal epithelial barrier, release of pro-inflammatory cytokines (small proteins that function as a chemical messenger in the immune system), disruption of the immune system (oral bacteria can migrate to the gut interrupting normal signal pathways) and an overstimulated inflammatory response.

While we wait for a cure for IBDs, medical and oral physicians around the world seek to educate their patients and the public how to mitigate the symptoms by recognizing and avoiding situations that trigger flare-ups. A healthy diet is not only a cornerstone for your oral health, but it is critical to control your IBD. Diets rich in saturated fatty acids, sugar and processed meats increase the risk of developing IBD and promote flare-ups and further damage. Conversely, a high-fiber diet has been found to reduce the risk of CD. Fruits and vegetables contain vitamins, minerals and fiber that not only promote gut health, but the way in which your gut bacteria metabolizes fiber produces beneficial metabolites that have an anti-inflammatory affect. IBDs affect how your body absorbs certain nutrients, especially during a flare up. Low levels of key vitamins or minerals makes you more susceptible to developing oral health symptoms. Angular cheilitis (inflamed lips), glossitis (inflamed tongue), aphthous ulcers (canker sores), halitosis (bad breath) and changes in how things taste or a bad taste in the mouth are some of the potential manifestations of a vitamin deficiency with IBD.

Some medications used to treat CD and UC can cause dry mouth. Your oral cavity relies on saliva to remove food and bacteria and neutralize acids. A decreased salivary flow increases the risk of developing dental caries. Your dentist can recommend dental toothpastes and rinses formulated to help with this decrease in saliva. He or she may also recommend fluoride rinses or trays if you are experiencing acid reflux and/or vomiting during flare-ups or extensive decay. Avoid toothpastes with Sodium Lauryl Sulphate, as this ingredient is caustic and has an astringent or drying out effect that can further irritate your dry oral tissues and mouth ulcers. Some Colgate, Oral B, and Sensodyne toothpastes are formulated without this ingredient, so check the ingredient list before purchasing.

Smoking does not just harm your dental health; it contributes to both the development and exacerbation of CD and UC. Patients who have IBDs and use tobacco products are much more likely to have more extensive disease symptoms, flare-ups, and damage.

There is correlation between the severity or exacerbation of oral symptoms with the severity of gut inflammation, so maintaining your oral health with regular check-ups, daily oral care, and a healthy diet, while avoiding the use of tobacco products, will have a positive effect on keeping your IBD in check. This in turn will help promote your oral health.

fluffy. Beat in milk. Gradually beat cracker crumbs into creamed mixture. Stir in nuts and 2 C. chocolate chips. Fill 2-inch foil baking cup lines three-fourths full. Place 1 inch apart on a 15x10x1 inch baking pan. Bake 10 to 12 minutes or until set. Remove from pans to wire racks to cool completely. Drizzle with melted chocolate; let stand until set. Store in an airtight container in the refrigerator.

Chocolate Snowballs

There have been a lot of white snowball cookies, but this one has chocolate in it. It makes for a pretty addition with the powdered sugar balls on a holiday cookie tray or use them for a great gift.

- ¾ C. butter, softened
- ½ C. sugar
- ½ t. salt
- 1 egg, room temperature
- 2 t. vanilla
- 2 C. flour
- 1 C. chopped nuts
- 1 C. (6 oz.) chocolate semi-sweet chips

Powdered sugar
Preheat the oven to 350. In a large bowl, cream butter, sugar, and salt until light and fluffy, 5 to 7 minutes. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Gradually beat in flour. Stir on nuts and chocolate chips. Shape dough into 1-inch balls; place 2 inches apart on ungreased baking sheets. Bake until set and bottoms are lightly browned, 15 to 20 minutes. Cool on pans 2 minutes. Roll warm cookies in powdered sugar. Cool completely on wire racks. If desired, reroll cookies in powdered sugar.

Cherry Bars

Everyone knows that I love a great bar cookie. This one has a cherry flavor which is different from a lot of chocolate cookies that are made at Christmas. Be sure to buy the cherry pie filling that has extra cherries in it; there are two kinds, and it is worth the extra money to get the more expensive pie filling with extra cherries.

- 1 C. butter, softened

- 2 C. sugar
- 1 t. salt
- 4 eggs
- 1 t. vanilla extract
- ¼ t. almond extract
- 3 C. flour
- 2 cans (21 oz.) each cherry pie filling

Glaze

- ½ C. powdered sugar
- 1 t. vanilla extract
- ½ t. almond extract
- 2-3 T. milk

Preheat the oven to 350. In a large bowl, cream the butter, sugar and salt until light and fluffy. Add the eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat in extracts. Gradually add the flour.

Spread 3 cups batter into a greased 15x10x1 baking pan. Spread with pie filling. Drop the remaining batter by teaspoonfuls over the filling. Bake 30-35 minutes or until golden brown. Cool completely in the pan on a wire rack.

In a bowl, mix in the powdered sugar, extracts and enough milk to reach desired consistency. Drizzle over the top.

Final Thoughts

There are a lot of events happening in Lena in the next few weeks. Breakfast with Santa will be Saturday, Dec. 14 from the 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Lena Fire station. The Le-Win Music Department is presenting a fundraising Christmas Variety Showcase on Sunday, Dec. 15 at 3 p.m. in the Fine Arts Center. Reservations are required.

We continue to encourage small business shopping. There are many great stores in Lena to buy gifts from: DeVoe Floral, Down Home Farm Toys, Home-town Trophies, Lena Drug Store, Dollar General, and Brandon's Hardware; fashions at Sweet Stitches, Head to Toe, and Ev Marie Boutique; Antiques and Collectibles at Lena Mercantile; Candy and gifts at Sweetie Me and meat and cheese gifts at A.J.'s and Torkelson

Cheese. Don't forget all the eating places we have to purchase gift cards: Café 17, Coaches, Garden View, Mulligans, Main Street Eats and Treats, Saporitos Pizza, Subway, Sullivan Foods, and Rafter's. We also have gas cards available at FS Fast Store and Casey's. And for everything else there is always My Friend's Closet Thrift Shop. You can buy a lot there for a little amount of money. Have a good week preparing for Christmas!

We are searching for recipes for Christmas cookies and candies, so send some favorites our way. We also will be looking for some holiday recipes as well as some soup recipes. If you find some recipes to share, you can contact us by email at scoopshopper@rvpublishing.com or by mail at From Lena's Kitchens, The Shopper's Guide at Rock Valley Publishing, 1102 Ann St., Delavan, WI 53115. Have a great week.
