Amid uncertainty in Washington, Illinois lawmakers pass slimmeddown Medicaid package Republicans object to coverage for asylum seekers, other noncitizens on special visas

By Peter Hancock CAPITOL NEWS ILLINOIS

Nearly every year, Illinois lawmakers pass a package of measures dealing with the state's Medicaid program, the joint federal and state health care program that covers low-income individuals.

Known as the Medicaid omnibus bill, it sometimes includes bold components, like a 2021 initiative that made millions of dollars available to local communities to help them plan and design their own health care delivery systems. Other packages have focused on smaller changes like guaranteeing coverage for specific conditions and medications or adjusting reimbursement rates for different categories of health care providers.

And most years, the packages receive bipartisan support because they are negotiated, largely behind closed doors, by an unofficial, bipartisan Medicaid Working Group.

This year, however, lawmakers passed one of the narrowest packages in recent memory, due mainly to the Trump administration's vows to make sweeping cuts in federal funding for the program while state lawmakers faced their own set of budget constraints.

"There were many, many, very worthy program expansions, rate increases that we considered during this process that we were unable to include because of the uncertainty in Washington," Rep. Anna Moeller, D-Elgin, the current chair of the Medicaid Working Group, said on the House floor.

The Illinois Medicaid program currently costs about $33.7 billion a year, according to the Department of Healthcare and Family Services. Of that, $20.9 billion, or about 62 percent, comes from the federal government while much of the state's share comes from taxes levied on hospitals, nursing homes and managed care organizations-money the state uses to draw down federal matching funds.

The program covers nearly 3.5 million people in Illinois, or about a quarter of the state's population. According to the nonpartisan health policy think tank KFF, the program pays for 40 percent of all child births in Illinois while covering 69 percent of all nursing home residents.

This year's Medicaid omnibus bill, a 231-page amendment inserted into Senate Bill 2437, contains items that could be hugely beneficial to many Medicaid enrollees, but which don't carry large price tags. In fact, the entire package is estimated to cost just under $1 million.

One of this year's additions would make it easier for family members of medically fragile children who qualify for in-home nursing care to receive training to become certified family health aides, a designation that would enable them to administer medications, help with feeding and perform many of the same tasks as a certified nursing assistant.

Another provision would require all hospitals with licensed obstetric beds and birthing centers to adopt written policies that permit patients to have an Illinois Medicaid certified doula of their choosing to accompany them and provide support before, during and after labor and delivery.

Although those provisions enjoyed bipartisan support, another provision that extends coverage to certain categories of noncitizens drew Republican opposition May 31, resulting in a partisan roll call vote.

The program covers noncitizens

your source for online news: RVPNEWS.COM

who meet the income requirements for Medicaid and have pending applications for asylum in the United States or for special visas as victims of trafficking, torture or other serious crimes. Those individuals can receive coverage for up to 24 months, provided they continue to meet the eligibility requirements.

Moeller said the language was not a new extension of health care benefits to noncitizens, but instead a "technical and administrative fix" to an existing program that had been requested by the Department of Healthcare and Family Services.

But for Republicans, the programs sounded too similar to the more controversial programs, Health Benefits for Immigrant Seniors and Health Benefits for Immigrant Adults, that extend health care to a large category of people who are not U.S. citizens, including some who are in the country illegally.

"For us on this side of the aisle, that is the poison pill," said Rep. Norine Hammond, R-Macomb, the deputy House minority leader. "So in spite of the fact that we have article after article in here, that is very worthy of a yes vote, I would urge a no vote."

At Gov. JB Pritzker's request, the budget bill lawmakers passed May 31 cancels the program for immigrant adults, which had covered about 31,000 noncitizens age 42-64. But it provides $110 million over the next year, all in state funds, for the immigrant seniors program, which covers about 8,900 noncitizens age 65

May 31, 76-39. It then passed the Senate shortly after midnight, 36-19. It next goes to Pritzker's desk for

In my opinion School resource officer urges state to stop flow of illicit vapes to youth

By Stefan Bjes

As a school resource officer with more than two decades in law enforcement serving Addison and DuPage counties and deep roots in Illinois schools, I strongly support HB2634. This bill represents a crucial step toward restoring order in our schools and shielding students from an industry that's exploiting regulatory gaps to target our youth. Every day, I witness the disruption caused by illicit vaping products in school environments. Teachers and administrators are exhausted. These devices, which look like highlighters, USB sticks, or candy wrappers, are flooding campuses faster than school staff can confiscate them. The problem isn't a handful of rebellious kids it's an organized pipeline of illicit, flavored vapes that These aren't harmless gadgets. These devices are made without supervision in unknown Chinese factories, using mystery ingredients and unknown materials. There are no ingredient lists, no quality controls—just colorful packaging and fruity flavors meant to hook children early.

HB2634 empowers our state to crack down on these products by holding manufacturers and distributors accountable and requiring clear certification that products meet FDA standards. For schools, this is a lifeline. It gives law enforcement and regulators the tools we need to identify what's legal, what's not, and how to enforce it.

We cannot expect schools to bear the burden of this epidemic alone. The rise in student vaping isn't a disciplinary issue—it's a public health and criminal enforcement issue. We need systemic, state-level action to stop the flow of these products at the source.

Illinois has the opportunity to lead. Let's pass HB2634 and give our schools the backup they need to keep kids safe, healthy, and focused on learning.

Weekly connection June, the month for weddings

June is wedding month, and my wife and I are celebrating our 39th anniversary in a couple days. It was back in 1986 when we tied the knot on a warm late spring day. I remember all kinds of relatives had made the trip up from Indiana and were staying at my folk's farm. It felt like a great big family reunion, and I actually felt a little sad that we were leaving on our honeymoon so quickly and I wasn't going to get to visit with all my cousins and aunts and uncles much. I know that sounds a little strange, but when we only saw these guys every couple of years it was kind of special. Then again, a wedding is pretty special too. Anyway, the wedding was amazing as my wife was absolutely stunning in her white wedding gown. I had seen my wife in a few nice prom dresses and such, but this was the best by far. We both come from big families so the bridal party was mostly our siblings. One of my older brothers who was a pastor officiated the ceremony and we had lots of music by friends and family members as well. At the end of the ceremony my dear old Grandpa Cernek was the first down the aisle and he had tears running down his face. He gave us a hug and said he was sure proud of us. I'll remember that moment until the day I die. It was powerful. Then all the people came through the line and headed downstairs for the reception. Soon we were cutting cake and sipping punch and getting ready to head down the road in hopes of making Yellowstone National Park in a few days. In those days we didn't really worry about hotel reservations and so when we hit Dubuque late on our wedding night, we found that all the hotels had no vacancy. We tried about five and finally I asked what was going on in town. Turns out there was a national cyclists convention going on and we had to drive on into the night in hopes of finding a place to stay. As fate would have it, we found a little hotel in the town of Manchester, Iowa, that had a small room where we could stay. It wasn't what we had hoped for on our wedding night, but at least we had a place to lay our weary heads after a long and grinding couple of days. When we got back home and were telling our story to family, it turned out that my wife's mom and dad also stayed in that same town on their wedding night about thirty years before we did. That was pretty wild.

We had a great honeymoon week going through the Badlands and then on to Wyoming where we went to Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons to name just a few places we saw. This year we are taking a trip out west again to celebrate our nephew's graduation in Montana. I'm sure the trip will remind us both of that first trip we took as a married couple.

Proverbs 18:22 reads, He who finds a wife finds a good thing and obtains favor from the Lord. Until next week, God bless..

NUIC West announces 2025 All-Conference softball teams

By Trenten Scheidegger CORRESPONDENT

The NUIC-West recently announced their 2025 All-Conference teams. This year, the NUIC-West was narrowly decided by one game as the Galena Pirates claimed a conference championship by going 9-1 in league play. The Fulton Steamers finished just behind the Pirates at 8-2 in the NUIC-West.

The conference championship wasn't the only thing that came down to a close decision. This year, the NUIC-West chose Co-Conference Most Valuable Players in East Dubuque's Curin Oberman and Galena's Ava Hahn.

The Warren-Stockton Warhawks finished in the middle of the pack as

they went 4-6 in league play. They went 14-11 overall, and they look to be one of the early favorites to make a jump, next season.

One big reason for that was the play of sophomore Madalynn Perry. The Warhawks were led by Perry as she earned a First Team All-Conference selection in 2025.

The Warhawks also had the most Second Team All-Conference selections in all of the NUIC-West. They had five Second Team players, four of which will return for next season. Senior, Maizy Fonseca earned a Second Team All-Conference selection. Joining her from Warren-Stockton was junior Adrianne Baker, sophomores Ireland Mensendike and Payton Goswick, and freshman Emma Janecke. The Scales Mound-River Ridge Hornets also finished with a 4-6 record in league play. This year, the Hornets were led by their senior Laiken Haas, as they went 12-16 overall. Haas, who has become a household name for the SM-RR co-op, earned a First Team All-

Conference selection, this year. Joining Haas on First Team All-Conference are a couple of players who should look to step into even bigger leadership roles, next season. Junior Sarah Winter, and freshman Ellie Rife, also earned First Team All-Conference selections, this season. Senior Anika Stadel also earned an honorable mention for SM-RR in 2025.

Stephenson and Carroll County Farm Bureau news

By Victoria Hansen

The town I grew up in didn't necessarily have the "local" ice cream shop. We typically went to Dairy Queen for our ice cream needs. Most of my favorite ice cream memories take place in a town less than 40 miles from both of my offices. Oregon, IL plays home to the summer camp I attended as a kid and the home of Jays Drive In. For those who haven't yet made it to Jays, it's an old school Drive In where you can order from your car and eat in the parking lot. While in high school I served as a counselor at the same camp I went to as a kid. It was standard that on Friday when the campers leave and we would finish our staff meeting we would head to get ice cream. There is rarely a time that I'll turn down ice cream. A few of my favorite ice cream flavors include coffee, eggnog, and butter pecan. In honor of my second column of June I want to share a few ice cream facts with you.

ers in the U.S. churned out 1.31 billion gallons of ice cream. The majority of U.S. ice cream and frozen dessert manufacturers have been in business for more than 50 years and many are still family-owned businesses. The average American eats roughly 19 pounds of ice cream each year, or about 4 gallons. All facts are from the International Dairy Foods Association. Don't forget to help celebrate June dairy month by saying 'yes" to a trip for ice cream.

IFB- backed deer nuisance bill passed by General Assembly

The Illinois House Friday night unanimously approved Illinois Farm Bureau-backed legislation addressing deer overpopulation, sending the bill to Gov. JB Pritzker's desk for his signature. "This bill is the result of meetings with constituents who annually have to deal with significant financial loss to their

In 2024, ice cream mak- deer and other wildlife," said state Rep. Norine Hammond, R-Macomb, chief co-sponsor of Senate Bill 710. "Working together with the Illinois Farm Bureau, Illinois Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) and those affected has resulted in a significant piece of legislation to address this problem."

A key provision of the new legislation requires the IDNR to update its Deer Removal Permit (DRP) procedures. Among the changes: IDNR biologists must respond to DRP requests within a specific timeframe, helping farmers address deer-related issues more quickly. The department must also publish clear information about the DRP process, including eligibility criteria and application instructions, on its website. These updates stem directly from farmer feedback and discussions with IDNR facilitated by county Farm Bureaus around the state.

"Agriculture is the ecocrops as a result of nuisance nomic engine of Illinois, but they become eligible for an many of our farmers have been bogged down by red tape that prevents them from eliminating nuisance wildlife until damage has already been done," said Rep. Marcus Evans Jr., D-Chicago, who was the sponsor of the legislation in the House. "I am proud of this bill because it empowers farmers and landowners to address problems proactively before they get out of hand. "For Saline County farmer and landowner Randy Anderson, the legislation could make a big difference.

In 2024, deer damage was so severe that he didn't harvest four acres of corn in a 36-acre field, meaning those four acres produced zero revenue to cover his expenses. Under the new DRP provisions, landowners like Anderson who harvest at least 50% of the deer authorized under a permit will automatically qualify for additional antlerless-only permits during the regular hunting season. If they fulfill 80% of the permit, additional nuisance permit --valid for harvesting up to five deer — usable between June 1 and Sept. 15 of the following year. "This is very encourag-ing," Anderson said. "Automatically getting permits for the next year would save so much time and hassle of me calling and asking a biologist to come to my farm, especially when sometimes there aren't enough biologists to go around."

Another provision allows landowners to designate a hunter to receive one guest landowner permit, which includes one either-sex permit and one antlerless permit for every 240 acres owned in Illinois. Anderson said this will also help him manage deer populations more effectively by enabling others to assist with the issue. Anderson has been involved in the legislative effort from the start. As a delegate at the Illinois Farm Bureau's Annual Meeting in December, he voted to include updates to wildlife management practices in the organization's policy book.

Now that this bill has passed through the General Assembly, he said, "It finally seems like our voices were heard." "That's one of the things I feel is an advantage when you get a group together like Illinois Farm Bureau. It's not just one voice, it's the voice of many," Anderson told FarmWeek. "It's great to see this much-needed, bipartisan legislation make its way to the governor's desk," said Anna McKinley, IFB assistant director of state legislation. "We're grateful to Sen. Patrick Joyce and Rep. Marcus Evans for their leadership, to the Department of Natural Resources for their collaboration, and to the many County Farm Bureau members who helped advocate for this important change." Pending Pritzker's approval, SB 710 will officially go into effect Jan. 1. For more details about the legislation, visit bit.ly/ DeerNuisanceBill.

THE SCOOP TODAY Wednesday, June Wild recaps 2025 Lena-Winslow softball season

By Trenten Scheidegger CORRESPONDENT

The Lena-Winslow Panthers finished the 2025 softball season with an overall record of 17 wins and 13 losses. They had an early postseason exit after falling to Pearl City in regional play.

It was also Joel Wild's first season as head coach of the Le-Win Panthers. In Wild's first season, the Panthers amassed two First Team All-Conference players, while being led by a strong group of seniors. After the NUIC-North announced this year's All-Conference teams, Wild took the time to share his thoughts on the 2025 season, the battles with Pearl City, this year's senior class, and more.

Overall, Wild was extremely pleased with his team's efforts in 2025. They fought their way through injuries and a tough schedule, while still in the win column. "We battled through losing some seniors to injuries for huge parts of the season, or the rest of the season. Eden Dietz would have helped significantly, but we're grateful she was able to work her way back by the end of the season," Wild shared on the fight he saw in 2025. Dietz was one of the key members of a deep senior Wild was fortunate class. enough to take over the program with a very experienced group of seniors to help lead the way. "The senior class is an incredible group. I have a daughter [Chloe Wild] in that group, so I have been around those girls a lot since we got here. They are all incredible, amazing human beings, great leaders, top students, etc. The school and community will miss having them around. The program especially will. Rachael [Setterstrom] and finishing above five hundred Maddy [Chiles] played a ton of softball and contributed so much to the program," Wild shared, complimenting the senior leaders.

and Chil-Setterstrom es highlighted the impressive group of seniors. Both of them earned First Team All-Conference selections in the NUIC-North. Wild had no shortage of compliments for either of them. "Rachael's career statistics are incredible. So consistent each year, while also improving and excelling. Maddy's as well. She's not a big, powerful pitcher, but she used her tools and turned into a great pitcher. Both girls deserve all of the accolades," Wild said of the two First Team All-Conference players.

Shayleigh Albright, Chloe Wild, Eden Dietz, Rihanna England, Madalyn Schierloh, and Jillian Goebel round out the 2025 class of seniors for the Panthers. Dietz was one senior that was sorely missed throughout the season. As Wild reiterated, "Dietz had great pop in her bat, unfortunately she lost a good chunk of her senior season." Dietz wasn't the only injured senior. England also came to mind for the Le-Win head coach. 'England worked her way into our DP spot before she suffered a season ending injury, but her last at bat in high school was a home run. You probably could hear her teammates cheering in the next town. It was fantastic," Wild reminisced.

Playing in the NUIC means playing a tough schedule, and the Panthers had to battle from start to finish. It all led up to a three-game war with the Pearl City Wolves. "Playing a team three times in eight days isn't easy," Wild said while discussing the series with Pearl City. After splitting two regular season games on May 13 and May 15, the Wolves and Panthers faced off in regional play on May 22.

Wild shared his thoughts on the regular season matchups and the regional game altogether. "The regular season matchups were fun and exciting, all while, I believe, both teams were working on a regional plan. We thought we had a good strategy on offense on how to approach [Mackenzie] Lotz's pitching and, for most of the game, we executed that. Unfortunately, they jumped on us in the top of the first, the first two homers we gave up all season," Wild shared.

Much like they did all season, the Panthers fought their way through their final game. "We battled and fought back, which I was proud of," Wild said. "It's something I was most proud of this season. Sometimes in previous years, in a big game, if we got down, we didn't always fight back. This year we did. That's one thing I hope carries forward."

The Panthers will look to move forward, but they will go through some significant roster change with this year's graduating class. Next year, the Panthers will have a lot of new faces on the field. Wild mentioned that the softball program has already begun training for next season, specifically in the weightroom and doing speed training.

There are a couple of players who made a name for themselves who will return next year. Injuries are never a good thing, but they open up some opportunities for other players to get a chance. Le-Win had some players step up when they needed it this year. "Brianna Fye and Addison Holtz really helped to stabilize the lineup after injuries and solidified our defense throughout the year," Wild said.

Fye has a bit of a unique approach at the plate, but it was one that worked in 2025. Wild complimented her ability to find a way on base, no matter how she got there. Between junior varsity and varsity games in 2025, Fye was hit by roughly 25 pitches. Wild called Fye a "tough kid" when complimenting her high on-base-percentage. On Holtz, Wild said, "Addison has a real nice bat and plays a solid first base. She will be one of our pitchers next year and I'm looking forward to having her around for three more years.'

After losing a handful of seniors, the Panthers will also need to reload their leadership. Wild already has a couple of players in mind. "I'm looking forward to having Ayla Brinkmeier and Kenzie Kepner having another year in the program. They developed a ton this year and have turned into leaders. Looking to see them continue to grow," Wild shared. "Olivia Fink is another one. She was our DP for a good chunk of the season, and she has pop in her bat. She had some big hits for us this year and has a high ceiling."

As always, the Panthers will have to fill a bunch of shoes in 2026. While some returning players will have high expectations, there will be opportunities for everyone. Wild even mentioned some freshman possibly competing for key roles on the team in 2026.

FROM LENA'S KITCHEN

The not so skinny cook

Summer continues to charge along with some sun and thankfully some rain. The gardens are growing, and we will soon be having some good things to eat. This week there are several recipes for the season and some for all year long. Have a great week cooking!

Nacho Cheese Spread

If you want an easy appetizer for any season, this cheese spread is a great one to keep on hand. The ingredients are easy to have at your fingertips. I really like the Multigrain Tostitos Scoops as a dipper.

- 8 oz. cubed Velveeta
- 2 T. Pico de Gallo
- 2 T. pickled jalapenos
- 2 T. sliced black olives

2 T. green onions, thinly sliced

1 t. chili powder

Microwave the Velveeta in a bowl until melted, about 1 minute, stirring until melted. Add the Pico de Gallo, pickled jalapenos, black olives, green onions and chili powder. Stir until combined. Place in a small crock pot that has been sprayed with baking spray and put on low. Serve with Nacho Chips.

Green Bean Salad

Green beans will soon be arriving in the farmer's markets as well as those gardens that were planted early. This recipe is a great combination of the beans, onion, and tomatoes. It is refreshing and a great way to use green beans. 2 lbs. fresh green beans, trimmed and cut into 11/2 -inch pieces

- ¹/₄ C. olive oil
- 3 T. lemon juice
- 3 T. balsamic vinegar
- $\frac{1}{4}$ t. salt
- 1/4 t. garlic powder
- ¹/₄ t. ground mustard

1/8 t. pepper 1 large Vidalia onion, chopped 4 C. cherry tomatoes, halved

1 C. crumbled blue cheese Place beans in a large stockpot; add water to cover. Bring to a boil. Cook, covered, 8 to 10 minutes or until crisp-tender. Drain and immediately place in ice water.

Drain and pat dry. In a small bowl, whisk oil, lemon juice, vinegar, salt, garlic powder, mustard and pepper. Drizzle over beans. Add onion; toss to coat. Refrigerate, covered for a least 1 hour. Just before serving, stir in tomatoes and cheese.

Creamy Blueberry Jell-O Salad

If you like blueberries, you will like this salad. I would use the blueberry pie filling with the extra berries. It costs a little bit more, but it has more berries and less filling. You can use either pecans or walnuts for the nuts. Chop them up finely rather than in chunks.

2 pkg. (3 oz. each) grape Jell-Ô

2 C. boiling water

1 can (20 oz.) blueberry pie filling

1 can (20 oz.) unsweetened crushed pineapple, undrained Topping:

1 pkg. (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened

- 1 C. sour cream
- ¹/₂ C. sugar

1 t. vanilla ¹/₂ C. chopped nuts

In a large bowl, dissolve Jell-O in boiling water. Cool for 10 minutes. Stir in pie filling and pineapple until blended. Transfer to a 9 x 13 glass dish. Cover and refrigerate until partially set about 1 hour.

Topping: In a small bowl, combine the cream cheese, sour cream, sugar and vanilla. Carefully spread over Jell-O; sprinkle with nuts. Cover and refrigerate until firm.

Poor Man's Meal

I mentioned several weeks ago that "poor man's meal" is all the rage in cooking magazines these days. The last one I had in used noodles for the poor man. This recipe uses potatoes for the poor man. The poor man eats pretty well in both of them.

1 lb. ground beef

- ¹/₄ t. pepper
- ¹/₄ t. garlic powder 5 large potatoes, peeled and
- sliced thinly

1 large sweet onion, sliced 2 cans cream of mushroom soup

 $\frac{1}{2}$ C. 2% milk

Minced fresh parsley

Preheat the oven to 350. In a large skillet, cook beef over medium heat until no longer pink. Drain. Season with pepper and garlic powder. Layer the beef, potatoes and onion slices in a shallow 2-qt. baking dish that has been sprayed with cooking spray. Combine the soup and milk. Pour over all. Cover and bake at 350 for 1¼ hours or until potatoes are tender. Garnish with parsley.

Chicken Pasta Casserole

This casserole is a great combination of chicken, tomato sauce and cheese. It is good for a special meal on the weekend. You can substitute Parmesan for the Romano cheese.

11/2 C. cooked penne pasta 1 T. canola oil

1 lb. boneless skinless chicken thighs, cut into 1-inch pieces

- $\frac{1}{2}$ C. chopped onion
- $\frac{1}{2}$ C. chopped green pepper
- $\frac{1}{2}$ C. chopped red pepper
- 1 t. dried basil
- 1 t. dried oregano
- 1 t. dried parsley flakes $\frac{1}{2}$ t. salt
- 1/2 t. crushed red pepper
- flakes 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 can (14 1/2 oz.) diced tomatoes, undrained
- 3 T. tomato paste
- ³/₄ C. chicken broth
- 2 C. shredded mozzarella cheese
- ¹/₂ C. grated Romano cheese Fresh parsley for garnish

Preheat oven to 350. Cook pasta according to package directions. In a large saucepan, heat oil over medium heat. Add the chicken, onion, peppers and seasonings; sauté until chicken is no longer pink. Add garlic; cook 1 minute longer.

In a blender, pulse the diced tomatoes and tomato paste, covered, until blended. Add to chicken mixture. Stir in broth, bringing to a boil over medium-high heat. Reduce the heat; cover and simmer until slightly thickened, 10 to 15 minutes.

Drain pasta; toss with chicken mixture. Spoon half of the chicken and pasta mixture into a greased 2-qt. baking dish. Sprinkle with half of the cheeses. Repeat layers. Cover and bake 30 minutes. Uncover; bake until heated through, 15 to 20 minutes more. If desired, garnish with fresh chopped parsley.

Root Beer Float Cake

What says summer more than a root beer float? This interesting cake takes the taste of the float and makes a great cake dessert. It doesn't have many ingredients, and it is easy to make. You can get Dream Whip at most local grocery stores.

1 white cake mix

1¾ C cold root beer, divided

2 eggs

1 envelope of Dream Whip In a large bowl, combine cake mix, 11/4 C. root beer, oil and eggs. Beat on low speed for 2 minutes. Pour into a 9 x 13 pan that has been sprayed with cooking spray. Bake at 350 for 30 to35 minutes or until a toothpick in the center comes out clean. Cool completely on a wire rack. In a small bowl, combine the whipped topping mix and remaining root beer. Beat until soft peaks form. Frost cake. Store in the refrigerator.

Rhubarb Custard Bars

I have had a recipe like this one several years ago. These are rich and gooey. It is a good way to use that great rhubarb.

2 C. flour

- 1 C. cold butter Filling:
- 2 C. sugar
- 7 T. flour

1 C. heavy whipping cream 3 eggs, beaten 5 C. fresh or frozen rhubarb, thawed and drained Topping:

6 oz. cream cheese, softened

 $\frac{1}{2}$ t. vanilla 1 C. heavy whipping cream, whipped

Preheat oven to 350. In a bowl, combine the flour and sugar: cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Press into a greased 9 x 13 baking pan. Bake at 350 for 10 minutes. Let cool for 5 minutes.

Filling: Combine the sugar and flour in a bowl. Whisk in cream and eggs. Stir in rhubarb. Pour over crust. Bake at 350 until custard is set, 40 to 45 minutes. Cool.

Topping: Beat cream cheese, sugar and vanilla until smooth; fold in shipped cream. Spread over top. Cover and refrigerate until firm enough to cut, about 1 hour. Cut into bars. Store in refrigerator

Shield law, university admissions, foster placement bills clear General Assembly

End of legislative session sees flurry of bills approved

By Bridgette Fox and UIS public affairs reporting More than 150 bills moved through the General Assembly in the final week of the legislative session and will make their way to the governor, including measures touching on drug approval, college admissions and foster placement.

House Bill 3637 aims to

prescribe drugs that were previously approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration but had the approval revoked, provided the drug is still recommended by the World Health Organization.

The bill is part of a larger trend of blue states adopting 'shield" laws-legislation guaranteeing the legal backing of medical providers from federal and interstate litigation, typically over abortion medications or vaccinations.

HB 3637 is sponsored by Rep. Dagmara Avelar, D-Ro-protect medical providers who meoville, and has more than two dozen co-sponsors. Under the bill, if the FDA pulled its approval of a drug any time after Jan. 1, 2025, it can't be considered "adulterated" as long as it's still recommended by the WHO.

> "This current administration has made it very clear that there are certain drugs that they would like to pull approval from," Avelar said.

> When a drug is considered adulterated, that means it's generally not normal or made to "conform with good manufacturing practice," like an FDA approved drug. Doctors, nurses and other medical providers can lose their licenses for providing adulterated drugs.

But the bill would make it so the providers would not be subject to the penalties provided in law for prescribing such drugs.

The law also includes provisions that the Department of Financial and Professional Regulation can't revoke or suspend the ability to practice medicine from a slew of medical professions based solely on the person's license, registration or permit status.

Speaking in opposition,

Rep. Bill Hauter, R-Morton, a practicing physician, said it was dangerous to base a drug's safety on a WHO recommendation.

"It's not just for a small amount of drugs here, it's for all the drugs," Hauter said.

Rep. Jackie Haas, R-Kankakee, also voiced concerns about whether insurance companies and Medicaid would cover non-FDA approved drugs when they're prescribed to patients.

The bill language does not touch on the formula for Medicaid or any requirements about what insurance companies must cover. However, Medicaid is required to cover the cost of any FDA-approved drug.

The bill passed the House 76-39, cleared the Senate 38-19 and awaits the governor's signature.

Automatic university enrollment

If signed by the governor, a bill would mandate high school seniors and community college students automatically be offered enrollment to all state schools for which their GPA qualifies them.

The bill does not change universities' and colleges' GPA standards or admission requirements. Schools can revoke a student's automatic admission if, after reaching out to the student, they discover they don't meet other eligibility requirements.

The main sponsor of House Bill 3522, Katie Stuart, D-Edwardsville, said the state wants to encourage students not to leave Illinois for other institutions

"Every student who is what we-I don't love the termbut college material, for lack of a better term, knows the opportunities that they have in higher education in the state of Illinois," Stuart said.

If it becomes law, the Illinois Board of Higher Education and the Illinois Community College Board would start the program during the 2027-28 school year.

It passed the House by a vote of 103-10.

Foster placement excluding traffickers

A bill clarifying that the Department of Children and Family Services can't place children in a household with anyone who has a history of human trafficking or sex trafficking is one step away from becoming law as well.

House Bill 871 cleared both chambers without opposition. Its chief sponsor Amy Briel, D-Ottawa, said it was brought forward because of an incident in her district.

However, House Republicans pointed out that a bill with the same intention, House Bill 4095, was introduced in a previous General Assembly by Republicans. Their draft came after a report was published by CBS News Chicago about DCFS placing a 16-year-old sex trafficking victim with a 24-year-old man with sex trafficking charges.

While the current bill and previous bill were similar, the previous bill would have amended one law. Briel's bill would amend two laws - the Child Care Act of 1969 and the Children and Family Services Act

Rep. Steve Reick, R-Woodstock, and the old bill's sponsor Rep. Tom Weber, R-Lake Villa, called everyone to vote yes for the bill despite criticisms toward Democrats.

"This bill could have been passed two years ago," Reick said. "And I'm wondering how many kids that this bill could have helped keep them out of bad situations.³

Illinois sheep producers learn of 'bright' options to make money

By Phyllis Coulter FARMWEEK

Sunshine might help increase sheep populations in Illinois, according to an Ohio sheep producer.

Camren Maierle, an American Lamb Board member, showed Illinois sheep producers photos of his sheep grazing on Ohio pastures in a field of solar panels. Solar grazing has become a big part of his business.

"There could be a decent amount of this in Illinois in the next couple of years," Maierle told Illinois lamb and wool producers at the Sheep Industry Day. There are about 55,000 sheep in Illinois, according to USDA.

Maierle predicts there will be more large-scale solar operations because of energy demand. "I want sheep on every one of those sites that are conducive to having sheep on them," he said.

"I^m not promoting solar panels, but if they go in, I want sheep there," he said virtually from Ohio at the University of Illinois event on March 22.

He sees it as a huge opportunity for sheep producers. "Our ability to capitalize on affordable feed is huge," he said of combining solar power and production agriculture, known as agrivoltaics.

Sheep are the animal of choice for solar grazing because they "fit" and cause less wear on the equipment than cattle or goats. "It's a risk mitigation industry," Maierle said.

Usually, a clover mix is used to graze three to five ewes per acre. Maierle said his goal, on well-managed pastures, is to graze eight to 10 sheep per acre.

He estimates that if a sheep producer grazes 500 solar acres, he or she could earn half a million dollars with 2,000 ewes if the lease was for $350 per acre. That's not counting any lambs. The competition for grazing solar fields isn't from neighboring sheep farmers, it is mowing companies, he said. Solar companies pay landscapers about $480 per acre per year to keep the weeds down. Comparatively, sheep grazers might charge $300 to $500.

"I offer an improved service of soil health and management for equal pay," Maierle said. "Energy companies eat that up."

Challenges for grazing sheep on a solar farm compared to a traditional lot or pasture include movement of solar panels and managing wires sheep must traverse.

As for marketing increased Illinois lamb production, Maierle said homegrown lamb could displace some of the lamb imported today. Between 60 percent and 70 percent of lamb consumed in the state is imported from New Zealand and Australia.

To help farmers take advantage of the opportunities, the American Lamb Board and the American Sustainability Growers Association (ASGA), are teaming up to offer solar grazing certification programs. Maierle will be one of the trainers at the new ASGA solar grazing training program June 11-13 in Kankakee. The three-day workshop costs $200.

"The certification program can help a sheep producer become a valuable service provider," said Maierle, who noted there are things farmers will learn as a sheep producer at the event, even if they aren't solar grazing now

Visit the website solargrazing.org to learn more about opportunities in agrovoltaics.

IN*CI*DENTAL*LY How side effects of weight loss drugs can affect oral health

As the use of weightloss drugs to manage diabetes and obesity in our country continue to rise, this week's column will discuss how these drugs may impact your oral health. Ozempic and Wegovy are brand names for the same injectable drug, semaglutide. We govy is approved to manage weight in adults and children 12 and up who have obesity. Wegovy is also approved if you are overweight with at least one related health condition including high blood pressure, type 2 diabetes and high cholesterol. Ozempic is approved to lower blood sugar when you have type 2 diabetes. Your doctor may also prescribe it to lower your risk of a heart attack or stroke if you have diabetes and heart disease.

Mounjaro and Zepbound are brand names for the same drug, tirzepatide. Mounjaro is approved to manage type 2 diabetes. Zepbound is approved for weight management in adults with a BMI of thirty or higher. It is also approved for patients who are overweight and have another health condition such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, type 2 diabetes, heart disease or obstructive sleep apnea.

While these drugs share some similarities in how they work, they have some important differences. When your blood sugar rises, a hormone created in your small intestine (GLP-1) encourages your body to make more insulin to lower blood sugar. While all four of these drugs can help control diabetes by mimicking GLP-

County Farm Bureaus are excited to announce we will be traveling to Fair Oaks, Indiana to explore their Dairy, Pig and Crop Adventure. We will enjoy a guided tour then have time for you to explore on your own. This trip will take place on Friday, June 20.

The trip cost includes tour admissions, transportation, all tips and gratuities, water on the bus. Dinner and lunch are at your own expense. Farm Bureau member price is $85 and non-member price $105. To register please call the Farm Bureau where you would like to be picked up: Carroll 815-244-3001 and Stephenson 815-232-3186.

1, tirzepatide (Mounjaro and Zepbound) can also mimic a hormone that your body makes after you eat (GIP). GIP increases your body's release of insulin after you eat to lower the sugar in the bloodstream. In people with diabetes GIP may be impaired, leading to reduced insulin release and high blood sugar.

These drugs help you to lose weight by slowing the passage of food from the stomach to the small intestine. This makes you feel fuller longer and reduces hunger signals to the brain, which in turn sends signals of fullness, reducing appetite and cravings.

While the most common side effects of these four drugs involve GI problems, side effects may also wreak havoc on your oral tissues. These include dry mouth, bad breath, changes in taste, and increased risk of tooth decay, and gum disease. They can also impact the length and duration of anesthetics and posttreatment analgesics and raise the risk of complications under anesthesia.

All four of these medications can reduce saliva production. Saliva plays a crucial role in protecting teeth by washing away food particles and neutralizing acids. Reduced saliva production can lead to changes in the oral microbiome, gum inflammation and an increased risk of cavities and tooth decay from acid erosion.

Nausea and vomiting, common side effects of these medications, can expose teeth to stomach acid, which can further erode enamel. Stomach acid reflux can affect taste buds and lead to a bad taste in the mouth. When your digestion slows, undigested food ferments in the gut, leading to gas production, including hydrogen sulfide. This can cause your burps to smell and taste like rotten eggs.

Staying hydrated, while avoiding acidic foods and drinks, eating slow and stopping as soon as you start to feel full, practicing proper oral hygiene, and seeing your dentist regularly can help prevent acid reflux and mitigate the risk of acid erosion.

Slow digestion delays the emptying of the stomach. Food or liquid in your stomach can put you at risk for aspiration during certain dental procedures, especially procedures that require sedation. These medications can also put you at risk for hypoglycemia (low blood sugar), which increases your risk of complications while sedated. For these reasons, The American Society of Anesthesiologists recommends discontinuing these medications before surgery.

This is just one more example of why it is crucial that you keep your health history up to date, including all medications that you are taking. This allows your dentist to prevent complications by creating a treatment plan that takes into account both your individual health concerns and any potential risks associated with your medications.
